International African American Museum Sets 2023 - 2024 Exhibition Line-Up

The International African American Museum (IAAM), in Charleston, SC, which officially opened June of 2023 to the public, has lined up three major national and international exhibits that will be on display from Dec. of 2023 and run through Nov. of 2024.

The first exhibit, Creative Gathering: A Space for Gathering, Fellowship, and Reflection Creative Gathering is an exhibition curated from the permanent collection of the International African American Museum. It draws cultural and thematic parallels from throughout the diaspora, while it invites visitors to rest and reflect on their museum experience. Creative Gathering is an airy, open space designed to facilitate museum programming and public events. This exhibit starts on Dec. 14, 2023 and runs through Jan. 15, 2024.

Feeling the Future: Ming Smith will be on exhibit from Jan. 31 through Apr. 28, 2024, and will explore artist Ming Smith's unparalleled and under-recognized career from the early 1970s through the present.

As Smith's first solo exhibition at a major institution, it encompasses a multitude of artistic expressions to represent her vibrant and multi-layered practice, which is grounded in portraiture, as it amplifies the heartbeat of Black life in the United States. Drawn from the full complexity of Smith's oeuvre, Feeling the Future places works from the artist's five decades of creation in conversation with one another, while it embraces the cultural movements she witnessed and participated in. Exploring themes such as Afrofuturism, Black cultural expression, representation and social examination, the exhibit offers a guided tour into unperceived moments of life as captured by one of the most profoundly gifted artists of her generation.

Follow the North Star: Freedom in the Age of Mobility Throughout African American History is slated to run May 23, 2024 through Nov. 3, 2024. This exhibition portrays the destination of "freedom" as it proves to be an elusive location. The search for this "promised land" has taken many forms, including travel, migration, and imagination.

Follow the North Star: Freedom in the Age of Mobility, explores this multifaceted journey through three distinct perspectives: Transportation, The Great Migration, and Spirituality/Imagination. In this multimedia exhibition, visitors will learn about historic events related to African Americans' search for freedom, as well as lesser-known forms of escape, including folklore, storytelling, and metaphysical travel. From the Montgomery bus boycotts, to Afrofuturist visions of other planets, visitors will be encouraged to see the African American journey through a renewed lens, one of possibility and agency.

Charleston Artist Guild Gallery in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Vanessa Grebe

The Charleston Artist Guild Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present Unconstructed Realities, an exhibition featuring artwork by Vanessa Grebe, on view from Dec. 1 - 31, 2023. A reception will be held on Dec. 1, from 5-8pm.

Grebe is an emerging artist currently living and working in Southern Pines, NC. She works exclusively in oils and her genres include equestrian and figurative art. Her work is known for its use of color and wit.

Grebe states, "My art is eclectic and has no solitary theme. I love the process of painting from that first idea to the early sketch and then on to the canvas. Watching my work unfold lifts my spirit. I am in awe of the possibility that lies within a tube of paint. When someone loves my work enough to bring it into their home I am truly humbled. My work has inspired, brought people together and healed. It is a gift to be a part of."

through a $1 million gift from the Michelin Foundation. As one of the museum's founding donors, Michelin has been a leader in philanthropic investment to launch and support the International African American Museum, including as the presenting sponsor of Follow the North Star, IAAM's first traveling exhibition.

"The special exhibitions gallery at the IAAM is the one place in the entire museum where we expect to transform the space every time we bring or produce a new experience for our audience. To deepen that ambitious goal, in our first 12 months of operation we will turn the gallery five times. These three exhibitions, two internally produced and one a traveling exhibition from Contemporary Arts Museum-Houston, will offer visitors an opportunity to discover African American culture through contemporary art, photography, immersive technology, and powerful and compelling narrative. We're grateful to our donors and team for such generosity and care in making these three shows possible, and we can't wait to share them with the community," noted Malika Pryor Martin, chief engagement and learning officer for IAAM.

The International African American Museum (IAAM) explores the history, culture, and impact of the African American journey on Charleston, the nation, and the world, shining light and sharing stories of the diverse journeys, origin, and achievements of descendants of the African Diaspora. Across eleven galleries and a memorial garden with art, objects, artifacts, and multimedia interaction, IAAM is a champion of authentic, empathetic storytelling of American history. As a result, the museum will stand as one of the nation's newest platforms for the disruption of institutionalized racism as it evolves today. The mission of IAAM is to honor the untold stories of the African American journey at the historically sacred site of Gadsden's Wharf and beyond.

On Our Cover

On our cover this month is a couple of works from the exhibit Pent Up Pink, featuring works by Fleming Markel, on view in the Main Gallery at the Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, from Dec. 1 through Jan. 24, 2024. A reception will be held on Dec. 1, from 6-9pm. Read about the exhibit on Page 12.

Buy Art For The Holidays

It's my year end mantra - asking readers to buy art for holiday gifts, for family, friends, loved ones and yourself. Amazon doesn't need anymore profits, the big box stores don't need anymore profits. Who needs a little profit? Artists need some profits. They are counting on some holiday sales to get them through the dog days of Winter.

You've seen those commercials by Esty showing people how to get unique gifts from creative people. Esty's OK, but why give a cut to them when you can buy from artists in your own community? Or support art galleries and art organizations by purchasing art through them. These profits trickle down throughout your own communities - not going to buy a bigger yacht for some overpaid executive or a ride into space.

And, we're not just talking adults here - young folks can do with a little art themselves - over another video game. You could purchase art lessons at a local art center, arts & crafts kits for at home activities, or some small craft items.

For Aunts and Uncles, you could take someone to an art exhibit at a commercial art gallery or an art museum. A really fun trip would be to one of the many art walks, art crawls or art strolls taking place all over the Carolinas. That's a real gift - getting a peek at the crazy art world in a party atmosphere.

It works both ways - you young folks could take an aging Aunt or Uncle to an art walk as a holiday gift.

And, for those of you out there who have plenty of money to spare - you know who I'm talking about - you could make a year-end donation to one of the many non-profit art organizations out there. Buy yourself a gallery named after yourself or a new wing of your favorite art museum. You can't take the money with you when you pass on to - let's say greener pastures and if you got that money by nefarious means - it's just going to burn up where you're going anyway. Of course if you are as bad as the Sackler family, they'll just strip your name off those galleries and wings after the world finds out about you - but then you might be dead already and you won't know it. So use the dirty money to buy some good publicity while you can. Of course if you're as smart as the Murdochs out there, you'll buy yourself a media empire to lie about all those dirty deeds.

Enough about those folks - I'm speaking to all the good folks out there - who are already planning to make art their mode of gift giving this year. You know a gift of art can last forever, not just through the end of January.

Year End Wish

I wish that when people post news about exhibitions on social media, that they would include the beginning and ending dates for the exhibit as well as the date of the reception - including times of the reception. It's as if gallery owners only expect people to come to the reception for a couple of hours and never come again to look at the art or better yet, buy art. Everybody can't be a party animal - some people have lives and obligations and might not be able to do receptions.

International African American Museum in Charleston, SC, Offers Exhibit Focused Holiday Observances

The International African American Museum (IAAM) in Charleston, SC, has set in place the next exhibition, Creative Gathering: A Space for Gathering, Fellowship, and Reflection, along with holiday observances and events running from Dec. 14, 2023, through Martin Luther King Jr. Day on Jan. 15, 2024.

The exhibition, which will be curated from the permanent collection of IAAM, is a month-long showcase that invites the community to delve into a cultural and thematic exploration of the African diaspora. It includes a series of seasonal celebrations designed to reflect IAAM's commitment to fostering an understanding of African American history and its global impact.

The Creative Gathering opening kicks off with a reception on Dec. 14, at IAAM, 14 Wharfside Street, in downtown Charleston. Guests will have the opportunity to engage with artists whose works are featured in the exhibition and the museum's broader collection. They may also partake in a self-guided tour of the entire museum from 7-9pm that evening. Guests can register for the reception and tour at (iaamuseum.org).

Other special celebrations and events, all of which will be held at the museum, include: A Kwanzaa Celebration I Storytelling, from Dec. 26 - 29, 2023, from 1-2pm.

The City of North Charleston, SC, will present two concurrent solo exhibits, featuring works by Melissa Meverden and Daisy McClellan, on view in the Park Circle Gallery, from Dec. 1 - 30, 2023. A reception will be held on Dec. 1, from 5-7pm.

The City of North Charleston's Cultural Arts Department is pleased to announce concurrent solo exhibitions of mixed media and fiber works by Melissa Meverden (North Charleston, SC) and Daisy McClellan (Charleston, SC).

Rick Rubin once said, "The act of creation is an attempt to enter a mysterious realm. A longing to transcend. What we create allows us to share glimpses of an inner landscape, one that is beyond our understanding. Art is our portal to the unseen world." Inspired by this quote, local artist Melissa Meverden presents My Heart is a Forest, an exhibition of mixed media and fiber works that explore nature and intuition.

"When I reflect on what the mysterious realm of creativity looks like, I imagine a primeval forest - full of changing light, meandering paths, and layers of rich color and texture," Meverden explains. "The works featured in this exhibition serve as artifacts from journeys into that dense speaker rather than an artist. After she became a teacher and later, a parent, she became interested in intentionally pursuing creative hobbies to give herself some "me time" to relax and unwind. A few courses in calligraphy soon led to learning about watercolors, gelli-printing, stamp-carving, collage, resin pouring, book making, art journaling, fiber arts, and more.

In the last decade, making art has become a regular staple in her daily life - no longer just a hobby, but a driving passion. Meverden currently works from her home studio in North Charleston, SC, leads art workshops for kids, teens, and adults throughout the Lowcountry, participates in a number of group shows and local vendor markets, and is the lead organizer of the North Charleston Artist Guild.

In Unfinished Business, Daisy McClellan explores the idea of restarting the life of abandoned projects and forgotten materials. McClellan has always been fascinated by the stories that handmade items hold. She often receives donated half-finished crafts that were stashed away in a drawer to be completed at another time; a time that never came due to the whims and demands of life.

In other instances, McClellan stumbles upon unfinished textile pieces that were once carefully packed away in an attic box, ultimately making their way to the thrift shop. Too important to be thrown in a landfill, McClellan has decided to give these items another chance at life, adding her own point of view while paying homage to their rich pasts. "Who started these items, what did they mean to them, and what would they think about how they have been manipulated," McClellan wonders. By taking on the unfinished business, a new chapter has emerged.

McClellan has always loved painting, fiber art, and partaking in traditional crafts. At Smith College she studied Studio Art and Spanish, which led to working in advertising and branding. Meanwhile a jewelry making hobby rapidly turned into a full-fledged business. In 2014, she and her husband opened gather, a brick-and-mortar retail shop in San Francisco where they featured over 200 artists and hosted creative workshops. In addition, McClellan designed a clothing collection for women and young children, founded a bi-annual shopping market for local boutiques, and worked with several artists on joint collaborations.

In early 2020 McClellan sold the business to move to Charleston, SC, with her family. She teaches workshops, camps, and retreats throughout the country that range from fiber arts to natural dyeing. She also exhibits her work in solo and group shows throughout the Charleston area. In 2021, she was selected as a visiting artist at the Gibbes Museum of Art, followed by a solo show at the Museum in 2022. She currently works from her studio at Redux Contemporary Art center in downtown Charleston and sells her pieces and DIY craft kits at the Gibbes Museum of Art, the Charleston Museum, and her online shop.

The Park Circle Gallery is located on Jenkins Avenue in North Charleston. Admission is free and free street parking is available on Jenkins Avenue in front of the gallery, as well as on the adjacent streets and in parking lots close by.

Corrigan Gallery llc in Charleston, SC, Features Works by John Moore

Corrigan Gallery llc in Charleston, SC, will present Rust Never Sleeps, featuring recent photographs by John Moore, on view from Dec. 1 - 30, 2023. A reception will be held on Dec. 1, from 5-8pm, during the Charleston Gallery Association artwalk.

"These photographs are part of the never-ending series that is Rust Never Sleeps," says Moore. He has been photographing rust over the last 30 years. As a structural engineer by day trade, the attraction to rust as imagery is either an irony or a natural addition to his structural work (or both!).

Moore has been a lifelong nature lover with photography as his companion over the decades of hiking and investigating its wonders. Photography has been his serious avocation and passion for almost 45 years. Since 1984 Moore's photographs have been winning awards and appeared in many juried exhibits, including several "Southern Visions" exhibits at The Museum of York County in Rock Hill, South Carolina, several Piccolo Spoleto Juried exhibits here in Charleston and the Sierra Club Nature Photography exhibits.

Moore has had several solo shows at the Charleston County Library and participated in many group exhibitions. Moore was a charter member of the South Carolina Photographers' Guild in 1990. Also, that year, the South Carolina Joint Legislative Committee on Cultural Affairs, and the South Carolina Arts Federation chose one of Moore's images to be the given as the award for South Carolina Business and the Arts Partnership Awards. He is recently featured in an article in Charleston Magazine.

Corrigan Gallery llc represents local artists with a few exceptions of visiting and second market artists. From the edge of traditional to as "contemporary" as is feasible, the gallery presents works with thought and depth particularly in a nontraditional manner. Second market pieces are also available and works from the estates of both Elizabeth O'Neill Verner and Alfred Huty and other notable artists.

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be Dec. 24th for the January 2024 issue and Jan. 24 for the February 2024 issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month.

Dare Gallery in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Jim Darlington

Dare Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present Coastal Concerto: A Suite of Portraits & Landscapes, featuring works by Jim Darlington, from Dec. 1 - 22, 2023. A reception will be held on Dec. 1, from 5-8pm.

Esteemed artist Jim Darlington, known for his captivating portrayal of the coastal landscape, is set to mesmerize art enthusiasts with his latest exhibition, Coastal Concerto: A Suite of Portraits and Landscapes.

"In my recent musically titled paintings, I have used a palette knife and exaggerated colors to convey the warmth and vibrancy of the Lowcountry landscape," says Darlington, whose passion for capturing the essence of nature is evident in every brushstroke. Drawing inspiration from the words of artist Paul Cezanne, who believed that painting from nature is not merely copying but rather realizing one's sensations, Darlington brings forth a collection that goes beyond replication, immersing the viewer into a world of emotions and interpretations. With each stroke of his palette knife, he invites viewers to explore the rich tapestry of the region, evoking a sense of connection to the natural world.

Darlington's artistic exploration has been marked by a passion for portraying the beauty that surrounds us. Through his exceptional talent, Darlington encourages audiences to embark on a journey where the

Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Fleming Markel

The Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, will present Pent Up Pink, featuring works by Fleming Markel, on view in the Center's Main Gallery, from Dec. 1 through Jan. 24, 2024. A reception will be held on Dec. 1, from 6-9pm.

Work by Fleming Markel

Markel's sculptures question and defy consumerism, along with the methods and myths it perpetuates about womanhood and femininity. The exhibition consists of 12 life-sized, freestanding sculptures made from everyday feminine materials arranged in a maze-like exhibition space. The layout of the exhibition creates alcoves, enabling individual observation and interaction with each sculpture.

In American culture, beliefs and behaviors are influenced by institutional traditions, including governance, religion, society, and family. Many of these traditional beliefs are, indeed, myths. Fueled by consumerism, these myths wield substantial influence over our daily lives, particularly shaping the self-perception and worldview of and about women. Markel challenges these prescriptive myths by composing her sculptures with everyday consumer products marketed toward women. The approach is lighthearted, embracing the absurd, and paying homage to the Feminist Art movement of the 1970s. Markel's sculptures are personal and autobiographical,

Artists Collective | Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by John Lever

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will present Supersize or Super Small, featuring photographs by John Lever, on view in Gallery II, from Dec. 2 - 30, 2023. A reception will be held during the Spartanburg Art Walk on Dec. 21, from 6-8pm.

Upstate artist John Lever loves things great and small – especially things he can photograph.

"This show ranges over the scale of pictures from macro to micro – big landscapes to real close ups," says Lever, who lives in Duncan, SC, and has been a member of ACS for about six years.

"It is really about my attempts to stretch myself photographically. For example, this is the first time for me to exhibit a seven-panel version of a triptych – either a 'septiptych' or a heptiptych or, best for me, a polyptych. Another is capturing motion at the Criterion, the downtown Spartanburg bicycle race that happens each spring. The show also will include some of my favorite subjects – wildlife and landscapes.

"The main message of the exhibit is that photography beyond the iPhone is fun and can be aesthetically enjoyable," he adds.

"Nothing against iPhone cameras; it is just a

Fleming Markel currently lives and works in Greenville, SC. She is the Director of Greenville Technical College's Benson Campus Galleries. She holds a BA from Winthrop University, a MEd from the University of South Carolina, and an MFA from Clemson University.

different world."

Lever says his main inspiration for the exhibit came from a trip out West to the Grand Tetons and Yellowstone, but he also credits his friends at ACS.

The show features a wide variety of photographs, he says. "Some with beautiful natural compositions, some wide views of the world, some speedy shots – and maybe something completely different."

He wants viewers to "get some inspiration to get out in the world, then maybe they will become interested in taking a few photos themselves."

The more than 20 pieces in the exhibit will be available for purchase, with prices

Anderson Arts Center in Anderson, SC, Features Works by Upcountry Fiber Artists

Anderson Arts Center in Anderson, SC, will present Art in Layers, featuring works by the Upcountry Fiber Artists (Evelyn Beck, Lynne Harrill, Cynthia Steward, Sara Quattlebaum, Denny Webster, and Kathryn Weston) displaying textile art that employs a variety of techniques and features a diversity of perspectives, on view from Dec. 8 through Jan. 25, 2024. A reception will be held on Dec. 8, from 6:30-8:30pm.

Each member of Upcountry Fiber Artists transforms fabric and other fibers into evocative, impactful, and expressive works informed by nature, personal stories, imagination, and invention. They explore and experiment with the creative expression of fabric and stitch. Their strength lies in their diversity, as each artist's unique voice emerges through their approach to design, selection, use of materials, and construction techniques in their work. However, this diversity in their artistry is united by their use of layered fabric, batting, and thread.

Evelyn Beck's inspiration begins with a photograph, often of the natural world or of people interacting with it. She manipulates the photo with image editing software to create an expressive, semi-abstract picture as a pattern for cutting and assembling fabric pieces. These pieces are fused with heat and then embellished and secured with thread before the final piece is framed.

Lynne Harrill's work is non-objective, relying on color and shape to express ideas abstractly. Inspiration comes from poetry, music and the colors in nature. Her process starts with dyeing or painting white fabric. Piecing is done in an improvisational manner so that the design evolves as the work progresses.

Sara Quattlebaum uses predominantly abstract shapes to create her work though the end results have a look of nature about them. She is inspired by other artists, by a glimpse of something on TV, by taking a hike, or by a photo. She then sketches her rendition of that inspiration. When making an art piece, she begins with the background, whether hand-dyed fabric or a beautiful store-bought piece, and backs it with iron-on interfacing. She then cuts shapes to form improvisational motifs and auditions them on the background to create the art piece. She layers fabrics and uses thread play, thread sketching, couching and/or free-hand embroidery, letting the end result just develop.

Work by Lynne Harrill

Cynthia Steward starts with a photo or sketch that is manipulated digitally or manually to simplify the image elements and develop a design focused on line, shape and value. She uses commercial and hand-dyed fabrics and threads of different types and weights to bring color and texture to the work. Depending on the look and rhythm of the design, she cuts and arranges pieces of fabric spontaneously or precisely and holds them together with stitched or fused seams and appliqué. Additional texture is created by stitching through the three quilt layers and finishing the edges.

Denny Webster's art quilts tend to be in series, each emphasizing different aspects of the creative process. Her first series (The Ladies) used photography, found objects, and humor to address social activist themes. The second series (Healing Quilts) utilized symbolic images with layered, fused, and machine-appliquéd, hand-dyed fabrics to visually represent research participants' stories. Another series (Otherworld Journeys) illustrated hypnotic visualizations with layered translucent symbols and images created with screen-printed, heat-transferred and/or hand-dyed techniques specific to different types of fibers (cotton/rayon and/or polyester). All approaches are completed with machine thread work to connect multiple layers of fabric and enhance design details.

Kate Weston is inspired by nature, with its beautiful colors, textures and shapes. An important part of her process is creating the fabrics by painting or dyeing cotton and silk. These may then be cut and pieced to create a design. Or they may remain as whole pieces. The final step is adding additional texture and line with thread.

The Carolinas are blessed with a diverse and beautiful landscape, teaming with natural resources. Whether you are in the Upcountry, the central hills and plains, or the low-country, each region offers ample opportunities for recreation, exploration,

Craft Across Continents features more than 50 objects from the private collection of Lorne Lassiter and Gary Ferraro. Lassiter and Ferraro say they collect for the fun of

The exhibition will include glass, ceramics, bamboo, and textile contemporary objects by artists from around the globe, including masterworks of glass sculpture from the Czech Republic, a seminal installation by Danish maker Tobias Mohl, and a mobile by Polish-trained artist Anna Skib-ska, and spectacular large glazed ceramic vessel by British maker Gareth Mason. Twenty-first century Japanese bamboo works by leading practitioners and innovative wood-fired ceramics also are highlights of the collection.

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture in Charlotte, NC, Offers Several New Exhibitions

The Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture at the Levine Center for the Arts, in Uptown Charlotte, NC, is presenting several new exhibitions on view through various times.

On view through Jan. 15, 2024, is my Presence is Present: interpretations of afro-surrealism from the American South.

This exhibition navigates through surreal African-American experiences as told by 20 emerging and established contemporary artists in and around the Carolinas. Each participating artist purposefully creates work in response to our inherent memories and identities of growing up and living in the American South.

"As curator of this exhibition, I asked local Charlotte artist DaRemen J. about the state of his current video works. His response, 'everything right now is about me being Black and just existing.' A rather surreal perspective when you think about it in a present-day context. Are we simply existing or continuing to create new spaces where we can still exist? If so, what do those brave new worlds look like and at what point do they become surreal, leading us on a journey to new visual interpretations of how we live and view our Black lives?"

"If we define blackness as a living term constantly evolving and taking on new meanings across our various lived Black experiences, our present is now more surreal than ever. Since artists of color are constantly reacting to the socio-cultural politics of a post-colonial world, then it is time to look at how we interpret our present states of being. In certain cases, this could be interpreted as restoring cultures of the past, uncovering invisible worlds still struggling to exist and/or highlighting aspects of the mystical and metaphorical as it applies to blackness," says Carla Aaron-Lopez, Curator of my Presence is Present.

We are thrilled to present our second biennial of established and emerging Black artists in our region. Our inaugural biennial, Visual Vanguard, launched in the summer of 2021 during a critical time in our nation's history. As the importance of Black history is being challenged in certain sectors, the second biennial, my Presence is Present, carries the mantle of Black excellence and evolution in art and culture.

This exhibition presents an opportunity for the Gantt to share the breadth of creativity in our region and to embrace the full power of the arts to engage the community. We believe the work of these artists will stand alongside the masters for years to come.

Carla Aaron-Lopez is a photographer, print maker, and collagist. Ever defying expectation, Aaron-Lopez has also expanded her practice to include murals and painting. She is a deeply committed collaborator whose own work is frequently created with fellow artists at various stages of their careers. Aaron-Lopez has pioneered platforms for underground artists and built spaces that encourage experimentation in both Atlanta, Georgia and Charlotte, North Carolina.

Aaron-Lopez received her Bachelor of Arts in Graphic Design from North Carolina Central University and her Master of Fine Art in Photography and Master of Printmaking from Savannah College of Art and Design in Atlanta. In addition to creating artwork, she is a beloved arts educator within Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools. On view through Jan. 15, 2024, is the exhibition Kennedi Carter: Sight Unseen.

Born and raised in Durham, NC, Kennedi Carter has garnered international acclaim through her portraits of "overlooked beauties of the Black experience: skin, texture, trauma, peace, love and community." Defined as "without inspection or appraisal," Carter's work exemplifies the phrase "sight unseen." Her images approach and depict moments without judgement or preconceived notions of what constitutes memorable or worthy. The exhibition draws on Carter's ability to capture the "unseen" - moments often overlooked or invisible to society.

Featuring a number of new works, the exhibition demonstrates the breadth of Carter's vision and provides a glimpse into the personal worlds she photographs. Carter's relationship with the subject is open and borderless and, as a result, the viewer's engagement with the artwork has no bounds.

A special thank you to the Dana and Albert R. Broccoli Foundation for supporting Kennedi Carter: Sight Unseen.

On view through May 12, 2024, is the exhibition Post-Traumatism: In Search of Freedom.

In this exhibition, eight large-scale abstract paintings take center stage, adorned with visceral and emotive gestures that lay bare the raw intensity of trauma and triumph. Alston's brushstrokes dance between chaos and order, unveiling the inner conflict between pain and the unyielding desire for freedom. These canvases become the battleground where the artist wrestles with concepts of trauma, seeking to transmute them into powerful symbols of resilience and hope.

Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Sergio Hudson

The Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting Sergio Hudson: Focused on the Fit, an exhibition showcasing the work of iconic fashion designer and Midlands native Sergio Hudson, on view through June 30, 2024.

Organized by the CMA in partnership with Sergio Hudson Collections, LLC and community curator Megan Pinckney Rutherford, this exhibition showcases the remarkable moments of a designer who fell in love with fashion at 4 years old while living in Ridgeway, SC, and has become one of the biggest names in the industry today. "Many things are happening in my life that I could only dream of — this exhibition at the CMA is one of them," says Hudson. "I feel very lucky, and I hope my story can inspire other young men in South Carolina to believe in themselves and follow their passion."

"We are honored Sergio Hudson is sharing his story and craft in his home state museum," says CMA Executive Director Della Watkins. "Visitors will feel his extraordinary sense of glamorous style and passionate enthusiasm for making women feel confident and fabulous. This ascending artist is signature South Carolina special!"

Born and raised in Ridgeway, Hudson has always taken inspiration from the strong women in his life, particularly his mother, Sheldon Hudson, who exposed him to sewing and fashion design. Since launching his first eponymous label in 2014, his fresh perspective on luxury American sportswear has taken the fashion world by storm. Hudson's high-profile clients include Michelle Obama, Beyoncé, Serena Williams, Jessica Alba, Blake Lively, Rihanna, Kamala Harris, Kendall Jenner, Issa Rae, Jessica Chastain, Rachel Brosnahan, and Keke Palmer, a close friend whom he has called a muse.

"Sergio is an example of what it means to ignite a passion and never let go of the dream. Focused on the Fit is not only a show about fashion, but also a story of how one makes their mark in the world," says CMA Director of Art and Learning Jackie Adams. "We are so proud to present Sergio's work, and we hope this show will inspire and educate visitors about a creative visionary driven to make a difference in how we choose to show up in the world through fashion."

Hudson's philosophy is that fashion should be for everyone and include everyone. He designs to empower the wearer and often includes a nod to the '90s of his youth. Exploring his journey from the early days winning Bravo's Styled to Rock in 2013 up through the present day, Focused on the Fit features nearly 50 works - some 38 illustrations alongside 10 signature garments from key moments in Hudson's revolutionary career, including Keke Palmer's stunning ensemble from the 2023 Met Gala, Megan Rapinoe's star-spangled suit from the 2021 Met Gala, a suit ensemble worn by Beyoncé in 2019, and a custom suit made for Issa Rae in 2018. Visitors get an opportunity to see the creativity and teamwork behind the building of a brand from concept to craft to collection in a holistic look at the design process.

"As a lifelong lover of fashion, I am thrilled to be the community curator behind this exhibition showcasing the incredible work of my dear friend, Sergio Hudson, a successful Black fashion designer that was born and bred right here in the Midlands and is well on his way to becoming the next iconic American designer," says Rutherford. "I am honored to get to share his story with a community that inspired and supported him, and also with the next generation that I'm sure will be inspired by his familiar beginnings."

Sergio Hudson: Focused on the Fit overlaps with newly opened exhibition Lee Alexander McQueen & Ann Ray: Rendez-Vous, providing museumgoers two iconic fashion exhibitions to experience this fall and holiday season.

This exhibition is organized by the Columbia Museum of Art, SC, in partnership with Sergio Hudson Collections, LLC and Community Curator Megan Pinckney

She believes in champagne for breakfast, that pink is a neutral, and that life is only what you make it! When Pinckney isn't creating digital content for local + national brands, she's supporting the arts community of South Carolina, encouraging her generation to become more involved in local politics, cheering on her beloved Gamecocks at Williams-Brice Stadium, and spending time with her 2-year-old son, Teagan.

The Columbia Museum of Art is a charitable nonprofit organization dedicated to lifelong learning and community enrichment for all. Located in the heart of downtown Columbia, SC, the CMA ranks among the leading art institutions in the country and is distinguished by its innovative exhibitions and creative educational programs. At the heart of the CMA and its programs is its collection, which encompasses 7,000 works and spans 5,000 years of art history. Established in 1950, the CMA now welcomes more than 150,000 visitors annually and is a catalyst for community creativity and education, engaging people of all ages and backgrounds. It is the recipient of a National Medal from the Institute of Museum and Library Services, a National Art Education Association award for its contributions to arts education, a National Park Foundation Award, and two Governor's Awards for the Arts for outstanding contributions to the arts in South Carolina. In order to serve even more audiences, the CMA underwent a transformation. Funded by a successful capital campaign, the two-year renovation project garnered new collection galleries with a progressive thematic layout, new studios for artmaking, cutting-edge program and event spaces, and an entrance on Main Street. Overall, more than 15,000 square feet of functional space were added to the building's existing footprint.

Mike Brown Contemporary in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Mark Flowers

Work by Mark Flowers

The Mike Brown Contemporary in Columbia, SC, is presenting Mark Flowers — Baltimore Lessons, on view through Dec. 21, 2023. Mark Flowers In Conversation will be held on Dec. 2, from 1-2:30pm.

In March of 2021, while visiting Baltimore, MD, Flowers rode a commuter train from downtown out to the suburbs and back. He recorded still images from the window as the train moved. The series of forms in motion and spontaneous imagery are the foundation of this new work.

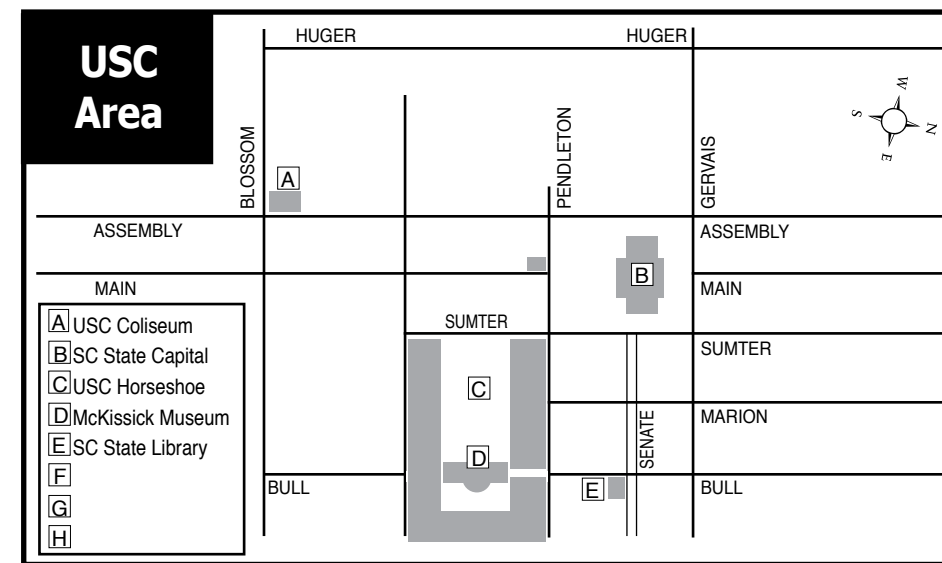

Work by Mark Flowers

The objects in this exhibition are moving tributes to the inspiration borne of these moments. The vibrant, graphic mixed media works open nonlinear narratives that capture Flowers' unique form of storytelling. The irregularly shaped mixed media works are what Flowers calls visual jazz. There is an improvisational feeling steeped in a marriage of form, pattern and gesture. He paints, attaches pieces of wood, photographic transfers of his own and found images.

Of the work Flowers states, "I am more self-assured from the many years of creating work. I now depend more on my experience and trust my instincts. I have reached a point where I can improvise and challenge the rules I made up in previous work. This new open strategy presents me with greater challenges, which has energized the studio environment. Every artist wants to evolve, and I believe this is another opportunity."

Mark E. Flowers earned his BFA in Studio Arts from The University of South Carolina in 1977 and his MFA in Painting from Western Michigan University in 1979. He has exhibited his work throughout the United States and in Europe. Flowers' work can be found in 28 public and over 350 private collections. Throughout his career he has won numerous awards for his art in both regional and national competitions. In 1980, just out of graduate school, he was awarded the South Carolina Artist Fellowship Award. In 2003, he was named one of 100 Art Notable Alumni for the Centennial Celebration at Western Michigan University. Most recently, he was awarded a residency at the Golden Foundation in New Berlin, NY. He has taught art at the secondary and college levels for 42 years. He retired from teaching in 2019.

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, Features Works From Atelier 17

The Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, is presenting American Art in the Atomic Age: 1940-1960, which explores the groundbreaking contributions of artists who worked at the experimental printmaking studio Atelier 17 in the wake of World War II. Co-curated by Marilyn Laufer and Tom Butler, American Art in the Atomic Age which draws from the holdings of Dolan/Maxwell, the Asheville Art Museum Collection, and private collections will be on view through Apr. 29, 2024.

"We are delighted to partner with the Asheville Art Museum to present an exhibition that highlights the brilliance of the Atelier 17 studio and artists during the Atomic Age," says Ron Rumford, Director of Dolan/Maxwell. "Though challenged by the times, Atelier 17 preserved and pioneered a legacy in printmaking that still inspires."

Atelier 17 operated in New York for fifteen years, between 1940 and 1955. The studio's founder, Stanley William Hayter (1901-1988) established the workshop in Paris but relocated to New York just as the Nazi occupation of Paris began in 1940. Hayter's new studio attracted European emigrants like André Masson, Yves Tanguy, and Joan Miró, as well as American artists like Dorothy Dehner, Judith Rothschild, and Karl Schrag, allowing for an exchange of artistic ideas and processes between European and American artists.

versation with works by European Surrealists who were working at the studio in the 1940s and 1950s. The exhibition will also feature a selection of domestic mid-century objects that exemplify how the ideas and aesthetics of post-war abstraction became a part of everyday life.

Tom Butler, co-curator, shared, "This exhibition is a testament to the enduring influence of the Atelier 17 studio and the artists' contributions to modern printmaking. It's a celebration of the many different ways they used their art to interpret and respond to a conflicted world."

American Art in the Atomic Age: 1940-1960 is organized by the Asheville Art Museum. Thanks to Dolan/Maxwell and our private collectors for the loan of artworks to this exhibition, and for their support of the Museum.

Established by artists and incorporated in 1948, the Asheville Art Museum is committed to being a vital force in community and individual development and to providing lifelong opportunities for education and enrichment through the visual arts. The Museum's mission is to engage, enlighten, and inspire individuals and enrich community through dynamic experiences in American art of the 20th and 21st centuries. The Museum is dedicated to advancing diversity, equity, access, and inclusion—now and in the future—and we welcome all visitors without discrimination. The Museum acknowledges that it is situated upon the ancient, southern Appalachian ancestral homeland of the Cherokee Tribe and that this region is still the home of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians today. The Museum is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization accredited by the American Alliance of Museums.

Southern Highland Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, Offers New Focus Gallery Exhibition

The Southern Highland Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, is presenting Creating Textures, on view in the Focus Gallery, at the Folk Art Center features the work of five Guild Members, on view through Feb. 28, 2024.

This exhibition features the work of five Guild members: Michael Hatch (glass), Valerie Berlage (wood), Joseph Rhodes (jewelry), Barry Rhodes (clay), and Joanna Warren (leather).

The glass face jugs in the exhibit are by glassblower, Michael Hatch, Guild member since 2005. "My Face Jug series is inspired by ceramic vessels made in the Appalachian region for over one hundred years," states Hatch. "When I first started this series twenty years ago there was no one else making Appalachian style face jugs in glass. Each piece in this series begins by blowing and shaping the vessel. The facial features are made by applying and sculpting bits of molten glass. The textures and colors are created by sifting colored glass powders onto the surface during the blowing process."

The wooden landscapes on display are made from assembling blocks of painted or natural wood, cut and crafted by Guild member Valerie Berlage (member since 2015). When asked about her process, she states, "Sometimes the materials dictate the piece. Especially in the case of the natural landscapes. While wood is a renewable resource, I do try to be as sustainable as possible and I source off-cuts from other woodworkers. Pieces that are too small for furniture makers are great for me, and it saves them from either going in the dump or the fire. That way I'm not creating a need for as much "new" wood. Because color is a big part of my design, what I have access to (in terms of species and coloring) directly influences the end result."

The jewelry on display is made from sterling silver and features a variety of smooth stones: amethyst cabochon, garnet, aquamarine, and peach moonstones. Artist Joseph Rhodes (member since 2018) began his jewelry-making journey as a dentist with an appreciation for precious metals and fabricating his first piece of jewelry: his wife's wedding ring. "Most of my time is spent in my studio designing precious metal and gemstone jewelry by metal forming and lost wax casting," states Rhodes. "With my family's encouragement, this is a senior's start to a new career."

The utilitarian pottery on display glazed with cool tones of blues and grays are by Guild member Barry Rhodes (member since 2021). Creating textures is something this potter always keeps in mind. "The user of my pottery should be able to feel that the pot was made by a person and not stamped out by a machine. A cup should feel organic emanating from the earth and be comforting to hold," states Barry Rhodes.

The Marquee in Asheville, NC's River Arts District will present the Imagine Pyramid, created by Dee and Bruce Santorini, on Dec. 3, 2023, from 1-4pm. The Imagine Pyramid will be on display at Marquee through the end of 2023.

The Imagine Pyramid started with a song. That song, "Imagine" by John Lennon, is all about everything we stand for and believe in. Peace. Love. A world without hatred and war.

In this world of conflict and pain, the Santorini's are compelled to produce art that sings with hope - the beauty of the Earth, the possibilities of humanity and all creatures - these are at the core of the art they produce. And what greater inspiration than the peace and love vibrating through John Lennon's song, "Imagine"?

Dee and Bruce Santorini, artists in Asheville's River Arts District, have created a raku sculpture honoring the great John Lennon. They have spent months building a five-foot-tall pyramid out of clay - rolling it into just the right shapes, then carving the designs and textures - including Lennon's face.

"It's been a long process," says Bruce. Putting on his heat-rated leather gloves and taking off the lid of the raku kiln, he grabs the raku tongs to reach inside the kiln, still glowing orange at about 1800 degrees F.

As Bruce works the tongs around the clay he swings the piece up out of the kiln and carries it over to a sandpit where his partner, Dee, waits to dump a washtub filled with shredded paper, leaves and pine cones on top of the hot clay piece. Smoke billows out around the edges.

Says Dee, "Raku is magic! It's mostly the smoke... It seeps into the unglazed clay and turns the white clay a smokey black color. Then it gets into the glaze and makes it hazy and metallic looking. It's awesome! I love it!"

The Santorini's have always been mesmerized and inspired by the ancient pyramids that eventually became a focus for the shape of their work. And the nice thing about this pyramid, is that there are three sides that allow it to be turned to show three unique pieces of art! One side is a tribute to John Lennon and the ethics behind his music, the other two sides represent the Work by Dee and Bruce Santorini mysteries and wonders of life throughout the universe.

The Santorini's will be at Marquee in Asheville's River Arts District on Dec. 3, between 1-4pm, to speak about their pyramid process while doing demonstrations. They welcome all to stop by. sip a Mimosa,

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum in Blowing Rock, NC, Offers Selections from the Collection of Rob Williams

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum (BRAHM) in Blowing Rock, NC, is presenting Crafted Modern: The Collection of Rob Williams, on view in the Schaefer Gallery, through Apr. 20, 2024.

The Studio Craft movement of the 20th Century witnessed a broad resurgence of artists working in mediums historically understood to be less precious than their fine art counterparts. Clay, metal, glass, wood, and fiber were the materials of daily life, constituting the tools and wares of domestic and professional labor. Prior to this conceptual shift, ornaments worthy of display and reverence were more often wrought in paint or stone—on fine paper or in gilded frames.

However, in the decades following this flattening of artistic hierarchies, many artists manipulated traditional modes of craft production into lively explorations of form and idea. Postmodern sensibilities spilled over and commingled with these long-held material traditions and bore abstracted fruit. Forms we recognize as familiar - a jug, a birdhouse, a cup, or cement slab - are rendered anew, still recognizable with all of their common associations but wonderfully complicated through a widening lens of contemporary craft.

Rob Williams has built a collection that reflects this sculptural attitude of contemporary craft-based artists throughout a long career in the field. As an educator and then a commercial gallerist, Williams developed a network of relationships and influences that informed a daunting collection of which this exhibition is only a small part. BRAHM is thrilled to share this cross-section of objects, some of which have found a new home here at our museum.

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum in Blowing Rock, NC, Features Works by Lee Hall

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum (BRAHM) in Blowing Rock, NC, is presenting Lee Hall: Immediate Landscapes, on view in BRAHM's Rankin East and West galleries, through May 5, 2024. This exhibition is a collaboration with the Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC.

Lee Hall (1934 - 2017) had a long and varied career in the arts but her deep North Carolina roots always seemed to bring her and her work back to the Tarheel State. Born in Lexington, NC, her abstract expressionist paintings are vivid examples of those traditions while retaining the kind of detail that truly brings a viewer into a specific place and time.

Lee Hall, "Puglia: Sun Facade", 2015, mixed media on canvas, 50 in. x 50 in.

A graduate of the Women's College of the University of North Carolina (now the University of North Carolina-Greensboro), Hall was one of the first women to make headway in the post-WWII New York art scene. Using broad swaths of color, her paintings are highly textured landscapes with North Carolina's Outer Banks and the New England countryside being frequent inspirations.

Eventually becoming disillusioned with the commodification of art, the pace of her own work slowed as she returned to academia. She was president of the Rhode Island School of Design from 1975 to 1983, among other high-profile academic positions. Not limited to visual expression, Hall became a writer and biographer, telling the stories of her contemporaries in the New York art scene and writing a book about the mythical Greek goddess Athena. Hall eventually settled in South Hadley, MA, passing away there in April 2017.

The Blowing Rock Art & History Museum, known as BRAHM, is located in Blowing Rock, NC. Open to the public since 2011, BRAHM provides cultural enrichment by promoting the arts, and Southern Appalachian heritage and history. The 25,000-square-foot museum maintains seven formal art galleries, a large, multipurpose community gallery and programmatic space, and many interstitial spaces where additional works from the Permanent Collection are displayed.

Appalachian State University in Boone, NC, Features Works by Kathleen Thum

Appalachian State University in Boone, NC, will present Considering Carbon: Kathleen Thum, on view in Gallery A and Petti/Peiser Galleries of the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, from Dec. 1, 2023 through May 4, 2024.

Artist's statement from Kathleen Thum: "The exhibition, Considering Carbon, consists of a series of drawings and cut-paper wall installations which explore the theme of fossil fuels, specifically oil and coal. In the exhibition, I use different visual and conceptual approaches to examine the physical, material qualities of coal and oil, as I aim to heighten an awareness of our disconnection and dependence on fossil fuels. Oil and coal are an integral part of our contemporary existence, yet remain mysterious, unknown substances, contained and controlled by the industry."

"Large-scale wall installation artworks in the exhibition consider the infrastructure of the pipeline system through a visual language of abstraction to communicate the vastness of the petroleum infrastructure. In these large cut-paper pieces, I evoke the visceral, sensory quality of the petroleum landscape by using scale, texture, surface, color and the non-traditional presentation of drawings to engage the body of the viewer."

Work by Kathleen Thum

"Abstraction continues in the series of charcoal drawings in the exhibition. In the drawings, specimens of coal are simplified into abstract silhouetted shapes to capture the materiality of the coal and the darkness of coal's impact on our environment. These drawings are exhibited as a group and have a collective impact through the quantity and the density of the black charcoal. The black, sooty quality of artist charcoal is used to capture the physical and corporeal characteristics of the sedimentary rock."

"Realism is also present in the exhibition, through an additional series of drawings of coal and the display of a collection of fossil fuels. In the realistic drawings, I examine coal closely through a labor-intensive process of observational drawing. The labor and care in rendering offer an ability to step back, observe and weigh different positions regarding coal's place in our world and our disconnection to the land."

"Overall, through the artwork, I aim to honor the power that fossil fuels have contributed to creating our modern world and equally convey the dark side of the environmental cost we must bear. It is my belief that art has the ability to problem solve, re-frame and reflect on the current climate crisis, in order to inspire change in the present and future."

Kathleen Thum's drawings, paintings, and wall installations, which explore the ongoing shifting of power between mankind and earth, have been widely exhibited. Selected group exhibitions include Shifting Sediments at Marshall University in Huntington, WV, and The Nature of the Future: Artists Confront the Anthropocene at Belmont University in Nashville, TN. Her recent past solo and two-person shows include exhibitions at University of Alabama in Huntsville and Broward College in Davie, FL. Thum's work is also included in the 2014, 2015, 2017 and the upcoming 2023 Manifest International Drawing Annual Exhibition in print publications.

Thum has been awarded several fellowships to attend artist residencies, such as the Millay Colony, Jentel Artist Residency, the Vermont Studio Center, the Saltonstall Foundation for the Arts and the Women's Studio Workshop. She has received Quarterly Support Grants from the South Carolina Arts Commission and was a recipient of the New York Foundation for the Arts Mark Program. Thum presented her artwork at the 2018 International Petrocultures Conference, a multi-disciplinary conference on oil cultures and energy humanities, in Glasgow, United Kingdom and in the 2016 Petrocultures Conference in St. John's, Newfoundland.

Thum received her BFA from Maryland Institute College of Art in Baltimore and her MFA from Bowling Green State University in Ohio. Thum currently teaches Drawing as an Associate Professor in the Art Department at Clemson University in upstate South Carolina and is the new Graduate Coordinator for the MFA in Visual Arts Program at Clemson University.

we create and occupy. Distinct from, but related to Surrealism, Magical Realism was first applied to the visual arts in the 1920s - usually to painters like Maxfield Parrish, Giorgio de Chirico, and René Magritte who created haunting, mysterious, dream-like canvases, and commercial prints. Photographer Michael O'Neill's infrared landscapes are part of a strong tradition of magical realism in the visual arts. Using the tools and technology of photography, the artist captures the enigmatic and often unnoticed wonders of the "real" world with his various lenses. He explores the meaning and impact of color using a converted camera that is sensitive to ultraviolet, visible, and infrared light."

"The photographic tradition of magical realism includes such notable photographer as Susan Kae Grant, Carolyn DeMeritt, Elijah Gowin, Jennifer Schlesinger, Keith Carter, Debbie Fleming Caffery, Antone Dolezal, and Heather Evans Smith, to name just a few currently working in this rich tradition. In a world of increasingly fragile landscapes, threatened by climate change and overpopulation, it's important to look closely at what might not be immediately apparent, to spend time in nature noticing the intricacies of hidden worlds that may soon disappear entirely. Interestingly, O'Neill's background in creating theatrical backdrops reinforces our understanding of nature as a cultural constructed system. Image makers are now using increasingly sophisticated human and artificial intelligence technology in their representations of the more-than-human world. Human understanding of nature or the natural world, often incorrectly thought of as separate from although tangential to the human species, is informed by the way one perceives and interacts with their environment. His use of other-worldly colors and subversion of typical museum-style framing of his photographs, O'Neill reminds the viewer that they aren't looking through a window or portal into a "real" landscape; rather, they are looking at one artist's creative interpretation of what was before his camera and then manipulated by technology to produce a final image. O'Neill uses photography to call attention to the beauty and the threats to our fragile environment - threats that may begin at the microscopic level but have lasting impacts on what the world will look like in the future."

"Revelation supports the mission of the Turchin Center to showcase creative responses to local, regional, and global climate change. All of O'Neill's ethereal landscapes were made in the South. The land bears the ongoing scarification of a deeply troubled history at the same time the photographs reveal the beauty of what yet may be lost if we do not find a more equitable way to care for the lands of which we are the current stewards."

Artist statement by Michael O'Neill: "My perspective on photography, its roles, and responsibilities, has changed quite a bit since I began working with the lens. I started my journey as a commercial photographer, using the camera to try to represent the reality of objects and people for marketing purposes. What interests me now is my ability to make things happen through the introduction of a camera, as well as the ability to reveal what would normally be left unseen. These images are my biggest departure from traditional representation, using technology to capture energy that is outside our perception, revealing the magic that is all around us."

Michael O'Neill is the new Director of Development and an instructor of photography at the Light Factory Photo Arts Center in Charlotte, NC. He has an MFA in photography from New Mexico State University in Las Cruces and a BA in Psychology from Wake Forest University in Winston Salem, NC. He teaches photography and visual literacy at Queens University in Charlotte where he designed the new darkrooms at the Sarah Belk Gambrell Center for the Arts and Civic Engagement; he has over 15 years of experience teaching photography. O'Neill is a board member of the OBRA Collective; he has exhibited his artwork across the country and has work in the permanent collections at the Betchler Museum of Modern Art, the Palace of the Governors in Santa Fe, New Mexico, and Queens University in Charlotte. His photographs have been published in the Pinhole Journal, Len's Journal, and the Poetics of Light by Eric Renner and Nancy Spencer.

GreenHill Center for North Carolina Art in Greensboro, NC, Presents 44th Fundraising Exhibition

The GreenHill Center for North Carolina Art in Greensboro, NC, will present its 44th annual WINTER SHOW, on view from Dec. 3, 2023 through Feb. 17, 2024.

The exhibition features works by emerging and established artists from across the state. The annual exhibition constitutes a comprehensive survey of contemporary works in all mediums, including paintings, sculpture, photography, ceramics, jewelry, wood, and fiber works. GreenHill will open the exhibition with its Collector's Choice gala and fundraiser on Dec. 2 and public opening on Dec. 3.

WINTER SHOW brings together artists exhibiting in different corners of the state in one gallery space, offering an encompassing, up-to-the-minute experience of the vibrant North Carolina art scene," says the show's long-time curator Edie Carpenter. The streamlined exhibition features over 70 artists. Paintings by Nellie Ashford, Jean Gray Mohs, and Renzo Ortega may be viewed alongside hand-made ceramics, carved wooden pieces, wearable art, striking photography, and exceptional glass work.

All works in the exhibition are offered for sale and the public has opportunity to see works by talented artists at all stages of their careers: "Winter Show is a showcase for a rich gathering of artists and allows the public and collectors to discover the newest wave of NC artists such as painters Jeremiah Meyer, who began making art as a child in ArtQuest at GreenHill's studios, and

Work by Heather Brooks

Jalen Jackson, an alumni of NC A&T State University who is HBCU Artist in Residence at ArtSpace," notes Carpenter. The range of artworks is exceptional—from glass sculptures by Haley Jelinek, hand-crafted furniture by Rebecca Juliette-Duex, to functional pottery by Sandi Carter - all three of whom will be exhibiting at GreenHill for the first time. GreenHill's nearly half-century of history as an organization is evident in new pieces by Mary Roundtree Moore, Betsy Vaden, and Paul Sumner, who all participated in early editions of Winter Show in the 1980s.

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Fiber Exhibition

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting The Threads We Follow, a group exhibition of fiber-based works by leading global artists, on view in the Center's Main Gallery, through Mar. 10, 2024.

Over several centuries, artists and craftspeople have used fiber to challenge identity-based oppression throughout various global cultures. Many of these artists specifically contemplate the historic devaluation of textiles based upon their association with domestic labor and craft making, where women and communities of color have long interpreted social politics.

The Threads We Follow acknowledges the foundations of fiber arts rooted in explicit gender and cultural expression while demonstrating contemporary understandings of the malleability of identity. The artists throughout this show experiment with structure and form to translate their experiences to materials like thread, fabric, and even hair, creating nontraditional designs including busts, sculptures, and suspended pieces. Ultimately, each of these artists emphasizes the exploratory nature of fiber arts that has continuously allowed space for community-focused experimentation and reflection.

The Threads We Follow includes works by: Aliyah Bonnette, Amalia Galdona Broche, Ambrose Rhapsody Murray, April Bey, Basil Kincaid, Cynthia Alberto, Ebony G Patterson, John Paul Morabito, Lakea Shepard, Lien Truong, and Pia Camil. Ultimately, each of these artists emphasizes the exploratory nature of fiber arts that has continuously allowed space for community-focused experimentation and reflection. "When I think about fiber and its historic devaluation as a 'fine art' tool, I wanted to create an exhibition that showcased contemporary artists' innovations of the medium," said curator Maya Brooks. "Fiber is having a moment, where artists connect their personal histories with social commentaries. So, I see this exhibition as an expression of recognizing that moment, especially as I've carried this love with me for most of my life and now career."

Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, Features Works by Native American Artists

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, is hosting its second annual Still Here, Still Native exhibition, created in partnership with the Cumberland County Schools Office of Indian Education, along with a series of cultural events in celebration of National Native American Heritage Month. The exhibition is on view through Jan. 6, 2024, in The Arts Center.

On Oct. 31, 2023, an official proclamation declared November 2023 to be National Native American Heritage Month—urging all Americans "to observe this month with appropriate programs, ceremonies and activities"—and the Arts Council has several plans to do just that.

According to the Arts Council's own

Work by Justice Catron

description of Still Here, Still Native, "this exhibition offers a remarkable glimpse into the rich and diverse art and cultural practices of indigenous tribes hailing from different regions across the vast expanse of North America. Through a captivating blend of original artwork and traditional crafts, this showcase provides an immersive experience that celebrates the unique heritage and traditions of these tribes with great respect and authenticity." Most pieces on display will be for sale, and many prints may be ordered unframed at a reduced price.

This exhibit's curator, Savanna Davis, shares her own aspirations for Still Here, Still Native: "I hope people walk through the exhibit and learn something, that they start having conversations with other people in the gallery whom they wouldn't have an opportunity to talk to otherwise. I hope they rethink the story they've been told about the country they live in. I also hope they see that these are real people with real stories, and sometimes there's real trauma that people have to unpack."

Amidst this cultural exhibition of fine art and regalia, there will also be a resource wall, with QR codes linking to all types of Native-made content - such as books, movies, TV shows, and a podcast - to support other Native artists beyond just the exhibit.

Craven Arts Council & Gallery in New Bern, NC, Offers New Exhibits

Craven Arts Council & Gallery in New Bern, NC, will present two new exhibits including: Joy in the Ordinary, featuring work by several different local artists, on view in the Main Gallery, from Dec. 1 through Jan. 31, 2023, and works by Michael Rhinehardt, on view in the Director's Gallery, from Dec. 1 - 31, 2023. A reception will be held on Dec. 8, from 5-8pm.

Craven Arts Council & Gallery is proud to present Joy in the Ordinary in the Main Gallery for the months of December and January. This exhibition features work by several different local artists.

During the holiday season, we often hear the words gratitude, joy, peace & light, yet we know that this time of year may not always be those things for all. Joy in the Ordinary seeks to remind ourselves and our community of the ways we experience glimmers of positivity and comfort every day of the year, not just during the holiday season. Multiple artists have submitted work in a variety of mediums, exploring finding joy in our daily lives.

Work by Michael Rhinehardt

Our other exhibition featuring works by Michael Rhinehardt features various works inspired by growing up and fatherhood.

Rhinehardt is a lifelong resident of Carteret County. After graduating from East Carolina University with a BFA in

Work by Gary Memcosky

Fine Arts, Rhinehardt returned to the Carteret County School system as an art teacher for the Down East area's three pre-kindergarten-8th grade schools. Six years later, he was hired to teach at East Carteret High School, where he has been for the last eleven years.

Rhinehardt credits the teaching experience with making him a better artist, while still learning every day. His work, a form of expressive realism, is heavily inspired by the creativity, beauty, and love of his wife and two children. Living in Marshallberg, the family dynamic has reshaped the trajectory of Rhinehardt's work. Recent paintings, depicting astronauts, delve into fatherhood, the struggle of children trying to relate to a generation of a different time and place, and the quest to hold on to the lifelong bond of parent and child. Down East roots, what it means to grow up, and the fascination with violence in young males.

The Burgwin-Wright House and Gardens in Wilmington, NC, is presenting Radiance, featuring works by Janet B. Sessoms, inspired by her love for light, color and contrast, on view in the Visitor's Center, through Jan. 20, 2024.

Sessoms considers her style to be painterly realism and enjoys interpreting any subject that is lit in a way to catch her attention. She delights in color and contrast, but mostly finds pleasure in challenging herself to create something that pleases her and others. Some of the words her collectors and friends use to describe her work are, "Serene, Colorful, Radiant, Inspiring, Realistic, and full of Light". She is an award-winning artist, but more importantly she gets to do daily what she waited many years to begin. A day of painting is a great day for Janet and one that she thanks God for providing.

So you're the Marketing Director of a visual arts organization, art museum, arts center, arts council or artist guild and you're wondering why you never see the exhibits presented at your facility included here. Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included. My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone, "Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault. Send your info about exhibits to "Carolina Arts" by e-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com). Our deadline is the 24th of the month "prior" to the month your exhibit starts.

Every once in a while I feel like just filling one of these spaces with a kind of nothingness. You know as if nobody reads what's in these spaces anyway. So if one time I said something like the first person to read this and sends me an e-mail (info@carolinaarts.com) during the month of December they'll get a free 1/4 ad in our January 2024 issue or the month that is most useful for them. But who reads these space fillers anyway? Not many I bet.

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Rosemary McLeod

The Artists Collective I Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting its Annual Holiday Artisan Market, on view in the Solomon Gallery, through Dec. 23, 2023. A reception will be held on Dec. 21, from 6-8pm. Looking ahead at the holidays, do you often think you'd like to give unique gifts – one-of-a-kind pieces that the recipient will really cherish? Sure, there are websites offering such items, but why not "shop local" at the Artists Collective I Spartanburg's 2023 Holiday Artisan Market? "This much-anticipated annual market will feature works of 44 regional artists' works – everything from acrylic paintings to sculptures and jewelry to photography and ceramics and just about everything in between," says Marcy Fedalei, one of the artists and a member of the Holiday Artisan Market Committee. "Every piece is original and unique, and sure to please any recipient, and while you're at it, pick up something – or a few things – for yourself." For further information visit (artistscollectivespartanburg.org).

Work by Kristine Mays

The Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, is presenting Kristine Mays | A Time for Everything, featuring sculpture you can see right through, on view through Dec. 31, 2023. Each work in the exhibition is something of a mystery. Within each of the artist's hollow wire sculptures - in either life-sized human form or the shape of a garment - is a surprise: another figure, a small creature of nature, or a message. Each piece invites the viewer to look closer to find the hidden meaning beyond the mere shape of the artwork, as it challenges viewers' perceptions of identity and awareness. Mays' works are sculpted from thousands of pieces of wire hooked and looped together; yet despite the hardness of her medium, the artist achieves a fluidity to her forms that suggest the softness of a human body, with its fleeting gestures and expressions. For further information call the Museum at 843/238-2510 or visit (myrtlebeachartmuseum.org).

The Maria V. Howard Arts Center, located at the Imperial Centre for the Arts and Sciences in Rocky Mount, NC, is presenting three new exhibits, on view through Dec. 31, 2023, including: Everett Mayo Adelman's Retrospective: Fifty Years of Painting, Susan Lenz's Once and Again: Alterations, and Dion Burroughs' My Creative Art of My Imagination... A Selection of Recent Works. Everett Mayo Adelman's exhibit consists of a body of work spanning fifty years. He has been an exhibiting painter and printmaker since 1966 and teacher of art, design, and art history in various capacities since 1968. Susan Lenz is a Columbia, SC, artist who uses needle and thread for self-expression. She works within a scope of an overall theme and toward a final, mixed media installation. She has work that has appeared in national and international exhibits as well as national publications. Once and Again: Alterations by Lenz is an exhibit of vintage textiles and objects altered by the artist for contemporary expression. Dion Burroughs was born and raised in Martin County, North Carolina. He began drawing at the age of fifteen and has continued to explore a number of mediums. He is inspired by his ancestral roots of freedom-what has been internally deemed worthy of remembering. For further information call the Center at 252/972-1175 or visit (imperialcentre.org/arts).

Work by Morey Weinstein

After a very long hiatus, City Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting The Art of Realism, featuring hyper realistic painting by Morey Weinstein, on view through Dec. 31, 2023. Weinstein is a hyper realistic artist who happily landed in the mediums of airbrush acrylic on canvas and sculpture techniques. Having been exposed to many gallery showings, he vividly remembers the precise moment that changed his life forever. It came at the age of 12. While attending a gallery showing with his parents at the Hirschhorn Museum in Washington, DC, the Realistic Fine Art of Richard Estes was on display. He describes the interaction with Estes work as "mesmerizing and life changing." This single experience as a child, standing in front of Estes work trying to figure out how Estes created a level of realism that made his paintings look like photography, instantly put Morey on the pathway to become the Hyper Realistic Fine Artist he is today. Morey's work falls somewhere between whimsical with a twist of pop culture and a lover of Historical Iconic Images and present-day controversies. For further information call the gallery at 803/252-3613 or visit (www.cityartonline.com).

The Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting Lee Alexander McQueen & Ann Ray: Rendez-Vous, a major fashion and photography exhibition on view through Jan. 21, 2024. Curated and organized by Barrett Barrera Projects, Rendez-Vous debuted at the Crocker Art Museum in Sacramento, CA, and will make its second stop at the CMA this fall before continuing its multi-city tour. "McQueen continues to endure, inspire, and fascinate, and this exhibition gives rare access to be up close to a designer who transcended the world of fashion," says CMA Director of Art and Learning Jackie Adams. "The intimate portraits Ann Ray captured of her friend reveal genuine moments of the designer's creativity, strength, vulnerability, and individualism, giving viewers authentic moments of the person versus the persona." Lee Alexander McQueen & Ann Ray: Rendez-Vous

Margulies Collection". Originating as a tribute to the 1962 Bitter Years photography exhibition curated by the illustrious Edward Steichen for the Museum of Modern Art, New York, the current exhibition organized by the Margulies Collection, features photographs by renowned American photographers Dorothea Lange, Walker Evans, Marion Post Wolcott, Jack Delano, and others who launched their careers as documentarians of the Great Depression. Working for the Farm Security Administration, a branch of Roosevelt's New Deal program, these photographers were hired to capture the social landscape of the country, highlighting the challenges facing Americans between 1935 and 1944. As one photographer articulated, "the idea is to show New York to Texans and Texas to New Yorkers." The Martin Z. Margulies Photography Collection includes over 100 vintage photographs from the Farm Security Administration, sixty-five were selected for this exhibition, which also features a series of Polaroids produced by Walker Evans in 1973 and '74 returning to themes found in the earlier works. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbs is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Engleheart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiable American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance.

Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked here, or who have created objects that reflect the complex story of the region. The works are grouped to reflect several themes including the southern landscape, the human figure, abstraction, and the legacy of slavery in America. Visiting Artist Series, Session IV: Through Dec. 3 - "Alice Colin and Elizabeth Williams". Alice Colin's creative process aims to express emotions and thoughts through colors and patterns in a constant search for balance between shapes and shades. Colin's inspiration comes from her travels, countries of adoption and people's facial expressions, ultimately capturing the emotional charge, background and experience a figure can exude in her numerous portraits. Using a range of painting and drawing mediums, Elizabeth Williams combines figurative realism with expressive abstraction on oil-lined linen, panels or paper. In blending traditional portraiture with conceptual storytelling, she connects the "who" with the "why" and establishes how the figure fits into each composition. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Mon-Thur., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, College of Charleston School of the Arts, 161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through Dec. 9 - "La Vaughn Belle: When the Land Meets the Body". In this exhibition, La Vaughn Belle seeks to explore the relationship of history, land, and the bodies between them. "When the Land Meets the Body" will present a selection of existing work and new commissioned works inspired by the Lowcountry landscape. Through this process, Belle will consider the idea that who we are individually and collectively is a product of historical processes that are often represented in the landscape. Over the last decade, Belle's work has been centered in decolonial art practices that challenge the narratives in colonial archives. With this project, she will weave biography and history to create interventions in historical sites and consider how landscapes and ecosystems are manipulated by those who live within them. Although the form and substance of the institution has changed over two and a half centuries, its general purpose at the time of its creation – to educate – is still central to its mission today. Throughout its history, the Museum has experienced wars, natural disasters, and most recently a worldwide pandemic, yet it has continued to thrive. Today, The Charleston Museum houses more than 2.4 million objects, and each year over 100,000 people, from around the world and from all walks of life, come here to learn. Florence

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Ongoing - "Kindred Spirit: The Personal Worlds of William H. Johnson". William H. Johnson (1901 - 1970) was a man between worlds: raised in the rural South, but educated in New York; black, but his unknown father was white; American-born, but lived much of his adult life in Europe. This diverse heritage gave Johnson a unique perspective and insight, but at times it was also a difficult shadow which followed him as he traveled the world in search of his true artistic voice. Eventually, after many years away from his hometown of Florence, SC, Johnson returned to the United States. Although living in New York, his art began to focus almost entirely on the lives and experiences of African Americans in the rural South. "My travels taught me that an artist must live and paint in his own environment... This development shall continue for the rest of my life, and it is the painting of my people," said Johnson in 1941. Special Exhibit Gallery, Through Jan. 28, 2024 - "Openings: Joseph Kameen". In his recent paintings, South Carolina artist Joseph Kameen investigates how the search for meaning in everyday moments becomes distorted as internal thoughts are projected onto inanimate surroundings, blurring the line between reality and memory. With their strong compositions, intense interplay of colors, and theatrical effects of light and shadow, the paintings' characters, objects, and events take on a dream-like presence that is both familiar and elusive, suggesting meanings that remain slightly out of reach. His images occupy a space somewhere between the observed and the observer, achieving a subtle symbolic ambiguity and leaving room for multiple interpretations. Kameen's work has been exhibited in New York, London, and Berlin. He received his MFA in painting from Indiana University following a BFA in painting and sculpture from Boston University. He is currently Assistant Professor of Art at the University of South Carolina Aiken. Educational Gallery, Ongoing - "Hutty: The Art of Observation". Community Gallery, Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. Myrtle Beach / Grand Strand Franklin G. Burroughs - Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, 3100 South Ocean Blvd., beside Springmaid Beach, Myrtle Beach. Through Dec. 31 - "Kristine Mays I A Time for Everything". Within each of the artist's hollow wire sculptures -- in either life-sized human form or the shape of a garment -- is a surprise: another figure, a small creature of nature, or a message. Each piece invites the viewer to look closer to find the hidden meaning beyond the mere shape of the artwork, as it challenges viewers' perceptions of identity and awareness. Mays' works are sculpted from thousands of pieces of wire hooked and looped together; yet despite the hardness of her medium, the artist achieves a fluidity to her forms that suggest the softness of a human body, with its fleeting gestures and expressions. Through Dec. 10 - "Richard Hagerty I The Big Uneasy". Charleston, SC, surrealist artist Richard Hagerty has been painting his fantastic, visionary worlds for more than five decades. Often based on his dreams and fueled by intense curiosity, Hagerty's paintings explore manifold realms, including mythology, astronomy, anatomy, botany, history, philosophy and world religions. A retired plastic surgeon, Hagerty is formally trained in the rigors and discipline of science, which informs his artistic endeavors. His acute attention to detail, unquenchable thirst for knowledge and understanding of both concrete and abstract intellectual concepts and enthusiasm to share his thoughts and findings on canvas are what makes his art so compelling. Through Dec. 31 - "Local Stories Matter: Rediscovering Our Region with the Athenaeum Press". Discover the hidden stories of our region through the lens of The Athenaeum Press at Coastal Carolina University. View inside Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Episcopal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in hundreds of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Spartanburg Throughout downtown Spartanburg, 3rd Thursday, from 5-8pm - "Spartanburg Art-Walk," a free self-guided tour through participating galleries across Spartanburg's Cultural District. Contact: visit (www.chapmanculturalcenter.org).

Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is that crosswalks are incredibly easy to overlook, they are rarely visually appealing, and they can even be quite dangerous. In an effort to remedy these issues, Chapman Cultural Center, the City of Spartanburg, and the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce came together to organize the Creative Crosswalk Project. For more info visit (<https://www.chapmanculturalcenter.org/pages/blog/detail/article/c0/a1555/>).

Work by Rosemary McLeod

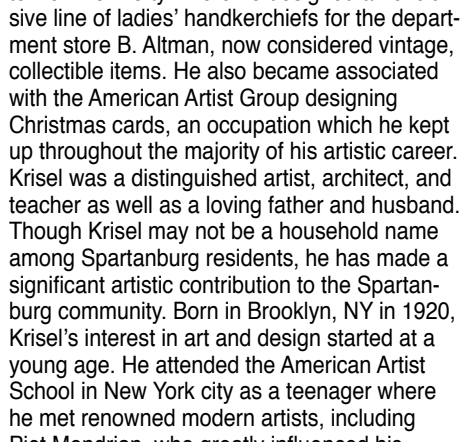

Artists Collective I Spartanburg (formerly West Main Artists Cooperative), 578 West Main St., Spartanburg. Solomon Gallery & Gallery III, Through Dec. 23 - "Holiday Artisan Market". Looking ahead at the holidays, do you often think you'd like to give unique gifts – one-of-a-kind pieces that the recipient will really cherish? Sure, there are websites offering such items, but why not "shop local"? "This much-anticipated annual market will feature works of 44 regional artists' works – everything from acrylic paintings to sculptures and jewelry to photography and ceramics and just about everything in between," says Marcy Fedalei, one of the artists and a member of the Holiday Artisan Market Committee. "Every piece is original and unique, and sure to please any recipient, and while you're at it, pick up something – or a few things – for yourself." Prices of the art will range from under $5 to more than $1,000. Gallery II, Dec. 2 - 30 - "Supersize or Super Small". Reception will be held on Dec. 21, from 6-8pm. Upstate artist John Lever loves things great and small – especially things he can photograph. "This show ranges over the scale of pictures from macro to micro – big landscapes to real close ups," says Lever, who lives in Duncan, SC, and has been a member of ACS for about six years. "It is really about my attempts to stretch myself photographically. For example, this is the first time for me to exhibit a seven-panel version of a triptych – either a 'septiptych' or a heptiptych or, best for me, a polyptych. Another is capturing motion at the Criterion, the downtown Spartanburg bicycle race that happens each spring. The show also will include some of my favorite subjects – wild-life and landscapes. Ongoing - The Collective features a twenty thousand square foot facility offering affordable studio space, retail space, three galleries, a full ceramics studio, printery, and works by 50 local artists. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm; with extended hours on the 3rd Thur. of each month until 9pm for Spartanburg's Art Walk. Contact: 864/804-6501 or at (artistscollectivespartanburg.org).

His ties to the Spartanburg community originate from his longtime employment at Milliken and Company. Tait was born in Old Town, Maine in 1917 and graduated from the New Hampshire Institute of Arts and Science. In the late 1940s, he moved to New York City where he designed an exclusive line of ladies' handkerchiefs for the department store B. Altman, now considered vintage, collectible items. He also became associated with the American Artist Group designing Christmas cards, an occupation which he kept up throughout the majority of his artistic career. Krisel was a distinguished artist, architect, and teacher as well as a loving father and husband. Though Krisel may not be a household name among Spartanburg residents, he has made a significant artistic contribution to the Spartanburg community. Born in Brooklyn, NY in 1920, Krisel's interest in art and design started at a young age. He attended the American Artist School in New York city as a teenager where he met renowned modern artists, including Piet Mondrian, who greatly influenced his abstract style. After studying architecture at the New Bauhaus in Chicago from 1946-1949, he received his graduate degree from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1952. The following year, he began working for architectural firm Skidmore, Owings and Merrill when Roger Milliken hired them to design Milliken's new research facility in Spartanburg. Upon realizing Krisel was also a sculptor, Milliken hired him to design the spray fountain outside of the facility which functions as a recycler of air conditioning water. He then went on to design the Trident Fountain located outside of the Papadopoulos building on Wofford College's campus. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-7pm & Sat, 9am-3pm. Rosalind Sallenger Richardson Center for the Arts, Wofford College, Spartanburg. Richardson Family Art Museum, Through Dec. 8 - "A GENDER LINE: A Multidisciplinary Show of Female Artists and Writers". A panel discussion and reception will be held on Nov. 9, beginning at 5pm in the Rosalind Sallenger Richardson Center for the Arts, room 112. The quote, "A gender line...helps keep women not on a pedestal, but in a cage," by Ruth Bader Ginsburg, highlights the notion that women are often confined to specific roles and expectations in society. It is a reminder that women have been historically excluded from specific opportunities, particularly when it comes to earning wages. RBG's quote directly relates to Women's Rights, Gender Studies, Feminism, and Female Justice dialogues. However, this powerful statement, seen through an artistic lens, opens endless possibilities to decode, reveal, express, and create meanings within diverse art forms and discussions. Featured visual artists include: Elaine Quave, Freda Sue, Mina Rastgatalab

Asheville Art Museum, 2 South Pack Square at Pack Place, Asheville. Through Apr. 29, 2024 - "American Art in the Atomic Age: 1940-1960," which explores the groundbreaking contributions of artists who worked at the experimental print-making studio Atelier 17 in the wake of World War II. Co-curated by Marilyn Laufer and Tom Butler, American Art in the Atomic Age which draws from the holdings of Dolan/Maxwell, the Asheville Art Museum Collection, and private collections. "We are delighted to partner with the Asheville Art Museum to present an exhibition that highlights the brilliance of the Atelier 17 studio and artists during the Atomic Age," says Ron Rumford, Director of Dolan/Maxwell. "Though challenged by the times, Atelier 17 preserved and pioneered a legacy in printmaking that still inspires." Through Feb. 5, 2024 - "Beyond the Lens: Photorealist Perspectives on Looking, Seeing, and Painting". Through-out the history of painting from the mid-19th century forward, artists have used an endless variety of approaches to record their world. "Beyond the Lens: Photorealist Perspectives on Looking, Seeing, and Painting" continues this thread, offering an opportunity to explore a singular and still forceful aspect of American art. Photorealism shares many of the approaches of historical and modernist realism, with a twist. The use of the camera as a basic tool for organizing visual information in advance of painterly expression is now quite common, but Photorealists embraced the camera as the focal point in their creative process. "Beyond the Lens" presents key works from the collection of Louis K. and Susan Pear Meisel, bringing together paintings and works on paper dating from the 1970s to the present to focus on this profoundly influential art movement. The exhibition includes work by highly acclaimed formative artists of the movement such as Charles Bell, Robert Bechte, Tom Blackwell, Richard Estes, Audrey Flack, and Ralph Goings as well as paintings by the successive generations of Photorealist artists Anthony Brunelli, Davis Cone, Bertrand Meniel, Rod Penner, and Raphaella Spence. The Van Winkle Law Firm Gallery, Level 1, Through Jan. 22, 2024 - "Romare Bearden: Ways of Working". Moore Gallery, Through Apr. 15, 2024 - "Western North Carolina Glass," selections from the collection. Western North Carolina is important in the history of American glass art. Several artists of the Studio Glass Movement came to the region, including its founder Harvey K. Littleton. Begun in 1962 in Wisconsin, it was a student of Littleton's that first came to the area in 1965 and set up a glass studio at the Penland School of Craft in Penland, North Carolina. By 1967, Mark Peiser was the first glass artist resident at the school and taught many notable artists, like Jak Brewer in 1968 and

Richard Ritter who came to study in 1971. By 1977, Littleton retired from teaching and moved to nearby Spruce Pine, North Carolina and set up a glass studio at his home. Since that time, glass artists like Ken Carder, Rick and Valerie Beck, Shane Ferro, and Yaffa Sikorsky and Jeff Todd—to name only a few—have flocked to the area to reside, collaborate, and teach, making it a significant place for experimentation and education in glass. The next generation of artists like Hayden Wilson and Alex Bernstein continue to create here. Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. Helen M. Post Modley portrait of Anni Albers at BMC - Black Mountain College Museum

Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center, 120 College Street, Asheville. Through Jan. 6, 2024 - "Weaving at Black Mountain College: Anni Albers, Trude Guernonprez, and Their Students," is the first exhibition devoted to textile practices at Black Mountain College (BMC). - "Revelation: Michael O'Neill." "Revelation" supports the mission of the Turchin Center to showcase creative responses to local, regional, and global climate change. All of O'Neill's ethereal landscapes were made in the South. The land bears the ongoing scarification of a deeply troubled history at the same time the photographs reveal the beauty of what yet may be lost if we do not find a more equitable way to care for the lands of which we are the current stewards. Hodges, Bickers and Community Galleries, Through Dec. 2 - "Passage / Time Pieces". "Passage" is an installation of live music by Michael Harrison with musicians Elliot Cole, Ina Filip, and Benoit Rolland, with lighting by Nina Elder, in partnership with "Time Pieces", featuring drawings by Nina Elder. "Passage" and "Time Pieces" are closely related but separate installations originally conceived by composer and performer Michael Harrison and artist Nina Elder. The immersive debut installation, "Passage", interprets Earth's light and dark, using illumination and shadow to simulate cosmic movements. In collaboration with composer/performers Elliot Cole, Ina Filip, and Benoit Rolland, Michael Harrison presents an interactive performative artwork that responds to the passage of one day of celestial and human time. In addition to designing the lighting for Passage, Nina Elder created the exquisite graphite drawings in Time Pieces – contemplations on the physical texture of time and the potential for transformation. Gallery A and Pett/Peiser Galleries, Dec. 1 - May 4, 2024 - "Considering Carbon: Kathleen Thum". "The exhibition, Considering Carbon, consists of a series of drawings and cut-paper wall installations which explore the theme of fossil fuels, specifically oil and coal. In the exhibition, I use different visual and conceptual approaches to examine the physical, material qualities of coal and oil, as I aim to heighten an awareness of our disconnection and dependence on fossil fuels. Oil and coal are an integral part of our contemporary existence, yet remain mysterious, unknown substances, contained and controlled by the industry," says Thum. "Large-scale wall installation artworks in the exhibition consider the infrastructure of the pipeline system through a visual language of abstraction to communicate the vastness of the petroleum infrastructure. In these large cut-paper pieces, I evoke the visceral, sensory quality of the petroleum landscape by using scale, texture, surface, color and the non-traditional presentation of drawings to engage the body of the viewer," adds Thum. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-6pm; Fri., noon-8pm; & Sat., 10am-6pm. Contact: 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Floraand the accompanying work "Bust" (both 2017) spotlight the life of Flora Mayo, who in the 1920s studied alongside Swiss sculptor Alberto Giacometti at the Académie de la Grande Chaumière in Paris, and with whom she had a romantic relationship. Fourth Floor Gallery, Through Jan. 21, 2024 - "Giacometti and the Artists of the Grande Chaumière." I have spent many hours in the studio experimenting and playing with materials and imagery. By June 2020, I found myself drawing every evening with gel pen and small sketchbook. I begin with no intention when drawing. I don't know whether the subconscious mind is seeping up into the conscious mind or if the conscious mind is seeping down into the subconscious mind, either way I do not question it. The journey involves embracing the mystery of stories that unfold. I look and I respond, I feel and I respond, I wonder and I respond, I don't know and I respond. I just let it all happen as it does. Working in mixed-media I create paintings, drawings and collages. Layering color, drawing, and collage create a tapestry of expressive imagery. Acrylic paint, Oil Pastels, Collage, Graphite, Inks, Pastel Crayons, Charcoal, and Graphite Powder are materials I enjoy playing with. Hand printed and stained rice papers become part of the layering. Through the beauty of art and the complexity of life, my current works explore the strength, courage, joy, dignity, challenge, love, trauma, humor, and compassion that we all share. The stories can connect us in ways we never expected and ways we come to feel as part of ourselves. The viewer brings their own experience to the work as we do in life when we meet each other. As the tale unfolds these images show the ordinary with all its beauty, uniqueness, complexity, magic, and mystery that we all hold within. Work by Sudie Rakusin

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Harper Campus, Harper IV, 315 W. Hebron St., Charlotte. Through Dec. 8 - "Layer and Lines," featuring works by Sudie Rakusin. Rakusin says, "Being an animal activist and feminist, my artwork flows from what moves me and from where I find beauty: women, animals, the earth, color, pattern and light. My art represents the deep connection I feel with these elements. Through my artwork I create a world as I would like it to be, where harmony exists between animal and human, and where nature thrives. My work includes pen and ink drawings, papier-mâché sculptures, abstracts in cold wax and oil, and 3-dimensional oil on canvas paintings featuring women and animals. "Art is where I go for refuge, replenishing, and how I pay homage to what sustains me. This body of work is cold wax and oil on wood panels. The properties of cold wax fascinate me and keep me curious; how the underlying layers inform and alter the layers applied over them, how incising and scraping and glazing make more changes. I know I am wielding the palette knife and mixing the colors, but what happens on the panel is beyond my control. I'm learning how to be fine with the state of 'not knowing.'" Through Dec. 31 - "Journey Through Life by Jodi Lynn McNeely", Charlotte artist Jodi Lynn McNeely has a drive to paint something, make something, or fix something. After taking numerous art classes at Central Piedmont Community College and participating in several ceramic workshops, Jodi built a studio and gallery on her property in South Charlotte, Her Industrial Design Bachelors Degree, ceramics education, and free form carving have emerged as her signature style, creating unique pieces with structural integrity and aesthetic interest. He started working on a series of paintings based on the parks and scenes he and his wife enjoyed during their daily walks in their new surroundings. Painting helped him feel grounded and provided a sense of hope. Newman says, "In this time of uncertainty – emotionally, politically, and physically – it's my hope that others might interpret their own sense of solace and hope for the future with gifts as simple and as powerful as the flowers and landscapes we discover in our own backyards" Hours: open while campus is open, but reservations help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Patrick Alston, "Past Tense," detail, 2023, acrylic, gouache, oil, oil stick, pastel, and spray paint on sewn fabric, 76 x 98 inches, courtesy of the artist. - Harvey Gantt Center

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Jan. 15, 2024 - "my Presence is Present: interpretations of afroreualism from the American South," is an exhibition that navigates through surreal African-American experiences as told by 20 emerging and established contemporary artists in and around the Carolinas. Each participating artist purposefully creates work in response to our inherent memories and identities of growing up and living in the American South. "As curator of this exhibition, I asked local Charlotte artist DaRemen J. about the state of his current video works. His response, 'everything right now is about me being Black and just existing.' A rather surreal perspective when you think about it in a present-day context. Are we simply existing or continuing to create new spaces where we can still exist? If so, what do those brave new worlds look like and at what point do they become surreal, leading us on a journey to new visual interpretations of how we live and view our Black lives?" Through Jan. 15 - "Kennedi Carter: Sight Unseen". Born and raised in Durham, NC, Kennedi Carter has garnered international acclaim through her portraits of "overlooked beauties of the Black experience: skin, texture, trauma, peace, love and community." Defined as "without inspection or appraisal," Carter's work exemplifies the phrase "sight unseen." Her images approach and depict moments without judgement or preconceived notions of what constitutes memorable or worthy. The exhibition draws on Carter's ability to capture the "unseen" — moments often overlooked or invisible to society. Featuring a number of new works, the exhibition demonstrates the breadth of Carter's vision and provides a glimpse into the personal worlds she photographs. Through May 12, 2024 - "Post-Traumatism : In Search of Freedom". In this exhibition, eight large-scale abstract paintings take center stage, adorned with visceral and emotive gestures that lay bare the raw intensity of trauma and triumph. Alston's brushstrokes dance between chaos and order, unveiling the inner conflict between pain and the unyielding desire for freedom. These canvases become the battleground where the artist wrestles with concepts of trauma, seeking to transmute them into powerful symbols of resilience and hope. "Post-Traumatism: In Search of Freedom" seeks to illuminate the profound interconnectedness of human existence and the universality of our struggle for emancipation. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Through Jan. 21, 2024 - "Walter Scott Lenox & American Belleek". Featuring 80 works from the Mint's permanent collection, as well as other notable public and private collections, this exhibition focuses solely on the earliest decades of American Belleek production and the role of Walter Scott Lenox played in its development as an art form. Curated by Brian Gallagher, the Mint's senior curator of decorative arts, The Mint Museum is the exhibition's only venue. In 1857, McBirney and Company in the village of Belleek in County Fermanagh, Northern Ireland, began producing a new type of porcelain renowned for its light, delicately thin, ivory-colored body. Named for the town in which it was created, Belleek porcelain quickly became prized among discerning customers in the British Isles. As its popularity then spread across the Atlantic, several American ceramic manufacturers in Trenton, New Jersey, sought to make their own version of Belleek. In 1882, Ott and Brewer became the first to succeed. Ongoing - "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". From crocks, jars, and jugs to pitchers, candleholders, and vases, "turning pots" is one of the oldest and richest craft traditions in North Carolina. For more than 200 years, members of the Cole family have been pitting in central North Carolina — Randolph, Moore, Lee, and Montgomery counties. Six generations of Coles, and no fewer than 18 individuals, are represented in The Mint Museum's permanent collection. More than 60 highlights of their wares are included in the installation "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". One reason for its long-term success is that making pottery has so often been a family tradition in the state. Fathers taught the art of forming, glazing, and firing clay objects to their sons, and in later generations also to daughters, who in turn taught their children, and so on through the decades. These family dynasties not only helped to keep the potting craft alive, but ensured continuity in techniques and craftsmanship, as well as introduced artistic innovations in succeeding generations. "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters" presents a visual history of "turned pots" and the family that helped turn North Carolina into one of America's centers for handmade, traditional pottery. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. Work by Bob Trotman, a new acquisition at the Mint Museum Uptown

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Dec. 9 - May 5, 2024 - "Craft Across Continents I Contemporary Japanese and Western Objects: The Lassiter/Ferraro Collection". The exhibition features more than 50 objects from the private collection of Lorne Lassiter and Gary Ferraro. Lassiter and Ferraro say they collect for the fun of it - visiting artists' studios, art fairs, galleries and museums here and abroad - but they are serious-minded collectors with a deep knowledge of contemporary craft. The exhibition will be presented in a domestic-like setting to underscore the theme of enjoying life through living with art. The exhibition will include glass, ceramics, bamboo, and textile contemporary objects by artists from around the globe, including masterworks of glass sculpture from the Czech Republic, a seminal installation by Danish maker Tobias Mohl, and a mobile by Polish-trained artist Anna Skliska, and spectacular large glazed ceramic vessel by British maker Gareth Mason. Twenty-first century Japanese bamboo works by leading practitioners and innovative wood-fired ceramics also are highlights of the collection. Through Feb. 25, 2024 - "The Art of Seating: 200 Years of American Design". The exhibition, drawn from the rich holdings of the Thomas H. and Diane DeMell Jacobsen Ph.D. Foundation provides a rare opportunity to survey the history of American craftsmanship and ingenuity, seen through the lens of seating furniture. Featuring many of the most iconic designs and designers from the past two centuries, "The Art of Seating" encourages visitors to reconsider objects that are a ubiquitous and often overlooked part of our everyday lives, seeing chairs as not just functional objects, but as works of art in their own right. At the same time, the objects in the exhibition also have stories to tell about the history of our country, ranging from the contributions of immigrants to changing tastes in style and aesthetics to new innovations in technology and materials. More than forty examples of seating furniture from the Thomas H. and Diane DeMell Jacobsen Ph.D. Foundation are included in the exhibition and offer a stylistic journey from the early 1800s to the twenty-first century. Through Mar. 3, 2024 - "Ajané K. Williams: Sublimations of Spacetime". Ajané K. Williams' art is out of this world. Her artist's statement reveals that she "came to Planet Earth ... to show humanity how to find their higher self and travel to the edge of infinity using the power of our own consciousness." Naturally curious, Williams immerses herself in the unfamiliar. The self-described "space and time traveler" is a DJ (DJ Nebula), video artist, and Afrofuturist painter. She sees Afrofuturism as "a cultural aesthetic that combines African American culture with futuristic, innovative ideas." She finds working in the genre therapeutic and her work is garnering national attention. It was part of the "Black Creativity Juried Art Exhibition" at the Chicago Science and Industry Museum. Craft + Design Galleries, Ongoing - "Craft in the Laboratory: The Science of Making Things," is the first installation in the Southeast to explore how craft artists and designers use science and math concepts when creating works of art. Presented by Müller Corporation, Craft in the Laboratory also celebrates a reinstallation of the Mint's Craft + Design Galleries—the first since 2010. Co-curated by the Mint's Senior Curator of Craft, Design, and Fashion Annie Carlano and Assistant Curator for Craft, Design, and Fashion Rebecca Elliot, "Craft in the Laboratory" includes 100 works from the Mint's collection that are made from precious metals, wood, steel, polymers, and even agricultural waste, that emphasize the preciseness of science used to craft works of art. Made by nationally and internationally renowned artists, the objects are organized by material and subject throughout the galleries. Now - The Mint Museum's new four-story installation "Foragers" offers a transcendent experience while celebrating the tradition of women as makers and providers. Unlike anything ever seen at The Mint Museum before, Brooklyn-based artist Summer Wheat's "Foragers" is a monumental piece of public work of art spanning 96 windows, four stories, and 3,720 square feet at Mint Museum Uptown's Robert Haywood Morrison Atrium. The myriad of vibrant panels that give the illusion of stained glass and celebrates the tradition of women as makers and providers. "Foragers" is part of a larger exhibition "In Vivid Color," which brings together four innovative contemporary artists—Wheat, Gisela Colon, Spencer Finch, and Jennifer Steinkamp—who create works celebrating the power of color and its ability to permeate the space around us. Their work is juxtaposed with a selection of paintings and works on paper, drawn primarily from The Mint Museum's permanent collection, which showcase artists' more traditional exploration of color. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Through Jan. 7, 2024 - "Lyle Ashton Harris: Our first and last love". Drawing together photographs and installations from both his celebrated and lesser-known series, "Lyle Ashton Harris: Our first and last love" charts new connections across the artistic practice of Lyle Ashton Harris (b. 1965, Bronx, NY). The exhibition explores Harris's critical examination of identity and self-portraiture while tracing central themes and formal approaches in his work of the last 35 years. The artist's recently-completed "Shadow Works" anchor the exhibition. In these meticulous constructions, photographic prints are set within geometric frames of stretched Ghanaian funerary textiles, along with shells, shards of pottery, and cuttings of the artist's own hair. Our first and last love follows the cues of the "Shadow Works" collaged and pictured elements - which include earlier artworks and reference materials, personal snapshots, and handwritten notes - to shed light on Harris's layered approach to his practice. Through Feb. 18, 2024 - "Love & Anarchy". On the surface, love and anarchy may seem like unrelated or even conflicting notions. Love is synonymous with care, compassion, and affection, while anarchy is generally accepted as an absence of authority, a state of disorder, or an unworkable condition. These concepts, more than tangentially related, are often intertwined and even sometimes mutually dependent. Indeed, moments of disarray and frustration are intrinsic to love, while love sometimes emerges out of disorder and chaos. Drawn from the Nasher Museum's extensive historical and contemporary collections, "Love & Anarchy" demonstrates some of the ways in which these two concepts have inspired artists, visually and conceptually, over millennia. Love has been a subject in art for eternity. In antiquity, Aphrodite, goddess of beauty and love, and her offspring, Eros, repeatedly appeared in painting, sculpture, and pottery. From an ancient Greek depiction of the goddess to a 12th century sculpture of the Virgin enthroned to Marc Quinn's 21st century rendering of animal carcasses in Mother and Child, Aphrodite's image resonates across eons. Contemporary depictions of love reveal recognizable poses, gestures, or touch as in Zanele Muholi's photograph, "Katlego Mashiloane" and Nosiפו Lavuta, "Ext. 2, Lakeside, Johannesburg". Ongoing - The Collection Galleries feature rotating installations of the Nasher Museum's extensive holdings of historical art. Eight galleries, as well as the entrance to Wilson Pavilion, are dedicated to the museum's strengths, which represent a brief history of human creativity from different times and parts of the world. Just beyond the entrance, visitors will find the Incubator, a flexible space for rotating student- and faculty-curated exhibitions. Visitors are invited to return again and again to The Collection Galleries, where Nasher curators continue to refresh the galleries with gems from the collection. The museum's contemporary collection is showcased through rotating exhibitions within a separate pavilion. Works from the contemporary collection create new conversations and connections among historical works in The Collection Galleries. A breakthrough work by New York artist Fred Wilson from 1990, Colonial Collection, anchors the Arts of Africa Gallery. A painting by Kehinde Wiley is on view in the European Art Gallery. Ongoing - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/684-5135 or at (www.nasher.duke.edu).

Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. Through Dec. 9 - "A Golden Age: Original Animation Art from the Walt Disney Studios, 1937-42". One hundred years ago this fall, on October 16, 1923, two brothers named Walt and Roy Disney opened a modest animation studio in Hollywood, California. Just fourteen years later, in 1937, they amazed their audiences with the technological triumph of the world's first full-length cel animated film: "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs". As one writer for the Los Angeles Times noted, "Snow White will twice amaze you. Once when you see it and hear it and again when it suddenly comes over you that what you saw and heard was 250,000 handmade drawings photographed one frame at a time." In fact, it is estimated that another 750,000 drawings and sketches were produced by more than 500 Disney artists during production of the film. From concept paintings to storyboard, character studies to master backgrounds, every element of the movie was crafted by hand. 2nd Floor: The Bob & Lissa Shelley McDowell Gallery, Through Apr. 6, 2024 - "Art on Paper 2023: The 47th Exhibition". The Weatherspoon is pleased to announce the 47th presentation of "Art on Paper". A time-honored museum tradition, the exhibition features the work of artists who demonstrate the breadth of ways in which one can deploy the humble medium of paper to extraordinary ends. From layering colorful strips as one might on a piñata, to precisely cutting through an elongated page until its image appears as if made by lace, to densely coating giant sheets with shellac and walnut ink until they appear as weighty as stone, these artists harness the seemingly infinite ability of paper to take on myriad forms. Simultaneously, they use those forms to explore a rich array of topics—from the links and tensions between humans and the natural environment, to the beauty found in the often overlooked materials of our daily lives, to the complexity of heritage tracked across centuries of global migrations. 1st Floor: Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Gallery and Sculpture Courtyard, 2nd Floor: The Gregory D. Ivy Gallery, Weatherspoon Guild Gallery, and Gallery 6, Through Spring 2024 - "Making Room: Familiar Art, New Stories". How might the Weatherspoon better engage with museum participants to share fuller and more inclusive stories of American art? This question sparked an eighteen-month-long curatorial and programming project starting in January 2022. We've been listening to people as they share what matters to them in the museum, and we've created this installation of the museum's art collection based on what we learned. "Making Room: Familiar Art, New Stories" presents 43 artworks (see cover for a few selections) from the Weatherspoon's collection of more than 6,500. Each was chosen in response to what more than 4,000 community members told us they care about. These visitor responses—which ranged from poems to doodles to personal statements—were gathered in multiple ways. Within the Inquiry Hubs, for example, the visitor engagement team coordinated pop-up gallery performances and facilitated collection-based inquiry and play. Weather-spoon Atrium Mural, Ongoing - "Pause and Breathe, We Got This," a mural by Sheena Rose. A homecoming is in the works. The Weatherspoon is excited to announce its commission of a major new artwork by artist Sheena Rose, MFA '16. A multidisciplinary artist working in animation, drawing, painting, and performance, Rose's vibrant and energetic work is at once anchored in her Caribbean heritage and expansive in its explorations of culture and human experience. Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Ottenress' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Wed. & Fri.-Sat., from 10am-5pm and Thur., 10am-8pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (<http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu/>).

Greenville Museum of Art, 802 South Evans Street, Greenville. West Wing & Commons Gallery, Through Feb. 24, 2024 - "Marauders," a three-person exhibition featuring original art by Antoine Williams, Donté K. Hayes, and Johannes Barfield. Through a range of media including ceramics, audio/visual installations, wheat paste murals, and collages, along with historical African artworks and artifacts from East Carolina University's Gray Gallery collection, Marauders explores themes of history, memory, ancestry, and futurism. Williams, Hayes, and Barfield's processes each involve deconstructing concepts and materials from personal and cultural archives as they construct narratives related to the African Diaspora. Creating new intertwined futures as they retrieve, conjure, and manifest the heirlooms they never received, their work combats deculturation and celebrates a new era of cultural reclamation. This exhibition is presented in conjunction with the East Carolina University School of Art and Design and College of Fine Arts and Communication. The Francis Speight and Sarah Baleslee Gallery, Ongoing - Is dedicated to the work of these two artists. Speight was born in Bertie County, North Carolina, and moved back to Greenville to teach at East Carolina University after spending a majority of his career at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Baleslee was born in Illinois and met Speight at the Academy as a student. The couple lived outside of Philadelphia until moving to Greenville in 1961. The Kenneth Noland Gallery, Ongoing - Celebrates the art and legacy of Black Mountain College, an innovative liberal arts college that operated between 1933 and 1957. He studied under Josef Albers and Ilya Bolotowsky, who introduced him to the work of artists interested in geometry and color. The Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation Gallery, Ongoing - Features rotating works purchased for the Museum by the foundation. Rachel Maxwell Moore was a leading civic figure and arts advocate in Greenville, and was central to the founding of the Museum's predecessor in 1939. It had taken little more than 100 years for the corridors along the coastline of this still-new continent to overflow. As tensions grew and conflicts flared, the pioneer spirit set in. Families literally packed up everything they owned and headed into the unknown-searching for the "promised land." Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-4pm. A view of the exhibition, "BLOW UP II"

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Through Apr. 13, 2024 - "Leading by Design: Celebrating 75 Years of the College of Design".

NC State's School (now College) of Design became a reality in September 1948, and rapidly gained a reputation as one of the top design schools in the nation. The most progressive school of architecture and allied arts in the South, it served as a hub of modernist creativity for the entire region and greatly influenced the landscape and architecture found throughout the Triangle Area today. "Leading by Design" celebrates the design school's legacy by showcasing artworks from the Gregg Museum's permanent collection created by professors and instructors associated with it in its formative years along with an audiovisual element that marks its ongoing impact in the 21st century. Through Jan. 28, 2024 - "BLOW UP II: Inflatable Contemporary Art". The exhibit explores the medium of inflatable art with figurative, conceptual, and abstract imagery. These large-scale inflatable sculptures, conceived by nine artists and art collectives, connote fun and whimsy, are familiar yet strange, and challenge the definition of art. Here, in an unusual feat, artists use air as an active tool in their work to subvert our perspective and surprise us. Inflatables have a long history, dating as far back as the 18th century, and were initially perceived as innovative, if not magical, objects. Today, inflatables are often associated with happy memories. Lawn inflatables, bouncy houses, and party balloons are ubiquitous at holidays and celebrations. Water wings, inflatable inner tubes, and rafts conjure thrilling vacation memories. The awe-inspiring hot air balloon challenges our feet-on-the-ground perspective, allowing us to levitate and explore the land from above like a bird. The inflatable is also well-known for its effective marketing abilities. Who hasn't been drawn to the dancing street inflatable near the shopping center or the massive blimp with a scrolling electronic sign flying over a stadium? Plain and simple: humans are attracted to inflatables. However, what happens to our experience of large, art-filled objects – typically encountered outdoors – when we place them in an art gallery and play with their scale? The result is what you will find in "BLOW UP II", the second iteration of Bedford Gallery's traveling inflatable exhibition. This show's roster of artists includes: Nicole Banowetz, Sharon Engelstein, FriendsWithYou, Josh Harker, Susan Lee-Chun, Matt Ritchie, Lizbeth Rossot, Jen Stark, and Max Streicher—many of whom have never worked in the inflatable medium previously. Ongoing - "Selections from the Collections". Image of a beige quilt with a skeleton riding a wolf holding an American flag. The quilt is made out of old t-shirts. Drawing from the Gregg Museum's collections of over 54,000 objects, Selections from the Collections displays a sampling of the many different kinds of pieces in its holdings. Though objects in the exhibition will rotate from time to time to facilitate their preservation and so that different artists and kinds of objects can be exhibited, the same general themes, materials, and variety of work will remain a part of this ongoing exhibition. For many years, Gregg audiences have been treated to wide ranging but relatively short-term exhibitions that explore topics or present artists' works for a matter of months, and then get changed out and replaced by entirely new shows. While this will continue, most visitors have departed without realizing that the Gregg staff also maintains vast collections used for teaching, research, supporting student projects, and, on occasion, as source material for the exhibitions in the public galleries. The semi-permanent Selections from the Collections exhibition in the historic Residence seeks to remedy that. This new rotating installation will ensure that there will always be fascinating things to see and share at the Gregg! Historic Residence, Ongoing - One of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm. The Gregg does ask that larger groups (15+) call ahead at (919) 515-3503, to avoid crowding in the galleries. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu>).

tendencies and demonstrate how many contemporary artists revel - whether discreetly or not - in the movement's legacy. East Building, Level B, Photography Gallery 1 (Julian T. Baker Jr. Gallery), Through Jan. 28, 2024 - "Luis Rey Velasco". Luis Rey Velasco (b. 1969) creates evocative photographs that capture labor histories, cultural traditions, and everyday people. He came of age in the San Joaquin Valley, a region of California where the history of Latinx farm labor is intrinsic to its identity. Mexican migrant workers arrived in the 1940s due to a set of agreements between the United States and Mexico. The program ended in 1964, but immigration to the region continued. Immersed in this history, Velasco moved to North Carolina in 1999 to photograph children of migrant farm workers. Featured in this exhibition are a selection of photographs Velasco executed between 1998 and 2005, many portraying members of farm worker communities in California and North Carolina. These compelling images emphasize his longtime focus on communities, histories, and regions that are largely hidden yet integral to the American economy. Ongoing - "Break the Mold: New Takes on Traditional Art Making". The exhibit showcases contemporary artists who use traditional modes of art making and crafting to tackle timely subject matter. Innovative takes on embroidery, ceramics, quilting, furniture, interior design, and fashion accessories serve to explore diverse topics such as gender assumptions and inequalities, prison reform, racial justice, memory, and loss, as well as how objects transmit and transform social and cultural history. This show features 25 contemporary artists, including Sanford Biggers, Elizabeth Brim, Maria Britton, Julie Cockburn, Rodney McMillan, Rachel Meginnes, Katy Mixon, Gabriel de la Mora, Yasumasa Morimura, Thomas Schmidt, Shinique Smith, and Do Ho Suh, whose artworks are displayed alongside some of their historical predecessors. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Salisbury/Spencer

Work by Jane Cheek

Waterworks Visual Arts Center, 123 E. Liberty St., in the East Square Arts District, located one block East of Main Street, across from the Salisbury Police Station, Salisbury. Through Dec. 30 - "Worth A Thousand Words," featuring works by Asheigh Burke Goldman, Jane Cheek, and Dori Settles. Asheigh Coleman is a photographer and writer. Her artworks have been widely exhibited at venues including the Ogden Museum of Southern Art in New Orleans, the Mississippi Museum of Art, the Bo Barlett Center in Columbus, the University of Mississippi's Center of Southern Culture, the University of West Virginia, Converse University, the Griffin Museum of Photography, the Meadows Museum of Art, Fischer Galleries, Claire Elizabeth Gallery, and is currently part of the traveling exhibitions - "Looking for Appalachia and A Yellow Rose Project." Jane Cheek installations - "Where We Built Our Dreams," explores the concept of home and its connection to our sense of belonging and happiness. Through immersive installation works, I invite viewers to explore the multifaceted nature of home and contemplate its significance in our lives. Drawing from my lifelong practice of cataloging joy and exploring memory, I create large-scale installations that magnify moments of happiness, often in a vivid, hyperbolic form. Through my work, I delve into the fragility of joy, the significance of gratitude, and the ever-changing nature of happiness. Dori Settles, glass sculpture - "Shoes as Storytellers". This project, inspired by President Biden's call for empathy, I found myself on a creative journey that involved crafting shoes from glass. Throughout 2021, I developed a process rooted in lost-wax casting and chose the pâte de verre technique. Unlike conventional glass casting methods, this approach grants me greater control and flexibility, resulting in delicate, hollow sculptures rather than hefty, solid forms. The well-known phrase "walk a mile in someone else's shoes" became the foundation of my project. Casting an entire mile's worth of shoes would have required over four years to accomplish. To represent this distance metaphorically, I decided that each shoe would be equal to approximately 100 feet, making a collection of 52 shoes. Ongoing - At Waterworks, all exhibitions are free to see (donations gladly accepted). "Lugar de Encuentros/Place of Encounters" is a new and important exhibition celebrating the work of six LatinX North Carolina based artists. North Carolina is home to a rich diversity of voices, and this is reflected in its community of Latin American artists. Work from "Place of Encounters / Lugar de Encuentros" often straddles two worlds, reflecting both birthplace and chosen home, exploring both tension and harmony in the relationship between the two. From film to installation art to paintings to photography, this exhibition delves into the variety of migrant experiences, offering a space for connection, a chance to encounter another's experience through art. The LatinX community in North Carolina has swelled from 1.2% in 1990 to 10.7% of the total population in 2020, reshaping the demography, economy, and culture of the state. Reflecting and celebrating community lies at the very heart of Cameron Art Museum's mission, making "Lugar de Encuentros/Place of Encounters" a necessary and important exhibition for Wilmington, the state, and the entire Nuevo South. Through Mar. 31, 2024 - "Monument," a new exhibition featuring work by nationally and internationally renowned artists Sonya Clark, Willie Cole, Stephen Hayes, Juan Logan, Alison Saar, Augustus Saint-Gaudens, and Kara Walker. Over several centuries, artists and craftspeople have used fiber to challenge identity-based oppression throughout various global cultures. "The Threads We Follow" includes works by: Aliyah Bonnette, Amalia Galdona Broche, Ambrose Rhapsody Murray, April Bey, Basil Kincaid, Cynthia Alberto, Ebony G. Patterson, John Paul Morabito, Lakea Shepard, Lien Truong, and Pia Camil. Potter Gallery, Through Dec. 31 - "If These Walls Could Talk," offers stylized murals which imagine the possibilities for community healing and futurisms. It's an exhibition of site-specific mural installations by William Downs, Neka King, and Raj Bunnag. For centuries, murals served as visual representations of complex social and political commentary in accessible spaces. Creatives placed their work on public structures, in civic centers, among other prominent areas, to communicate relevant critiques of everyday life. This documentation of contemporary issues connected individual experiences across race, gender, and religion, providing a tangible record of shared existence. The exhibit upholds the relationship between mural art and public institutions with site-specific works by Durham, NC-based artist Raj Bunnag and Atlanta, GA-based artists William Downs and Neka King. Craven Allen Gallery, 1106 1/2 Broad St., Durham. Through Jan. 6, 2024 - "John Beerman: Seen and Unseen/Paintings of North Carolina and Normandy." In "Seen and Unseen," renowned painter John Beerman brings together new work created both at home here in North Carolina, and abroad in Normandy, France. "To see freshly, to discover something luminous

below the surface of the commonplace is my challenge," says John Beerman. "By laying down paint on canvas, I try to represent a moment in time with its subtle order and its specific nuances of color and light." Perfect lighting conditions can be fleeting, so Beerman will often revisit a location for days in a row at an appointed time to create small plein air studies. These studies are then taken back to his studio, where he spends months translating them into large-scale paintings. Experimentation and discovery are at the core of Beerman's artistic practice. Ongoing - Featuring local artists in various mediums. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-6pm & Sat., 10am-4pm. Burk Uzzle Studio, 106 Douglas Street E, Wilson. Ongoing - Burk Uzzle's career, like his pictures, is a nuanced composition blending American culture, individual psyches of particular places and people, and an atypical way of seeing ourselves, our values, and our community. Always respectful yet locating the poignant or quirky, the history of his narrative belongs to all of us. Initially grounded in documentary photography when he was the youngest photographer hired by "LIFE magazine" at age 23, his work grew into a combination of split-second impressions reflecting the human condition during his tenure as a member of the prestigious international Magnum cooperative founded by one of his mentors Henri Cartier-Bresson. His archive spans almost six decades. His current work rests deep in photographic appreciation of the quiet, strong, and eloquent beauty he discovers in America's small towns and its people. It is along small back roads, limned with feelings and a surety of surprise for the heart wide open, that continue to support his understanding of how America keeps its personality out on a limb. Uzzle's current bodies of work (some of which are African-American) are artful and constructed reflections of his subjects. His hope is for a graphic presentation of something universal within the particular, and all the better when involving a gentle chuckle and knowing smile.

He is represented by SOCO Gallery in Charlotte, NC and Tracy Morgan Gallery in Asheville, NC. Hours: by appt. Contact: 252/363-1812 or e-mail to (burk@burkuzzle.com).
