Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts. College of Charleston School of the Arts,161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through Dec. 6 - "Jumaadi: forgive me not to miss you not". In recognition of Charleston's history as a significant international port city, the Halsey Institute provides a platform for the exchange of different cultural traditions through an international artist-in-residence program. For the fall 2014, the Halsey Institute has invited Jumaadi, a contemporary multimedia artist from Indonesia, to participate in a 2-month artist-in-residence. During the residency, Jumaadi will be creating new work to be exhibited at the Halsey Institute, including paintings and drawings as well as a series of contemporary and historical Indonesian shadow puppets. He will also be working on a special project with students at the Academic Magnet High School in North Charleston to create an evening of shadow-puppet theater to be presented at their school. Through Dec. 6 -"Unknown Picassos: Diurnes". A largely unknown work from 1962, "Diurnes" is a box decorated with color lithographs by Picasso containing 30 original photograms made by a then-young unknown photographer, André Villers, under Picasso's instigation to "play with" some paper cutouts he had done for his grandchildren shortly after Matisse's death, in 1954. One thousand boxes were produced by Berggruen in Paris in 1962, with lithographs of the photograms, along with an 18-page poetic script by Jacques Prévert. Each image is precisely numbered and titled in its own paper folder. On top of the 30 images is a separately bound, beautifully printed, 18-page poetic, script-like text written by one of Picasso's closest friends, the French poet, film writer (Les Enfants du Paradis his signal achievement), prolific song writer, and collage artist Jacques Prévert. The text presents readers with a set of characters and dialogues relating to the images. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 11am-4pm and open till 7pm on Thurs. Contact: Mark Sloan at 843/953-4422 or at (www.halsey.cofc.edu).

Redux Contemporary Art Center, featuring Redux Studios, 136 St. Philip Street, Charleston Through Nov. 26 - Redux welcomes two concurrent exhibitions by Natalie Abrams and Cedric Tai. Abrams' work will be on view in the main gallery. Tai will take over the wall of Redux with a mural, and have an installation in the lobby, immediately as you enter the front doors of Redux. Natalie Abrams states, "My sculptures consist of vibrant and delicate creatures and environments made from organic and synthetic materials. These playful structures break down to reveal fragile underpinnings of a system in flux, examining the parallels between relationships present in bio-diverse ecosystems and those in urban environments. This work explores the impact on those relationships as we continue to neglect our future for the sake of our present." Cedric Tai, an artist and educator, was born in Detroit, MI, in 1985. He grew up in Northville, MI, and received his MFA from the Glasgow School of Art. He worked as an educator at both the College for Creative Studies, the Museum of Contemporary Art Detroit and the Detroit Institute of Arts. Tai is a 2009 Kresge Artist Fellow in the Visual Arts. He has been published in "2HB", volume 16 and volunteers and blogs for "The Glasgow Miracle: Materials for Alternative Histories" an AHRC funded project in collaboration between the CCA and the Glasgow School of Art.. ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Clemson Brooks Center Lobby, Brooks Center for the Performing Arts Lobby, Clemson University, 141 Jersey Lane, Clemson. Through Dec. 5 -"Decoding the Shape of Future Recollections". This exhibit features a survey of work exploring abstraction from the Clemson Architecture Foundation Collection showcasing a range of approaches to abstraction from figurative to landscape and from objects to architecture. Works were selected for their use of elements and principles of design as tools to assist in the decoding of meaning and content within the work. As viewers move through the exhibition the level of abstraction intensifies requiring increased visual engagement and reflection to deduce the artists' intent. By actively reading the visual clues the viewer stretches their interpretation skills towards layering future recollections when engaging with abstract works of art. Artists included in the exhibition
