

Bluffton Seafood & Arts Festival

of fine art and the bounty of the sea!

The citizens of the Town of Bluffton, SC, had and continue to express the need to protect and maintain the pristine quality of the May River and the historic Bluffton Oyster Company, as they are both instrumental to the very essence of the community. "As Bluffton continues to grow, it is paramount that we continue to introduce our citizens, old and new, to these precious Bluffton gems. Festivals are like magnets, they attract the young and old, rich and poor, locals and transplants, all to celebrate their community," said Dan Wood, Festival Founder.

Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, Offers Exhibit Featuring Daufuskie Island

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, will host an exhibit featuring Daufuskie Island, starting Oct. 5 and running through Dec. 31, 2018. A reception will be held on Oct. 11, 2018, from 5-7 pm.

Hilton Head Island's neighbor to the south is Daufuskie Island. The southernmost point of South Carolina, Daufuskie Island is nestled between Mungen Creek, the New River, the Cooper River and Calibogue Sound. No bridge connects the island to the mainland.

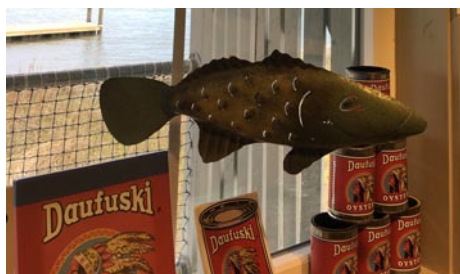

Living on Daufuskie has inspired woodworkers, writers, weavers, painters, potters, photographers, rum distillers, indigo dyers, sculptors, and soap makers. Join us at the Coastal Discovery Museum to explore the varied talents of these Daufuskie Island residents.

Tours, talks, gallery walks, and book signings will be planned during this exhibition. Please check (www.coastaldiscovery.org) for more information.

The Daufuskie Blues studio of artisans Leanne Coulter and Rhonda Davis, is located in the Mary Field School between the 1880s First Union African Baptist Church and the Frances Jones House (now a bed and breakfast with a morning meal cooked by celebrity chef and author Sallie Ann Robinson). Coulter and Davis discovered a mutual love of indigo and specialized dyeing techniques that add a luscious blue hue to their wares.

Lynell Linke discovered a knack for woodworking and farmwork as she milled lumber and made goat cheese at the Daufuskie Community Farm. Pat Beichler, who started the farm in 2010, will offer her glee prints.

With scenic beauty at every turn, Daufuskie provides an endless source of subject matter for photographers Dennis Sutcliffe, Holger Opderbeck and Monica Ferguson, who also finds inspiration using oyster shells in her sculptural work.

Mike Loftus built a state-of-the-art shop as a place to hone his craft (and build them as well) and to teach woodworking skills to interested islanders. One of his wooden boats will be a focal point in the museum gallery.

Chase Allen and his Iron Fish Gallery create decorative sea-life inspired pieces that are found in homes all over the world.

John Thompson, Pattii Bschorr, Jan Ross, Sharon Havird, Bill Greenwood, Carol Tait, Erica Veit, and Sally Lesesne paint on canvas and board depicting Lowcountry scenes each with their own unique style and technique.

Sara Deitch, Kate Woodward, and MacKenzie Blankenship work with textiles to create scarves, pillows and other household and personal accessories.

Leather-worker Sierra Smith makes bracelets and Jan Crosby crafts handmade soaps and lotions. A limited number of pieces from Silver Dew Pottery will also be available.

The handiwork of these Daufuskie Island artists and artisans will be complemented by written work by storied author Roger Pinckney XI, Wick Scurry, of Daufuskie Difference and Freeport Marina, and Sallie Ann Robinson and Jenny Hersch with "Daufuskie Island" a new offering from Arcadia Publishing's Images of America series.
