Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Rory McEwen

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, will present Rory McEwen: A New Perspective on Nature, on view in Galleries 8 & 9, from Jan. 26 through Apr. 28, 2024.

Presenting the vibrant and varied career of the renowned Scottish artist, Rory McEwen (1932–1982), this exhibition reveals McEwen’s lifelong enquiry into light and color through his remarkable paintings of plants. Bringing a modern sensibility to botanical art, McEwen developed a distinctive style, painting on vellum and using large empty backgrounds on which his plant portraits seem to float. Without shadows and executed in exact, minutely accurate detail, he recorded the imperfect and the unique, as well as the flawless.

McEwen’s work, shown in this exhibition alongside the works of master botanical artists from the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries, “has had a lasting impact on the botanical art world, where he is recognized as one of the standard-bearers of today’s renaissance in botanical painting.”

The exhibition, Rory McEwen: A New Perspective on Nature, is presented by the Gibbes Museum of Art in association with Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew (London) and Oak Spring Garden Foundation (Virginia); tour management by Landau Traveling Exhibitions, Los Angeles, CA.

Generous support for this exhibition presentation at the Gibbes is provided by lead sponsors Cindy and Ben Lenhardt.

The Gibbes Museum enhances lives through art by engaging people of every background and experience with art and artists of enduring quality, by collecting and preserving art that touches Charleston, and by providing opportunities to learn, to discover, to enjoy, and to be inspired by the creative process.

The Gibbes Museum of Art is home to the foremost collection of American art that incorporates the story of Charleston. The Museum connects the city and region’s artistic past to a vibrant contemporary art scene. This is what we believe.

City of Charleston, SC’s, Office of Cultural Affairs Offers Exhibition Focused on Enslaved People

The City of Charleston, SC’s, Office of Cultural Affairs is presenting Sleeping with the Ancestors: How I Followed the Footprints of Slavery and “Payne-ful” Business, Charleston’s Journey to Truth, on view at the City Gallery, located at Joe Riley Waterfront Park, through Feb. 11, 2024.

The City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs presents two exhibitions at City Gallery that re-examine the lives of the enslaved by their descendants. Sleeping with the Ancestors: How I Followed the Footprints of Slavery uses recent photography by a collection of South Carolina photographers to highlight the work of the Joe McGill and the Slave Dwelling Project, a local non-profit that works to preserve extant slave dwellings throughout the country. “Payne-ful” Business, Charleston’s Journey to Truth pairs reproductions of historic advertisements with paintings of the enslaved by artist John W. Jones.

Sleeping with the Ancestors uses more than 40 photographs by a collection of SC photographers to highlight the work of the Slave Dwelling Project. The Slave Dwelling Project, founded in 2010 by Joe McGill, focuses attention on the lives of the enslaved through the examination of the buildings where they lived. The Slave Dwelling Project has reached more than one hundred fifty sites in twenty-five states and the District of Columbia, engaging with diverse audiences at historic locations where experts, including McGill, conduct programs, give lectures, and spend nights in the dwellings. McGill and co-author Herb Frazier recently released the book, Sleeping with the Ancestors (Hachette Publishing, 2023), focusing on the history of each location that the Slave Dwelling Project has visited.

The Slave Dwelling Project envisions a future in which the hearts and minds of Americans acknowledge a more truthful and inclusive narrative of the history of the nation that honors the contributions of all people, is embedded and preserved in the buildings and artifacts of people of African heritage, and inspires all Americans to acknowledge their Ancestors.

“Now that I have the attention of the public by sleeping in extant slave dwellings, it is time to wake up and deliver the message that the people who lived in these structures were not a footnote in American history” says McGill.

John W. Jones, legacy preservationist and acclaimed artist, has created a powerful series of paintings of the enslaved in the antebellum period in the exhibit, “Payne-ful” Business, Charleston’s Journey to Truth. Drawing on the historical research of Margaret Seidler, fourth great-granddaughter of domestic slave trading auctioneer William Payne, Jones references the descriptive text gleaned from newspaper advertisements as he respectfully brings to life the people who were vital to the success of this community and beyond. For this exhibition, Jones has created over 40 paintings; each is accompanied by the textual images of the supporting newspaper advertisement, including its archival provenance.

Seidler’s upcoming book, “Payne-ful” Business, Journey to Truth (Evening Post Books, February 2024), incorporates Jones’ compelling images in support of the historical interpretation of her recently discovered ancestors. The artist takes the Payne newspaper ads offering for sale blacksmiths, cooks, child nurses, brick masons and dozens of other talents, and transforms their trades, skills, and labors into a compelling visual narrative of the pervasiveness and magnitude of the contributions of the enslaved.

Born May 11, 1950, in Columbia, SC, John W. Jones has been a freelance artist and illustrator for more than 25 years. His former clients include Time Life Books, IBM, Westinghouse, Rubbermaid, NASA, Gaddled Space and Flight Center, and the

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

On Our Cover

On our cover this month is a work by John Singleton Copley, entitled "Portrait of Mrs. Daniel Rogers (Elizabeth Gorham Rogers)", made in 1762, which belongs to Wake Forest University, from the Hanes Collection, a Gift of Philip and Charlotte Hanes. It's on view in the Northwest Bedroom Gallery, at the Reynolda House Museum of American Art, in Winston-Salem, NC, through Oct. 27, 2024. It's part of the exhibit, "Good Impressions: Portraits Across Three Centuries from Reynolda and Wake Forest".

Advice For The New Year

I guess this would be sort of my Wish List for what I would like folks to do: 1- do some advertising; 2- send press releases about exhibits you are presenting; 3- send high res images of art work in those exhibits; 4- check our gallery listings to see if the info we have for your gallery is correct or if galleries in your area have closed and let us know about these changes; 5- for artists and gallery owners, let us know about new galleries that have opened and we don't have them listed - the more we have the better for all; 6- when making Facebook posts about exhibits, include beginning and ending dates of the exhibit and date and time of receptions; 7- when posting photos on Facebook make sure you identify the artist; and 8- when making Facebook posts make sure they can be shared, so others can spread the word.

We're in the business of sharing info about visual art exhibits taking place in both North and South Carolina, so it helps to have complete information so readers can respond to the info we provide. We don't like presenting incomplete information and in most cases we won't include it at all. We're not running a scavenger hunt.

In many cases we don't know any more info about the info we provide in any issue. The people hosting the exhibit should know about any further questions you may have about the exhibit, the artist, or the gallery. And in the case where someone does a Google search for an artist and a link to "Carolina Arts" comes up, in most cases, not all, we don't know any more info than what was provided in the link you found. Each issue of "Carolina Arts" has thousands of artists' names in it and many of those names are just in a list of artists a gallery represents. On occasion, I might know something about what you want to know.

Keeping As Accurate As Possible

Advice #5 is very important to keep us as accurate as possible. Knowing about new galleries and galleries which have closed helps us keep our Gallery Listings up to date. Every once in a while I find that we've been listing a gallery which has been closed for over a year - how embarrassing!

Back in the day, when I used to deliver our publication in selected areas of both North and South Carolina, I could see who was closed by walking up to the door and reading the closed notice or seeing the space emptied out. I might discover new galleries while driving around, but that's hit or miss. So it would be very helpful if artists or other gallery owners would let us know about closed or new galleries.

Why? It helps you to have all galleries in an area listed as visitors like the places where they can see more - getting more bang for their travel bucks. Of course the best way to get visitors to your gallery is to advertise what you offer. Paid ads and articles about exhibits attract more visitors. People love to be invited to come visit.

US Postal Service. Jones explores life through art. This multi-talented artist uses oils, acrylics, and watercolors for his painting.

Jones' goal is to paint the African American experience starting with the slave trade in Africa, through the Middle Passage and pre-Civil War era, and contrast it with African Americans today. Jones is the artist and author of the book and traveling exhibition, Confederate Currency: The Color of Money, Images of Slavery in Confederate and Southern States Currency. In addition, he has painted a series on the Buffalo Soldiers, the 54th Massachusetts and other African Americans in the military. He is currently working on a project that puts focus on the everyday lives of the Gullah people and the struggles and issues they face in trying to sustain their culture in modern day America. His paintings are available at the Rita Smith Gallery in Columbia, SC and Gallery Chuma in Charleston, SC.

Jones has received several awards, including merit awards for his works in the 1998 and 1999 Piccolo Spoleto Festival Art Show. Jones, who graduated from high school in 1968 and self-taught, has been drawing since early childhood. Drafted into the US Army in 1970, Jones served in the Vietnam War, where he also took illustration classes in military school. Jones has lectured widely as an artist, activist and motivational speaker at various universities and colleges, conferences, and corporate events.

City Gallery, located at Joe Riley Waterfront Park, is owned by the City of Charleston and operated by the City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs, presenting an annual program of exhibitions and events featuring the finest contemporary art from local, regional, national and international artists, with a focus on the Lowcountry.

of more than 600 members who enrich the community in countless ways with limitless beauty and inspiration.

Our mission remains largely the same and you'll find CAG artists all over town exhibiting their work, teaching art classes and sharing their talents by volunteering in outreach projects. The CAG offers a diverse selection of volunteer opportunities that include outreach efforts and engaging programs for children, Alzheimer's patients, high school seniors and younger school children. We're pleased to make a difference by sharing art and fostering the magic art brings to many.

In addition, exhibitions and special art shows are held throughout the year, allowing our members the opportunity to showcase their work and be recognized. See our Events Calendar for the current schedule.

We invite you to visit our retail space, the CAG Gallery, at 160 East Bay St. in downtown Charleston. The Gallery features the work of more than 70 diverse and highly talented exhibiting members of the CAG, all artfully framed and ready for purchase. Local art of the highest quality and creativity is at the forefront of our Gallery and we're excited to showcase the best the city has to offer. A portion of each gallery sale benefits community outreach programs,

City of North Charleston, SC, Features Works by Jeremy Croft and James Johnson

The City of North Charleston's Cultural Arts Department is pleased to announce that concurrent solo exhibitions of paintings by Jeremy Croft (North Charleston, SC) and sculptures by James Johnson (Mt. Pleasant, SC) will be on display at Park Circle Gallery from Jan. 3-27, 2024. A free reception hosted by the artists will be held at the gallery on Jan. 5, from 5-7pm. The public is invited to attend.

In Cold Feet, local artist Jeremy Croft presents a collection of oil and acrylic paintings that address how we deal with our internal nature in the external, exploring the degree to which we can ingratiate our impulses and instincts with a shared world. Croft's representational paintings are often based on personal photographs or memories.

"I avoid escapism in my work," Croft says. "I think isolating an assumed 'meaningless' real-life moment, and turning that into a painting, can incarnate a significance that is not always accessible to us. This is my way of addressing how prolific our existence actually is, even though that fact can be often overlooked."

Work by Jeremy Croft

based artist James Johnson presents a series of 3-D printed sculptures that focus on the concept of mindful awareness diluting selfishness; juxtaposing the ordinary with the unexpected. Working in natural and digital clay, he finds the meditative and tactile processes of his practice are as central as the final piece.

"The work complements healing and calming," Johnson explains. "It is my wish that others may recognize in themselves the energy represented by the work to facilitate healing or promote rest from the din of the day."

Growing up in southern Wisconsin, Johnson was exposed and influenced early on by the work of Frank Lloyd Wright and Georgia O'Keefe. He began his career in design with a Bachelor of Science in Construction Administration from the University of Wisconsin and a Master's in Building Science and Management from Clemson University. Following college and a three-year internship, he became an architect. The search for more creative freedom later led him to sculpture, which he finds more spontaneous and unmediated than architecture.

Johnson is a member of the National Sculpture Society, Tri-State Sculptor Association, and the Low Country Sculptures Guild. His sculptures have been displayed in numerous group exhibitions throughout the Lowcountry and are in private collections throughout the US, Asia, and Europe. His bronze and resin sculpture, Deject, won Best in Show at the 2021 Piccolo Spoleto Art Exhibition.

Work by James Johnson and raised in Williston, SC. For many years his artistic abilities were applied to trade-oriented work, like carpentry and metal fabrication. He later spent several years executing detailed data analysis, which required extreme levels of deep concentration for several hours at a time. Combining these skill sets, Croft is able to create meticulously crafted and detailed paintings. Recent solo exhibitions include Domestic Captivity at Stems and Skins in North Charleston, SC (2022) and Lazy Boy at Hed Hi Studios in Charleston, SC (2023). Croft currently works from his home studio in North Charleston, SC.

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Megan Aline

The Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, will present Whispering Leaves, featuring silhouette landscape paintings by Megan Aline, on view from Jan. 5 - 26, 2024.

This series features feminine silhouettes reminiscent of 19th-century cameos, but instead of black silhouettes, the profiles are filled with serene, wooded scenes that convey otherworldly beauty.

Robert Lange Studios upcoming exhibit, Whispering Leaves, features works by non-traditional landscape painter Megan Aline, who paints landscapes within the silhouette of a figure. Her "inner-landscapes" as she calls them, are one part landscape and one part figurative. The artist invites art enthusiasts and nature lovers alike to immerse themselves in the awe-inspiring world of her latest exhibition.

As for the title of the show, Whispering Leaves, Aline says, "As I explore this idea of nature living within each of us, I find there is a quiet voice that accompanies these wooded places. This whispering voice calls to the viewer to look within."

For this show, Aline has not only used her childhood imagination but also drawn inspiration from the women she references as models. "I look for women who naturally hold themselves with reverence. Even though you don't see their faces, just their jawline and posturing tell you who they are."

As for Aline's motivations for painting, she says, "There is a part inside all of us that is silently connected to the natural world. This interconnection, we often ignore in lieu of modern escapism but when truly immersed in nature I think everyone feels a sense of peace and calm."

This desire for reconnection can be seen in the piece titled, Lessons in the Leaves, where a blue and grey forest fills a female figure. Aline says of this 24 by 48-inch acrylic on panel painting, "I wanted to paint a piece where the figure was directly engaging the viewer. She's looking right at you, reminding you that within each of us is a hidden world. Overall the paintings are both inspiring viewers to look outward into the natural world but also to feel and reflect on what is within."

Gallery owners Megan and Robert Lange are committed to providing a forum for art based on individuals, subjective style and awareness. This dedication has created a reputation for the gallery of consistently finding new and interesting artists that stand

Charleston Crafts Cooperative Gallery in Charleston, SC, Features Works by New Members

Charleston Crafts Cooperative Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present New Voices, featuring works by fiber artist Sabrina St. Pierre and fused glass artist Stacy Green, on view from Jan. 5 - 31, 2024. An Open House will be held on Jan. 5, from 5-8pm.

Sabrina St. Pierre grew up in Virginia, and is now living in Myrtle Beach, SC, where she works as an Instructional Designer for a healthcare company, creating online courses. St. Pierre began crocheting about 15 years ago and is almost entirely self-taught. She often creates her wearables without the use of patterns and she enjoys the challenge of only looking at a top or dress and figuring out how she could produce them in the art of crochet.

St. Pierre also crafts toys, blankets, and home décor items. She states, "seeing the finished product being worn by a client always brings me delight, especially the custom pieces I design. My client selects the color and type of yarn for their piece, making it one of a kind. This is my favorite part of creating."

Stacey Green is a glass artist living in McClellanville, SC. She grew up in picturesque New Zealand and has lived in the Lowcountry for the past 28 years. She has always been creative, heavily influenced and encouraged by her grandmother and mother to follow her creative path. Green has worked in all areas of glass from stained glass to mosaic to fused glass. She particularly loves working with glass powders which she uses to create her glass succulents and sea creatures. Green's glass creations are beautiful and at times whimsical.

The highlighted artists will be on display during the entire month of January. While these talented artists will be featured, the work of all Gallery members will also be on display. All art is available for purchase, including jewelry, wood puzzles, encaustic paints, fiber art, mixed media collage, apparel and accessories, plus functional and decorative objects in wood, ceramic, and glass. The Gallery's new larger space affords the opportunity to jury-in additional new talented artisans to a growing Fine Crafts Cooperative. Come by the Gallery and help welcome the two newest members, St. Pierre and Green.

stitched maps of Roxanne Lasky. As a resident of the Lowcountry for nine years, she uses the spirit of this historical land to develop narrative pieces that honor materials and place. Her extended time spent in South Africa also informs her work. Lasky gathers and repurposes her materials to carry forward the history of humble objects imbued with the energy of prior incarnations.

In an interview with John Hopper for Inspirational magazine, he writes, "Roxanne produces work of instinct and connection. Her work is infinitely approachable, having the ability of drawing the viewer into inner and outer worlds." Stitching Ghosts is a comprehensive timeline of the methodical and intuitive processes of making by hand.

Lasky offers the following artist statement, "My work relies on instinctive connections to materials and marks. Fabric layers perform a literal evolution of the creative labor encompassing the hand and energy of the maker and the unseen dimension of idea. In my work, I attempt to expose ordinary truths throughout the whole and in the subtext of the spaces between. I hope to enlighten the viewers' own discoveries provoked by the metaphors of transparency and texture.

"With or without a sketch, I gather scraps intuitively," adds Lasky. "The pieces - hand-dyed cloth, things made during prior experiments, photographs, words, paint, threads - become meaningful as they find their places in the composition. I map the relationships among the pieces into a narrative that represents the nature of memory. It is often blurred or obscured with glimmers of color and clarity. The work becomes a window into place, a guide for transformation that helps me navigate to new discoveries and support the continuum of my practice."

Since 2012, the Sea Islands Center Gallery has hosted visiting artists and group exhibitions from South Carolina, Georgia, and Arkansas. The gallery also features USCB students' work from juried exhibitions and the art department's senior capstone project. The mission of the gallery is to promote the academic and creative programming goals of the Department of Visual Art & Design and to serve as a catalyst of creative inquiry and exploration within the Beaufort community.

The gallery is on the ground floor of the Sea Islands Center building, next to the Beaufort's Chamber of Commerce. The building sits at the corner of Boundary and Carteret Streets with views of the Beaufort River.

Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, Features Works by Missy Gentile

The Society of Bluffton Artists in Old Town Bluffton, SC, will present Action Painting, featuring works by Missy Gentile, on view in the SOBA gallery, from Jan. 2 - 28, 2024. A reception will be held on Jan. 11, from 5-7pm.

Missy Gentile typically begins her abstract painting classes with a quote from the artist Helen Frankenthaler: "One of the first rules is no rules." She will apply this same philosophy with her upcoming exhibit.

Action Painting will feature several pieces of her abstract works that convey strong emotional or expressive content, breaking away from traditional processes. Gentile draws inspiration from her life experiences and her core values of service and human connection.

"My art reflects my vision of no boundaries," Gentile said. "What the eye sees is what it is - How it moves you is most important."

Much of her inspiration comes from her time living in Paris, France. She later

Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, Offers Two New Exhibits and an Artist Walk & Talk

Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, will offer two new exhibits including: 28 Awards, featuring works from the Greenville Tech Visual Arts Annual Student Exhibit, on view in the Community Gallery, from Jan. 5 through Feb. 28, and Humor Me, featuring works by Hans-Peter Bolz, on view in the Loft Gallery, from Jan. 5 - 31. A reception will be held on Jan. 5, from 6-9pm.

GCCA will host a Walk & Talk tour with exhibiting artist Fleming Markel from the current Main Gallery exhibition, Pent Up Pink on Jan. 9, from 6-7pm. Markel will take visitors on an autobiographical journey of her experiences and viewpoints that led to the creation of her feminist-inspired sculptures. Admission is free and no registration is required. Pent Up Pink will be on display during the Jan. 5 First Friday and will close on Jan. 24, 2024.

Greenville Technical College's 28 Awards from their juried 2023 competition, Visual Arts Annual Student Exhibition (VAASE) will be on view in the Community Gallery. These award-winning art students represent the best of the best from Greenville Tech's Department of Visual Arts (DVA). 50 Visual Arts students entered 135 works into the competition. The works at GCCA are the award winners from VAASE's exhibition and artworks were juried by Freda Sue. 28 Awards showcases DVA's varied curriculum: design & digital imagery, drawing, graphic design, painting, photography, printmaking, sculpture, and web design. VAASE's 28 Awards celebrate the success and diligence of all GTC's student artists and the excellence of the Department of Visual Arts faculty.

The GTC visual art students in 28 Awards all received cash awards and recognition at VAASE's Halloween Gala in October. These students also have the additional opportunity to win $200, as the People's Choice. All visitors at GCCA are invited to vote for their favorite work in 28 Awards beginning in January. The People's Choice winner will be announced at GCCA on First Friday, Feb. 2.

VAASE awards were made possible by generous contributions from the Metropolitan Arts Council (with funds received from the City of Greenville, BMW Manufacturing Company, Michelin North America,

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville, SC, Features Works by Claire Whitehurst and Taylor Loftin

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville, SC, will present salt lick in the windowsill, featuring works by Claire Whitehurst and Taylor Loftin, from Jan. 5 through Feb. 17, 2024. A reception will be held on Feb. 2, from 6-9pm.

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville (TSA GVL) artist collective is excited to present new works by Claire Whitehurst and Taylor Loftin in our next exhibition, salt lick in the windowsill. Composed of recent small paintings and ceramic works, the show explores an interplay of colors, imagery, and forms deeply rooted in the shared Southern experiences of the artists. Raised in the South, the artists weave a collective narrative that serves as a meditation: a contemplative exploration of the transient beauty and underlying tension inherent in Southern environments. Nature infests, abundantly growing over and hiding the underlying structures of the landscape, similar to the artists' upbringing navigating social realities. Seeking transcendence, the exhibition presents the South through an otherworldly lens: imposing and beautiful.

South, exploring queer space, memory and intimacy through color, form, and material. She has exhibited nationally and internationally, and her work has been featured in numerous publications including New American Paintings, and Oxford American, and the Graphite Journal in collaboration with the Hammer Museum. Currently, she lives and works in Philadelphia, PA.

Taylor Loftin (b.1993, Jackson, MS) is primarily a painter with a BFA from Memphis College of Art and an MFA from the University of Arkansas. Loftin approaches art making as an opportunity to re-examine his relationships to love, labor, familial and cultural histories, masculinity, religion, and art. He is a 2019 alum of the Skowhegan School of Painting & Drawing and has been a resident at the Wassaic Project in New York and Stove Works in Chattanooga. He is also the recipient of the 2020 William & Dorothy Yeck Award for Young Painters. Loftin currently lives and works in Water Valley, MS.

Laurel Sawicki's pieces often begin with an emotion or a memory and evolve through exploration of a personal journey. Sawicki chooses to look beyond external appearances and perceptions in order to navigate a deeper connection to human narrative and the stories we share. Like a journey, her pieces have a beginning but no definitive end, allowing the viewer to read into open-ended symbolism while inserting their own experiences. Art & Light Gallery in Greenville, SC, Offers Works by Rachael Van Dyke

Art & Light Gallery in Greenville, SC, will present Bittersweet, a solo exhibition of works by Rachael Van Dyke, from Jan. 30 through Feb. 24, 2024. A reception will be held on Feb. 2, from 6-8pm.

Rachael Van Dyke (Boone, NC/ Grand Rapids, MI) paints abstract landscapes and figurative work inspired by living off the grid in the Blue Ridge mountains and traveling abroad. Van Dyke is an avid artist-in-residence who has participated in national and international residencies. Residencies create new boundaries in her work and encourage an alteration of technique and expression while forcing her to understand and come to terms with limitations.

Being open to a new color palette or a new visual language to express the land and culture is a necessary adaptation. Each body of work is influenced by place and tells a story of the people and land that Van Dyke's encountered. The body of work included in her solo exhibition Bittersweet represents the dichotomy of the dark and the beautiful within the landscape, still-life, and human heart.

Van Dyke states, "Brittle leaves fall with gusts of autumn wind, while bright red berries burst from ochre pods. Vivid against the dark green pine and winter snow, this invasive Bittersweet vine unsuspectingly wraps a thorny grip around maturing trees. As a child, I scrambled through the woods to unwind the stubborn branches, my sweater tangled in thistle and briar."

"Though a nuisance to collect and carry home, I swooned over its two-toned beauty that adorned our Thanksgiving table, adds Van Dyke. "This October my husband and I celebrated our 30th wedding anniversary. Sorting through hundreds of family photos I found myself giving thanks for the bitter and the sweet moments; with gratitude for the good and the bad, the highs and the lows, the laughter and the tears of our many years together. It seems that opposites must occur to enrich the human experience."

Greenville Technical College in Greer, SC, Features Works by Marty Epp-Carter and Elaine Quave

Greenville Technical College in Greer, SC, will present Existing Now, featuring works by Marty Epp-Carter, printmaker, and Elaine Quave, ceramicist, on view in the Benson Campus Galleries, from Jan. 8 through Feb. 6, 2024.

Existing Now is a mantra for our now. Our world, our country, our local institutions, even our families are embroiled in a frightening flux and in conflict. Existing Now offers a respite, a respite of images. These images remind us to find joy and peace in making connections to nature, in performing meditative tasks, and in exploring our humanity.

Marty Epp-Carter, printmaker, and Elaine Quave, ceramicist, use different languages, but they speak as a chorus. Their meticulous craft, their nature-based pallet and imagery, their exploration of connections result in visual poetry. They explain "In this continuous moment of now, we hold our memories of the past, and our hopes and fears for the future."

can only exist when the elements in each piece combine."

Quave replicates bones to build the structures of her sculptures stating, "My goal is that this realization of our intimate connection to nature can help lead to changes in the way we reflect on ourselves as human and the ways that we treat our planet and the other animals with which we coexist."

Marty Epp-Carter retired in 2023 from teaching at the South Carolina Governor's School for the Arts and Humanities. Epp-Carter received a BS from Boston University, a BFA from Massachusetts College of Art and Design, a MS from Lesley University and then earned her MFA in printmaking at Clemson University.

Elaine Quave currently teaches at the South Carolina Governor's School for the Arts and Humanities. She received a BFA from University of the Arts, and then earned her MFA in ceramics at Tyler School of Art, Temple University. Both artists have exhibited widely.

Existing Now originated as an exhibition at the TD Bank sponsored MAC Gallery located in the Metropolitan Arts Council offices at 16 Augusta Street, Greenville, SC.

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, Offers Exhibition of New Members From 2023

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will present Altered States: 10 New Visions, featuring works by 10 of ACS new members, on view in Galleries II and III, from Jan. 9 through Feb. 3, 2024. An artists' talk is planned for Jan. 18, at ACS, as part of ArtWalk Spartanburg until 8pm.

New 2023 members of the Artists Collective | Spartanburg will reveal themselves through their unique artistic visions "of the place we all call home" in Altered States: 10 New Visions. The artists' works range from pottery to acrylic and oil painting, to photography and mosaics.

"How is it that different people can have so many different takes on this world we share? By plunging into the depths of our experiences, we reveal ourselves and our unique visions of the place we all call home," says participating oil painting artist Dan Hazard, who is organizing the exhibit. "Visitors can expect to see beautiful paintings, and the textile art of mosaics and ceramics that represent how each of us sees the world around us."

Work by Judith Kolva

"We hope that people walk away with a deeper understanding of themselves and those around them," he adds.

In addition to Hazard, participating artists include Ken Bolton, Pat Cato, Judith Kolva, B. Collins, Monica Raquel, Petra Romero, Jackie Spohnholtz, Cassandra Stephens-Johnson and Skye Winter.

"As new members of the Artists Collective this year, we all feel a collective sense of excitement about showcasing our art in Spartanburg," Hazard says. "We are the new artists of the Collective, and that is what brings us together. Our message is that each one of us has our own individual lived experiences and expressions of beauty. No two people are the same, and it is in the differences that beauty is found."

Each of the participating artists had this to say about their works:

Dan Hazard – "My art explores themes of light and dark, harmony and dissonance, life and death, and finding the beauty of humanity in our differences."

Judith Kolva – "My acrylic paintings are bright, bold, brazen. They celebrate vibrant colors enhanced with tactile textures. Their abstract nature depicts what can be instead what is."

Jackie Spohnholtz – "Mosaic by its very nature allows the creator to bring beauty from brokenness. I incorporate mixed media (glass, beads, wire) to give birth to new visions."

B. Collins – "A ceramic artist who makes colorful and perfectly functional dinnerware."

Ken Bolton – "My paintings are a combination of expression and experimentation, chasing figures and concepts that sometimes manifest into strange images."

Pat Cato – "My inspiration derives from nature, life events and the environment around me. My goal is to produce a thought-provoking piece that makes a connection with the viewer."

Monica Raquel – "I was born in Peru and moved to the USA in 2006. My love of the arts always has been my best refuge since early years."

Cassandra Stephens-Johnson – "This collection focuses on the suspended flow of natural elements."

Skye Winter – "My art celebrates the transient beauty of this marvelous world. I reveal the extraordinary in everyday life and use vibrant colors to infuse joy and whimsy into my subject."

Petra Romero – "With my paintings I hope to capture life's overlooked splendor and offer a unique perspective that highlights the extraordinary from the ordinary."

Art pieces in the exhibit will be available for purchase, with prices ranging from $20 to $2,000.

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Roscoe Conn

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will present Chips Off the Old Block: A Retrospective of Roscoe Conn's Art, featuring works by Roscoe Conn, on view in the Solomon Gallery, from Jan. 2 through Mar. 2, 2024. A reception will be held on Jan. 18, and an artist's talk is set for Feb. 15, both as part of ArtWalk Spartanburg, which continue until 8pm.

Upstate collage artist and teacher Roscoe Conn describes his artwork and art career as "chunks" of himself that do not fall far from his personality and approach to life. He will share himself and his collage and mixed media art in his solo exhibition, Chips Off the Old Block: A Retrospective of Roscoe Conn's Art.

Conn says his "vision and spirit are evident in the collection's style, content and form. Ranging from meditations on politics and identity to landscapes of my environment, the exhibit showcases a consistent appreciation and appraisal of the things in life we often take for granted."

The exhibit shows how his works have "developed from the formalist practices I

learned in school toward more avant-garde approaches to my medium of collage later in life," he adds. "The works are loosely categorized by topic – religion, politics, abstraction, landscapes (both urban and rural) and the body.

"Of course, no category is rigid, so the works may overlap thematically," he continues, "but they all point to a life in retrospection. The exhibit asks the viewer to consider developing ideas with no conclusions or answers. How has my work on these subjects developed over time? How does one's own views on life change over time? What are consistencies in pattern and thought that we hold onto? The exhibit brings these questions to the forefront of the eye and the mind. In a society that asks us to shape and mold ourselves to fit in, what do we do with the debris?"

Conn, a native of The Bronx, NY, who has lived most of his life in the South, says visitors "should have not have expectations when they walk into the exhibit. The best part about artwork is that expectations can be left by the sign-in sheet and door."

As a collage artist and teacher, Conn says he has long been "fascinated by people, places and things. Collage has a deep tradition in Black art; other forms of art often fail to capture the 'ripped-out-and-sewn-back-together' feeling of Black identity in the United States. My mode of operating in art and in life is cutting to preserve, but I think Austin Kleon perhaps said it better with 'creativity is subtraction' back in 2010. I draw from collected old National Geographic, Ebony, LIFE and other magazines in order to create my art.

"Using these images from the 1940s onward produces a visual history of language and media that draws into question our own media habits and content consumption today," he continues. "Even when the subject matter is not people, this process of cutting to preserve remains. I take my time with my art and there's no easy way to say that it is a long time that I often take with each piece. Many times, the art is nearly fully formed in my mind before I pick up a brush, pair of scissors or tube of glue."

After serving in the military, Conn

pursued fine arts at the University of North Carolina Charlotte and has been teaching ever since. He taught in North Carolina for over 20 years before retiring to teach at Broome High School in Spartanburg School District Three. "Teaching has influenced my art and my art has influenced my teaching, creating a reciprocal relationship between educating and learning myself," he says.

"Growing up in the northeast influenced much of my work – city streets and crowded transit stations make for good subject matter," Conn says. "For a while I focused on the trailer parks and pastoral scenes found in the South, but now my work tends to be more abstract. I have shown my work at the Blue Spiral in Asheville, NC, the Chapman Cultural Center in Spartanburg and the Upstairs Gallery in Tryon, NC, among others over the years." Last year, he was accepted into Art Fields 2023 again and exhibited his work "1010 Brownstone Cathedral."

The 30 pieces in the exhibition will be available for purchase, with prices ranging from $500 to $10,000.

Conn says he is happy to present his works at the Artists Collective and excited to have a cohesive viewing area for his life's work and process. "Having experienced many things in life, being able to see the effort pay off is the only thing one can hope for in the time we have here on Earth," he says.

McColl Center for Art + Innovation in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Doris Kapner

Follow Doris Kapner as she summons the original stories of brothers Jacob and Wilhelm Grimm through her singular ceramics and prints. A Grimm Tale forms a visual account of “The Twelve Brothers,” “Little Red Riding Hood,” “The Frog King,” “Cinderella,” “Snow White,” “Hansel and Gretel,” “The Juniper Tree,” and “Rapunzel.”

The cornerstone of modern-day fairytales will be made visual through ceramics, prints, and a three-dimensional vanitas still-life to delight and beguile the senses. As the daughter of German immigrants Kapner works from what is familiar and what is culturally significant to her. The stories of the Grimm brothers are important, as each recalls memories of her childhood. While the titles of the stories and representations of the characters and settings may be familiar to those who are not of German heritage, A Grimm Tale will without a doubt open their eyes and perhaps shock their minds by the origin stories published by the brothers between 1812 and 1815.

Doris Kapner (b. 1971, she/her) is a multidisciplinary artist working primarily in ceramics and printmaking. The daughter of German immigrants and raised in New York, she earned her BFA in Sculpture from Purchase College in 1994 and has worked in art galleries, as a TIG welder, police officer, homemaker, loss prevention manager, visual merchandiser, yoga teacher, and art instructor. This fluctuation between typical male and female roles informs her work. Kapner began working in ceramics in 2015, creating undergarments, dresses, and handkerchiefs, often adding needlework and crochet, influenced by her upbringing. Since 2021, she has been exploring the original Grimm’s Fairy Tales through sculpture and printmaking as a selected artist of the Studios at McColl Center program in Charlotte, North Carolina culminating in this solo exhibition.

Kapner received the Women United Art Prize 2023 for Printmaking. She was featured in the Arts to Hearts Project Studio Visit Book Vol-1, The Jealous Curator’s Member Spotlight and was selected twice for the Blumenthal’s Artists in the Theater program. Kapner was also nominated for Best Sculptor for Queen City Nerve’s Best in the Nest 2023, and received an Honorable Mention in Create Magazine’s The Women’s Issue 2020.

Kapner is currently based in Charlotte, NC, but dreams of the mountains.

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Kenny Nguyen

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, will present Land/mark featuring works by esteemed Vietnamese artist Kenny Nguyen, on view in CPCC’s Pauline Dove Gallery, from Jan. 8 through Mar. 15, 2024.

Nguyen, born in Vietnam, and with a background in fashion design, exhibits his work across the US and internationally.

As a Vietnamese immigrant now living and working as an artist in the United States, much of Nguyen’s work explores ideas related to cultural identity, displacement, reconciling with the past and the artistic fusion of Vietnamese and American cultures.

Nguyen uses silk, in tribute to his Vietnamese culture, deconstructs it into strips, and then dips it in paint. Thousands of these strips creates sculptural works of art that Nguyen calls “deconstructed paintings.” The action of deconstruction and reconstruction, and transformation of the fine silk into a sculptural painting echoes Nguyen’s journey forging his own identity while continuously incorporating all of the unique elements that make Nguyen who he is today.

Each work of art by Nguyen is carefully arranged and pinned into place. As a result, each installation never looks the same twice. The folds and drapes take on a three dimensional form undulating like waves across the wall. While stationary, each piece has an element of movement as the delicate strips of fabric catch slight drafts of air from ventilation, or passers by. These thoughtful and intentional artistic interventions by Nguyen engage the viewer visually and invite them Land/mark will feature new works by Nguyen as well as an interactive workshop for students to see and learn Nguyen’s process of creating deconstructed paintings.

CPCC will offer several workshops with Nguyen on Jan. 24 and Mar. 14, on the Central Piedmont Central Campus, Parr

Hickory Museum of Art in Hickory, NC, Presents Works From Its Collection

The Hickory Museum of Art in Hickory, NC, is presenting FOUNDATIONS: Building Our Collection (1944-2024), on view in all museum galleries, through June 9, 2024.

In anticipation of the Museum's upcoming 80th Anniversary on Feb. 4, 2024, this permanent collection take-over of our galleries pays homage to our roots and celebrates where we are going. 80 years of collecting will be anchored by HMA's foundational artists – artists who helped make the museum a reality – Paul Austin Wayne Whitener, Wilford Seymour Conrow, and Frederick Ballard Williams.

Jacob Lawrence, "On the Way", lithograph, Museum purchase funded by HMCA Guild, 1993.1

before works including new acquisitions by Jeffrey Gibson – who was recently selected to represent the US in the 2024 Venice Biennale!

Text panels highlight collection stories, including the recent conservation of four new acquisitions by the first woman artist in HMA's collection – Ella Richards, the painter of The Violinist, collected by first director Paul Whitener in 1950. Visitors will see the documentation of a century's worth of grime removed from the surface of her paintings, and glimpse the paintings restored to their full glory.

The Hickory Museum of Art represents and promotes the Unifour region (Catawba, Caldwell, Burke, and Alexander Counties) as a center of innovative creativity and inclusive community through its commitment to visual arts, education, and collaboration.

27th Annual Catawba Valley Pottery & Antiques Festival Takes Place in Hickory, NC - Mar. 22 & 23, 2024

The Historical Association of Catawba County and the North Carolina Pottery Center are pleased to announce the hosting of the 27th Annual Catawba Valley Pottery & Antiques Festival (CVP&AF) on Mar. 22 & 23, 2024 at the Hickory Metro Convention Center in Hickory, NC. This acclaimed event brings together potters and vendors from across the southeast to exhibit and sell their unique artistry and craftsmanship.

The Friday evening will consist of a special party for Premiere and VIP ticket holders. VIP tickets are $75 and will include a catered reception that begins at 6pm. At which time, VIP ticket holders will have the opportunity to dine with the potters for a meet and greet. VIP tickets also give you the opportunity to be first on the pottery show floor at 6:50pm, includes a complimentary gift bag, and 1 free drink ticket from the cash bar. VIP ticket holders will also be entered into a special drawing (more information to follow). VIP Tickets must be purchased in advance.

Premiere tickets are $30 that grants you early buying opportunities that begin at 7pm (Food Not Included).

Friday night VIP tickets may be purchased online at (www.catawbavalley-potteryfestival.com/tickets) and must be purchased in advance.

Friday night Premiere tickets may be purchased online at (www.catawbavalley-potteryfestival.com/tickets) or at the door on Mar. 22, 2024.

The Saturday event will welcome the public from 9am - 5pm and will offer buying opportunities, pottery demonstrations, and a lecture by renowned potters Sid Luck, Jason Luck, and Matthew Luck. Saturday tickets may be purchased online and at the door.

The goal of the CVP&AF is to bring together traditional potters and dealers to create a quality show that will celebrate our region's pottery heritage, one of North Carolina's most treasured cultural resources. The mission of the CVP&AF is to foster an educational event where the public may learn about traditional North Carolina pottery, within the wider context of Southern pottery, and to provide an opportunity to purchase, collect, and study this unique cultural resource through contact with working potters and knowledgeable pottery dealers.

The CVP&AF began in 1998 with a mission to showcase the history of Catawba Valley alkaline glazed stoneware and the potters who continue to produce this traditional utilitarian ware. Development and growth have allowed the festival to include potters from across the state and the South, as well as dealers offering historical pottery and antiques, providing a context for understanding the history and use of pottery in the South. The festival is a non-profit event benefiting the Historical Association of Catawba County in Newton, and the North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove. More than $500,000 has been donated to the institutions over the past 25 years.

The University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Marius Valdes and David West

The University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, is presenting two exhibitions at the Koger Center For The Arts including: Joyous Creatures, featuring painting by Marius Valdes, on view in the Koger Center Upstairs Gallery, through Mar. 11, 2024, and featuring works by David West, on view in The Nook, 2nd Floor Rotating Gallery, through Jan. 16, 2024.

The Koger Center for the Arts is proud to exhibit Marius Valdes' new body of work, Joyous Creatures, in our Upstairs Gallery.

Valdes offers the following artist statement, "Joyous Creatures aims to make you smile or laugh if only for a moment. I celebrate characters and creatures from the imagination whether they are dogs, frogs, blobs, or aliens. Character-based art has the capacity to create memorable and engaging visual language that speaks to people of all ages and nationalities. I use my characters to educate, inform, and entertain."

Marius Valdes is a Professor at the University of South Carolina. He teaches graphic design and illustration in the GD+I program in the School of Visual Art and Design. He lives in Forest Acres with his wife, Beth and their daughter, Emma. Mary, the dog, is always around for a good laugh.

David West is a member of the Vista Guild Association and the Koger Center for the Arts is proud to partner with the Jasper Project to feature a different artist every month with an opening reception on the Third Thursday of the month.

leave me with limited time and attention for artmaking. I yearn for the day when I can "retire" from teaching and devote myself entirely to exploring my artistic potential."

"My current artistic endeavors are sporadic, but I have discovered a particular passion for woodcuts. Despite never having a formal printmaking class in high school or undergrad, my pursuit of an art education degree compelled me to explore various art forms, eventually leading me to the realm of printmaking at the University of South Carolina. Here, I uncovered my love for this medium."

"In this show, there is work from my past, examples made for high school art lessons, and some of my current work," says West. "My work often draws from the canvas of my own life experiences, weaving personal narratives into universal themes. I aim to create art that resonates on an emotional level, avoiding overt or blatant expressions of ideas. Instead, I encourage viewers to bring their unique feelings and experiences to my work, connecting my artistic expression to their own life stories. In this way, my art becomes a bridge, inviting others to explore and reflect on the shared human experience, while my own artistic journey continues to evolve and inspire."

"My formal education in the arts includes a year of Commercial Art training in a vocational school, a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Painting, and a Masters of Arts in Teaching with a focus on Art Education. For 13 years, I worked as a graphic designer, relishing the challenge of crafting designs that met the needs of diverse clients. In addition to my painting and graphic design endeavors, I also dabble in photography, from creative works to street photography, to documenting the special moments of weddings and corporate events," adds West.

"My journey into teaching art began when I took on the role of organizing and conducting figure drawing sessions for the 'About Face' figure study group at the Columbia Museum of Art. Encouragement from fellow art educators within the group led me to explore a career in art education. For the past 12 years, I have had the privilege of teaching beginning through advanced levels of a range of Art and Photography classes."

West offers the following artist statement, "Art has been a constant companion throughout my life, an enduring source of inspiration and fascination. My journey as an artist was shaped by the influential figures in my family, each leaving an indelible mark on my creative path. My mother's love for painting, a memory of her brush strokes bringing landscapes to life while I was still in diapers, ignited the enchantment of art within me. My grandfather, a true Renaissance man, with a formal background in architecture and a talent for designing, engineering, drawing, and painting, further nurtured my artistic curiosity."

"I consider myself an artist to the core, deeply immersed in the creative process, the labor of love, and the profound expression of art," adds West. "However, the demands of life, including full-time work, sharing the upbringing of two children, and maintaining a relationship with someone special, often

Laurie Brownell McIntosh offers the following statement, "I was raised in an environment that supported and encouraged the creative process."

"I have discovered through the years that I don't work like many artist do. I don't have an exact style or medium that defines me. I work in large bodies of work that usually take years to explore. These large bodies are many times divided into series within the body. Most of these bodies of work are driven by line and shape trying to express ideas and stories through mark making, color, shape and texture."

"Several times it has been a true calling from within myself... sounds corny but it's true," adds McIntosh. "This is the work that can't be denied. Or I find something that intrigues me, something I want to explore, and then I research and pursue that avenue until I have exhausted my curiosity and then I move on. The medium I use is the one that solves the problem presented before me."

"In my head I compare it to a writer who writes novels. The idea.. the reserch.. the execution.. the editing... the chapters... the

"I have also discovered that the quickest way to become dissatisfied with my work is to create art for people I do not know. I have to trust my gut and follow my own lead and my own truth. Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Vera B. Williams

The Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center in Asheville, NC, will present Vera B. Williams / STORIES: Eight Decades of Politics and Picture Making, on view from Jan. 26 through May 11, 2024.

Vera B. Williams attended BMC from 1945-1950 when she became one of the few to formally graduate. She was a student of Josef Albers and had sculptor Richard Lippold as her outside examiner prior to graduation. She married architect Paul Williams at the college and, with him, co-founded the artists' co-op community called The Land in Stony Point, New York. Williams was an award-winning author and illustrator of children's books that often centered on diverse, working-class families, perhaps informed by her own childhood growing up during the Depression as the daughter of immigrants from Eastern Europe.

The Land at Stony Point, also known as Gate Hill Cooperative, became an outcropping of Black Mountain College's experimental ethos. It was inspired by a BMC faculty member Paul Goodman's Communitas: Means of Livelihood and Ways of Life, which he lectured on at the Summer Institute of 1950. BMC luminaries John Cage, David Tudor, M.C. Richards, Karen Karnes, David Weinrib, Stan VanDerBeek, and Patsy Lynch Wood shaped Gate Hill as founding members of the community alongside Vera Baker and Paul Williams.

The Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center (BMCM+AC) preserves and continues the legacy of educational and artistic innovation of Black Mountain College (BMC). We achieve our mission through collection, conservation, and educational activities including exhibitions, publications, and public programs.

Arts advocate Mary Holden founded BMCM+AC in 1993 to celebrate the history of Black Mountain College as a forerunner in progressive interdisciplinary education and to explore its extraordinary impact on modern and contemporary art, dance, theater, music, and performance. Today, the museum remains committed to educating the public about BMC's history and raising awareness of its extensive legacy. Our goal is to provide a gathering point for people from a variety of backgrounds to interact through art, ideas, and discourse.

Appalachian State University in Boone, NC, Features Works by April Flanders at Turchin Center

Appalachian State University in Boone, NC, will present Trophic Cascade: April Flanders, on view in the Hodges Gallery at the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, from Jan. 16 through June 1, 2024.

The web of life under the surface of aquatic ecosystems is exceedingly complex and devastatingly beautiful. In a place where species interactions begin at a microscopic level, small changes have huge impacts and huge changes wreak havoc. Remove a key predator, and prey takes over; add another predator, and the first one declines. With the rise of globalization, human mediated transfer mechanisms give rise to invasive species, overwhelming the delicate balance of aquatic ecosystems. These unintended ecological interventions cause Trophic Cascades, revealing nature's fragility.

Work by April Flanders

Invasion biology in marine environments is especially fraught. The eradication or management of invasive species on land, while economically and environmentally challenging, is possible. The successful management of these species underwater is nearly impossible. This exhibition addresses the causes and impacts of marine bio-invasions on a global scale, conferring visibility to species normally unseen. With this work, I create a conversation between art and science, raising awareness around a problem that lacks an easy solution.

Work by April Flanders

Flanders is a studio artist living and making in the mountains of Western North Carolina. A keen naturalist, her work has been featured in solo and group shows at museums and galleries nationally and internationally, including the Katzen Museum in Washington, DC, the Center for the Book Arts, in New York, and the Global Print International, in Douro, Portugal.

Recent honors include an online exhibition as a semi-finalist in the 92nd Annual Competition at the Print Center in Philadelphia, PA, and a residency at the Virginia Center for Creative Arts in Amherst, VA.

Recent solo exhibitions include Lost Blooms at Donald H. Lindgren Gallery in Newberg, OR and Unchecked at Artspace in Richmond, VA. Her work is in many public collections, including the Asheville Museum of Science, the Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art, and the Tucson Museum of Art.

Flanders holds a Master of Fine Arts from Arizona State University; she has taught printmaking for fourteen years at various universities nationally and internationally. Currently, she is a Professor of Studio Art at Appalachian State University.

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, Offers Regional Student Works

The Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, will present the 2024 WNC Regional Scholastic Art Awards, on view in the Museum's The Van Winkle Law Firm Gallery and Multipurpose Space, from Jan. 24 through Mar. 25, 2024.

The Asheville Art Museum, with the assistance of its volunteer educators and support from the Asheville Area Section of the American Institute of Architects, is proud to be a regional affiliate partner hosting the Western North Carolina (WNC) Regional Scholastic Art Awards each year. Students in grades 7-12 from all across Western North Carolina are invited to submit work for this special juried competition. The Museum works with the Alliance for Young Artists & Writers to facilitate regional judging of student artwork and to recognize our community's burgeoning artistic talent.

Each year, award winners are featured in an exhibition and are honored at a ceremony. Regional Gold Key recipients' work is sent to the national Scholastic Art & Writing Awards competition hosted by the Alliance for Young Artists & Writers.

All regional award recipients will be honored at our closing reception on Mar. 21,

Astrid Salinger, "Enigmatic Berry," Painting, Silsa-Asheville High School, Grade 10, Gold Key winner from 2022

Southern Highlands Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Member Artists

The Southern Highlands Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, is presenting Creating Textures, featuring works by five Guild members, on view in The Focus Gallery at the Folk Art Center, through Feb. 29, 2024.

This exhibition features the work of five Guild members: Michael Hatch (glass), Valerie Berlage (wood), Joseph Rhodes (jewelry), Barry Rhodes (clay), and Joanna Warren (leather).

The glass face jugs in the exhibit are by glassblower, Michael Hatch, Guild member since 2005. "My Face Jug series is inspired by ceramic vessels made in the Appalachian region for over one hundred years," states Hatch. "When I first started this series twenty years ago there was no one else making Appalachian style face jugs in glass. Each piece in this series begins by blowing and shaping the vessel. The facial features are made by applying and sculpting bits of molten glass. The textures and colors are created by sifting colored glass powders onto the surface during the blowing process."

Work by Valerie Berlage

The wooden landscapes on display are made from assembling blocks of painted or natural wood, cut and crafted by Guild member Valerie Berlage (member since 2015). When asked about her process, she states, "Sometimes the materials dictate the piece. Especially in the case of the natural landscapes. While wood is a renewable resource, I do try to be as sustainable as possible and I source offcuts from other woodworkers. Pieces that are too small for furniture makers are great for me, and it saves them from either going in the dump or the fire. That way I'm not creating a need for as much "new" wood. Because color is a big part of my design, what I have access to (in terms of species and coloring) directly influences the end result."

Work by Joanna Warren

The jewelry on display is made from sterling silver and features a variety of smooth stones: amethyst cabochon, garnet, aquamarine, and peach moonstones. Artist Joseph Rhodes (member since 2018) began his jewelry-making journey as a dentist with an appreciation for precious metals and fabricating his first piece of jewelry: his wife's wedding ring. "Most of my time is spent in my studio designing precious metal and gemstone jewelry by metal forming and lost wax casting," states Rhodes. "With my family's encouragement, this is a senior's start to a new career."

The utilitarian pottery on display glazed with cool tones of blues and grays are by Guild member Barry Rhodes (member since 2021). Creating textures is something this potter always keeps in mind. "The user of my pottery should be able to feel that the pot was made by a person and not stamped out by a machine. A cup should feel organic emanating from the earth and be comforting to hold," states Rhodes.

Yadkin Cultural Arts Center in Yadkinville, NC, Features Works by Owen Daniels

The Yadkin Cultural Arts Center in Yadkinville, NC, will present Owen Daniels: More Than Just a Picture, on view from Jan. 4 through Feb. 23, 2024.

Daniels offers the following statement, "My artistic journey is guided by the transformative power of photo manipulation. With each piece I create, I strive to reshape reality and redefine perception. Photo manipulation is my medium of choice, allowing me to traverse the boundaries of imagination and reality, and to craft new narratives from existing visual elements."

"In a world saturated with imagery, I find inspiration in the infinite possibilities hidden within every photograph," adds Daniels. "I believe that reality is not static but can be molded, stretched, and merged to reflect the visions that dwell within the depths of our consciousness."

"My work is a delicate dance between technology and artistry. I employ digital tools to carefully blend and reconfigure photographs, breathing life into scenes and subjects. Through meticulous attention to detail, I aim to create compositions that challenge the viewer's understanding of what is real and what is an illusion," says Daniels.

"My art is a reflection of the ever-evolving nature of perception in the digital age. It speaks to the malleability of truth and the potential for beauty in the unexpected. I aim to evoke a sense of wonder and curiosity, inviting the audience to question the boundaries of possibility and the essence of our visual experiences."

"As an artist who utilizes photo manipulation, my goal is not to deceive but to inspire. I hope to instigate conversations about the boundaries of creativity, the ethics of image manipulation, and the evolving role of photography in a world where the lines between reality and art are increasingly blurred."

"Ultimately, my work is a celebration of the power of imagination and the boundless potential of visual storytelling," adds Daniels. "Through photo manipulation, I seek to redefine the limits of our perception and to craft a unique space where reality and dreams merge to form a new and captivating visual language"

Daniels' photographic career started at the US Army Photographic School of Cartography, learning the basics of photography and photo printing. In addition to this formal training, I worked for several years as a freelance photographer and extended my photographic career by fine-tuning the art of visual storytelling and developing a distinctive, decisive and intimate photo-journalistic signature style which has led to various opportunities that include: Artist in Residences, Public Art Installations, Grants and varied other commissions.

In 2019, Daniels received the Duke Energy Grant and Z Smith Reynolds Lead Artist for the Presence Absence Project awards. He is a visual artist/photographer, educator

University of North Carolina @ Greensboro, NC, Features Works by Lalla Essaydi

The University of North Carolina @ Greensboro in Greensboro, NC, will present Lalla Essaydi / Falk Visiting Artist, on view in the 1st Floor: The Leah Louise B. Tannenbaum Gallery/Space for Engagement of the Weatherspoon Art Museum, from Jan. 20 through May 24, 2024. An Artist Talk, "Lalla Essaydi" will be offered on Apr. 4, from 4:30-5:30pm.

Artist Lalla Essaydi grew up in Morocco, studied in France, raised her children in Saudi Arabia, and now lives in the United States. Her art draws upon these varied cultural contexts and personal experiences to address the complex realities of contemporary Arab female lives.

Essaydi often returns to the domestic spaces of her Moroccan girlhood, looking back on them as an adult woman caught somewhere between past and present. She also explores art history, and especially the 19th-century European and American painting tradition known as Orientalism, which produced fantasized images of Middle Eastern and North African locations and people. This exhibition features work from three of Essaydi's compelling photographic series in which she grapples with Orientalism and the ways it contributed to misconceptions about Arab women, as well as what it means today.

In each of her images, Essaydi stages female subjects in carefully selected environments including her family home in Morocco, her Boston studio, and a historic Moroccan palace. The women's poses reference those of the imagined figures in Orientalist paintings while at the same time claiming their own space in the present. Essaydi covers the figures in Arabic calligraphy, which is associated with men, but applies it with henna, which is associated with women. Through these carefully constructed layerings of past and present, East and West, male and female, she encourages us to disrupt singular interpretations of people or history and instead seek more complicated understandings.

This exhibition is organized by Dr. Emily Stamey, Elizabeth McIver Weatherspoon Curator of Academic Programming and Head of Exhibitions. It is presented in partnership with UNC Greensboro's Falk Visiting Artist Program in the School of Art.

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, Features Works by Colleen Critcher

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, will present Colleen Critcher: Consolation Prize, on view in the Kassab Gallery, Hyman Fine Arts Center, from Jan. 16 through Feb. 22, 2024.

“What is a drawing? For some it is the final step, the end goal. In my personal creative pursuits it is the preliminary step – the first in a series of steps towards physically manifesting a creative idea when it reveals itself,” says Critcher. “When a drawing is merely part of the artist’s process, it is often stowed away out of sight and rarely meets a visitor. While sorting through studio inventory, I recently discovered that sometimes a stack of drawings is all I have left of a series once the paintings have gone out into the world. They are a lovely consolation prize of sorts.”

means that we use to express ourselves,” adds Critcher. “Long before we develop sophisticated spoken language, we can move crayons or watercolors and make marks. With very limited means a drawing can emerge. It requires no special training, fancy materials or tools. This exhibition is the first time I have displayed only drawings for a solo exhibition. They express imperfection, impermanence, and a delightful kinship to the many paintings I have made about consumer culture over the years.”

Sunset River Gallery in Calabash, NC, Offers Show Based on the Selfie

Sunset River Gallery in Calabash, NC, will present its first show of 2024 – Selfie, a juried group show featuring a range of art works inspired by the concept of “selfie”, on view from Jan. 6 through Feb. 3, 2024. A reception will be held on Jan. 6, from 2-4pm.

Spalti said, “We thought it would be fun and interesting to explore the psychology of selfies, so we’ve invited regional artists to open up and show us their true selves – at a given moment.”

“I think a selfie is ‘in the moment,’ a representation of where the artist is at that moment rather than a formal portrait. I’m finding that people are taking the idea of ‘selfie’ in different directions, and I love that!”

The show features 25+ works in a range of media including photography, mixed media, acrylic, and more. Spalti adds, “Some are straight forward, and others are more contemplative.”

Work by Susan Barnard

A mixed media piece by Susan Barnard began as a traditional selfie. The viewer can see that by the angle of the faces. Titled Silver Foxes, the original photo of the artist and her husband was taken in front of building graffiti in Michigan. Decoupage and silver ink complete the piece which is installed on wood.

Judi Moore’s acrylic painting is titled Don’t Let Your Worries. She says, “I heard the phrase ‘Don’t let your worries make a nest in your head’ years ago. It has been in the back of my mind ever since. Recently I’ve been painting many birds and nests. This Selfie painting idea occurred when the two ideas collided.”

The diverse nature of the work in the exhibit reflects the humor, talent, and conceptual excitement of the participating artists. The gallery invites the public to visit the during the Selfie show and enjoy the sheer creativity on display.

ing, otherworldly environments. Developed from and influenced by the organic qualities of nature, Connelly's structures are formed using manufactured materials that are able to accurately capture the elaborate detail of the natural world, while also supporting environmental sustainability.

Having worked with lighting and technology as a material for over a decade, Connelly has built a practice that has not only captured national attention but has engaged hundreds of thousands of participants in the evocative and inclusive power of public art. Also inspired by nature are Connelly's complex hand-cut works on paper, reflective of the microscopic world, which she presses against transparent materials to resemble microscope slides. Connelly's two-dimensional works have been exhibited in various galleries, group exhibitions, and museums, offering viewers a different, more collectible approach to her pivotal artistic practice.

Connelly is committed to expanding community and culture through the arts, is an advocate for equality and women in the arts, and places great emphasis on supporting emerging and underrepresented femme, BIPOC, and LGBTQIA+ artists in all stages of their careers. More recently, Connelly has also been honing her curatorial process, developing and executing art exhibitions attached to causes she is passionate about that also address complex social issues through art.

The artist is a proud graduate of the University of Wilmington, NC, and currently lives and creates in the Lake Norman area outside of Charlotte, NC, with her husband and three girls.

Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, Offers Works by Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin, and Karen Paden Crouch

Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, will present 3 Artists: Work of Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin, and Karen Paden Crouch, on view from Jan. 21 through Mar. 3, 2024. A reception, film screening and panel discussion to benefit CAM's Educational Programming will be held on Jan. 28, at 3pm. Tickets are $40 for CAM Member/$60 for Not-Yet Members and all proceeds benefit CAM's educational programming.

These three short films, produced by Art in Bloom Gallery in Wilmington, directed by Christina Capra and edited by Jessie Robertson focus on three dynamic Wilmington artists: Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin and Karen Paden Crouch.

Painter and collage maker Elizabeth Darrow's work is the subject of the film Believing in the Process, ceramist and mixed media artist Gayle Tustin's work is the subject of the film Seeking Freedom Through Art, and sculptor Karen Paden Crouch's work is the subject of In the Land of Make Believe: An Artist's Journey.

In conjunction with this event CAM highlights works of these artists in a temporary exhibition titled Three Artists: Works of Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin, and Karen Paden Crouch. This exhibition will be on view Jan. 21 to Mar. 3 in the museum's Reception Hall.

Proceeds from this event will fund scholarships for students of all ages in Cameron Art Museum's Museum School as well as outreach to vulnerable populations.

Heather Wilson, CAM's Executive

Director says, "Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin, and Karen Paden Crouch are inspirational women artists from our community. We are excited to shine a spotlight on their work, while also raising awareness of the educational programming CAM presents in the community."

Amy Grant, owner of Art in Bloom Gallery, says, "Our gallery team is excited to partner with the CAM to tell the stories of these three extraordinary artists. The exhibit combines the artists' work in the permanent collection of the CAM with newer work on loan from the artists plus the three short films. Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin, and Karen Paden Crouch are also known for their many contributions to the community. It is fitting that all proceeds from ticket sales to the reception and film screenings on Jan. 28 benefit CAM's educational programming."

After more than twenty years of trial practice, Karen Paden Crouch traded her law office for the welding shop and began learning direct metal sculpture. She works in bronze, copper and steel to create organic pieces for the house and garden. An avid gardener, Karen grounds her work in the structure and movement of living things.

Gayle Tustin was born in New Castle and grew up in Sharpsville, PA. She has been fascinated with art since early childhood, cutting up old wallpaper books and magazines for pasting into collage assemblages, to making mud pies in the backyard. Penn State University laid the foundation for her ceramic work as well as Alfred University in NY, after initially completing an Associate Degree in business from Robert Morris University, PA. Tustin is the first person to graduate with honors in Studio Art from the University of North Carolina Wilmington in 1996.

She has participated in numerous artist colonies including Northern Macedonia, Spain, Germany, Brazil, and South Africa. She is responsible for helping to create the No Boundaries International Art Colony, a gathering of local and international artists that meet annually on Bald Head Island to make art.

Tustin has been commissioned for donor tile memorial projects in Wilmington by the Lower Cape Fear Hospice including "Celebration of Life I, II & III" and "Safe Passages", as well as "Bountiful Life I - VI" in Whiteville. Her ceramic relief commissioned works can be seen in Raleigh at the NC State Bar Foundation, "We are the People of North Carolina" and Novant Health in Winston-Salem, "With Compassionate Care" and "Landscapes from Memory".

Elizabeth Darrow has made Wilmington her home since 1977. Born in Hartford, CT, Darrow is a 1967 graduate of Oberlin College (Oberlin, OH), where she majored in painting. She has been working in oil and collage throughout her career, usually in the manner of Abstract Expressionism. She works in a variety of styles depending on her medium, but never works "from life" in the traditional sense. Most of the imagery that comes to her seems to hatch of its own accord, emerging from the process. Darrow enjoys working with color, repeating patterns and embedding humor (and angst) into her work. Each piece takes her on a journey of discovery where she hopes to lose herself to the process.

Darrow's works are held in many private collections locally and abroad. Additionally, her work can be found in the permanent collections of the Cameron Art Museum here in Wilmington, NC, Duke University Medical Center, R.J. Reynolds, Lowes, Wells Fargo, BB&T Bank, SAS Institute, Sara Lee Inc., The Holiday Inn, Nations Bank and The Wilson Center.

The Cameron Art Museum provides a cultural gathering place that enriches the lives of museum visitors and the community through high-quality exhibitions, lifelong learning in the arts, dynamic public programs, and stewardship and interpretation of the collection. CAM's four core values: commitment to community, to lifelong learning in the arts, to support of artists, and to collecting, preserving, documenting and interpreting a permanent collection of art. The museum has been a collecting institution since inception, with approximately 4,000 objects in the permanent collection, with a primary and growing focus on modern art. The collection includes work by artists of national and international significance, used in changing thematic exhibitions, loan exhibitions, and for educational purposes. Cameron Art Museum is a non-profit fully reliant on the generosity of its donors.

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, Features Works by Former Members

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, will present Past to Present: Celebrating Former Members, on view from Jan. 7 through Feb. 18, 2024. A reception will be held on Jan. 14, from 1-4pm.

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts will present an invitational show of new work by 12 former members of the gallery. Some of these artists were recent members, while others were with us in the more distant past. All have continued to explore their art in other venues and sometimes in different mediums.

Painters Linda Carmel, Lolette Guthrie and Michele Yellin will be familiar names and faces to current customers of the gallery, as will textile artist Alice Levinson and ironwood carver Larry Favorite. All were recent members, while painters Peg Bachenheimer, Kimberly Wheaton, and Jean LeCluyse, jewelry designer Mirinda Kossoff, sculptor Renee Leverty, fabric artist Ali Givens, and glass artist Mark Kinsella were members in earlier days of HGA.

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts is owned and operated by 21 local artists and represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art and fine craft. The gallery's offerings include watercolor, oil and acrylic paintings, metal and figurative simplicity. This reliance on software allows for executions that push beyond painterly instincts using a limited vocabulary of elements that form figurative motifs, serving as character studies, "current moods", and signifiers of the human condition.

Architectural references such as geometric grids, and patterns have found their way into the work. The figures are being defined and distorted by those environments. There is a degree of real and illusionistic depth offset by Crosby's use of hard-edge, saturated color. The elements and their surroundings define each other through cutouts in the wood panel supports. Sometimes shapes are removed to reveal the wall behind, while other times you see still more layers and textures building on each other.

Crosby is an artist raised in the south and based in Chapel Hill, NC. He has used digital tools from early in his practice, starting with the emergence of programs like Microsoft Paint, which influenced his aesthetic in its colorful simplicity. Crosby's work extends beyond the studio into outdoor projects and was commissioned to create a permanent outdoor installation in Nash Square, Raleigh, NC. He has exhibited at Ada Gallery, Nasher Museum of Art, Speed Art Museum, Queens Museum, Cell Projects, Exit Art, the Mattress Factory, LUMP, and Kallio Kunsthalle Taidehalli in Helsinki. His exhibitions have been written about in publications such as Art Forum, Art Papers, and discussed on NPR Weekend Edition. He received an MFA from the University of North Carolina – Chapel Hill in 2005, and a BFA in Painting from the University of Alabama, in 2002.

Chieko Murasugi is an abstract artist who employs personal symbols, illusory forms, and irrational spaces to address questions about history, identity, and the notion of personal agency. Her current series, titled "In Loving Memory," is a tribute to her late mother, Yasue Murasugi, who died on May 31, 2022 at the age of 92. In intuitive, process-driven paintings, Murasugi reflects upon Yasue's long life encompassing wartime traumas, immigration, and roles as wife, mother, grandmother, and artist. Her works are expressions of both grief and celebration: sorrow at the loss of her mother and of the ravaged world she left behind, and gratitude for her gifts of life, love, and art.

Murasugi was born in Tokyo, grew up in Toronto, and lived in San Francisco for 20 years before relocating to Chapel Hill, NC, in 2012. She has graduate degrees in Experimental Psychology, specializing in Visual Perception (PhD, York U), and in Studio Art (MFA, UNC-CH). Her paintings and mixed media works have been exhibited nationally in venues including Greenhill, and the Ackland, Wiregrass, Weatherspoon, Spartanburg, and Mint Museums. Collections include Duke University and the cities of Raleigh and Durham. She is a co-founder and co-curator of BASEMENT, an artist-run project space in Chapel Hill.

"True wind blowing now, garden unstirred, the eerie stillness of flowers, grass and leaves that resist the perceptible rush of air. But the scene is not blandly static. There is tone and color, shimmer everywhere, sun beginning to sink, trees alight in the span of waning day" an excerpt from Don DeLillo's Zero K, Scribner, 2016, about Zach Storm.

Storm says, "When painting, I am often thinking about implying the passage of time. I am in a perpetual state of slowing myself down. By working slowly and intuitively, I give each mark the weight it deserves. I am concerned with making paintings that reveal their own history. The earliest layer remains visible just as every layer that follows. I want to give as much as I can to the inquisitive viewer. The imaginary landscapes contain both silence and tumultuous change."

"In the After-Future there is an attempt to live and work within the ruins of the past," adds Storm. "There is a feeling of dislocation and the need to relearn. The elements of the paintings appear to be placed on the canvases. The images are constructs based on cinema, dreams, fantasies, half-remembered texts and repeated phrases. The landscapes are scenes of contemplation, creation and communication."

Storm was born and raised in Los Angeles, CA. He received his BFA from the Corcoran College of Art+Design in Washington, DC, in 2005 and earned his Masters degree at the Maryland Institute College of Art in 2012. Coming from a family of west coast engineers and car enthusiasts, Storm's work is heavily influenced by surface detail, objects of desire and spatial illusion. Storm's artwork has been exhibited in galleries throughout the United States, Europe and Japan.

Kathryn Desplanque's artwork builds universes on the edge of this one's expansion where the laws of nature are wobbly and unrecognizable. Drawing on Platonic forms, deep sea animals, fungi, and theoretical physics she imagines places that border on the inconceivable and unknowable, macroscopic or microscopic, the alien. Her exotopias – alien/outsider landscapes – imagine states of nature beyond human comprehension and absent of humans ourselves.

Work by Zach Storm

In response to her experiences of racial liminality, national status liminality, misogyny, queerness, domestic abuse, and childhood assault, her exotopias reify the fruits of her disembodied imagination, emancipated from a world where her body and identities are contested and oppressed without her consent and in violation of her self-sovereignty.

Desplanque's process aims to replicate the experience of liminality and diaspora through her use of the mechanics of optics and embodiment. Lying somewhere between delight and disorientation and rife with subtle internal contradictions, Her work provides an escape into a hand-made and DIY alien universe devoid of markers of humanity. Situated somewhere between set building and illustration, her exotopias invite viewers into an embodied immersive experience that is peppered with porthole views into microcosmic drawings that invite close and intimate looking.

Desplanque, PhD is a mixed Black and white queer immigrant to the US. A daughter of immigrants to Canada, her ancestors are Caribbean and Dutch. She is a tenure-track assistant professor of art history at UNC Chapel Hill where she teaches and researches 18th and 19th century European visual culture, art worlds, and print history. She has shown her work at Peel Gallery, Artspace, and the Durham Art Guild, has built immersive installations for Sleepy Cat Records and Attic506, and participates in craft and zine fairs. Both Desplanque's scholarship and her exhibition history demonstrate her interest in ignoring the boundaries that separate "high" and "low" or "Fine" and "popular" art.

Tonya Solley Thornton is a multidisciplinary artist fascinated by strange found objects and vintage craft materials. Her sculptures and collages, which typically feature plant-like forms with emotional resonance, grow intuitively from the colorful weird chaos that surrounds her in her studio. She draws inspiration from her childhood in Florida, her family's fascination with holiday displays, her love of roadside attractions, and the strange beauty that exists in nature.

Her piece Florence was inspired by recent collages that she made using images from old craft magazines and books. The subjects of those images – crocheted blankets, fabrics and other vintage handicrafts – are the same sorts of materials she has in abundance in her studio. With these materials she brings the collages to life as larger scale sculptures, returning to an area of her practice that had been on hold for many years due to space limitations.

Solley Thornton was born in Niagara Falls, NY, but grew up mostly in the Florida Keys. She received her BFA from Florida State University and her MFA from Mills College in Oakland, CA. She was the recipient of several awards and fellowships, including the Jay Defeo Award, the Murphey Fine Arts Fellowship, and the Herrerer Prize for Excellence in Art. Since moving to North Carolina in 2014 she has been active in the arts community and has been included in shows at ArtSpace, Durham Arts Guild, Lump and VAE. Tonya currently lives in Raleigh, NC and has a studio at Anchorlight.

Oxford Languages describes fruiting body as "the spore-producing organ of a fungus, often seen as a mushroom or toadstool."

National Geographic describes fungus as "organisms that survive by decomposing and absorbing nutrients in organic material such as soil or dead organisms."

Claudia Rankine, in her book The Conditions of Black Life is One of Mourning says, "...there is simply no mode of empathy that can replicate the daily strain of knowing that as a black person you can be killed for simply being black...".

"Fruiting Bodies" is a series of three-dimensional, free-form, soft sculptures meticulously hand-crocheted by Charlie Dupee. The yarn used in this collection is thoughtfully sourced from local farmers, skilled dyers, dedicated crafters, and second-hand stores in both North Carolina and Maine.

This work serves as an invitation to momentarily escape the hierarchical, eurocentric, patriarchal, heteronormative, capitalistic nightmare-scape that defines 2023 america. It beckons us to embrace softness and contemplate what might emerge from the dregs, detritus, death, and other byproducts of our contemporary society.

Dupee (they/he) is a black, white, queer, Maine-born, multi-disciplinary trash collector and visual artist. He works improvisationally with soft, goopy, sometimes lightly-used materials and occasionally in digital media. Their practice is slow, meditative, and consists largely of thinking about work - that will never be made - in an attempt to combat the trappings of hyperproductivity in american capitalism. He received his MFA from UNC Chapel Hill.

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

A view of "Illumination 2022"

The Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, is presenting Illumination 2023, the museum's 9th annual incarnation of this popular artist-made lantern exhibition and competition, on view through Jan. 14, 2024. This year CAM displays thirty-seven unique lanterns in a variety of mediums, illuminating their Studio One gallery space. Artists represented hail from beyond Wilmington, including artists from Raleigh, Carboro, Asheville and as far way as Adrian, Michigan. Some of the lanterns hang, some rest on pedestals, while others invite viewers to walk around them on the floor. Illumination 2023 includes lanterns made from many media - including handmade paper, metal, glass, reclaimed plastic, found objects, recycled cords. The themes they address range - including joy, resilience, shadows, humor, remembrance, nature. For further information visit (<https://cameronartmuseum.org/>).

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, is presenting The Bitter Years:

Dorothea Lange and Walker Evans Photographs from the Martin Z. Margulies Collection, on view in Galleries 8 & 9, through Jan. 14, 2024. Originating as a tribute to the 1962 Bitter Years photography exhibition curated by the illustrious Edward Steichen for the Museum of Modern Art, New York, the current exhibition organized by the Margulies Collection, features photographs by renowned American photographers Dorothea Lange, Walker Evans, Marion Post Wolcott, Jack Delano, and others who launched their careers as documentarians of the Great Depression. Working for the Farm Security Administration, a branch of Roosevelt's New Deal program, these photographers were hired to capture the social landscape of the country, highlighting the challenges facing Americans between 1935 and 1944. As one photographer articulated, "the idea is to show New York to Texans and Texas to New Yorkers." For further information call the Museum at 843/722-2706 or visit (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Work by Fleming Markel

in Greenville, SC, is presenting Pent Up Pink, featuring works by Fleming Markel, on view in the Center's Main Gallery, through Jan. 24, 2024. During the opening reception CEO, Jess Burgess, will give opening remarks for the exhibition. GCCA's Main Gallery exhibition Pent Up Pink is generously supported by media sponsor TOWN. NC State University in Raleigh, NC, is presenting BLOW UP II: Inflatable Contemporary Art, on view at the Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, through Jan. 28, 2024. BLOW UP II: Inflatable Contemporary Art explores the medium of inflatable art with figurative, conceptual, and abstract imagery. These large-scale inflatable sculptures, conceived by nine artists and art collectives, connote fun and whimsy, are familiar yet strange, and challenge the definition of art. Here, in an unusual feat, artists use air as an active tool in their work to subvert our perspective and surprise us. Inflatables have a long history, dating as far back as the 18th century, and were initially perceived as innovative, if not magical, objects. Today, inflatables are often associated with happy memories. Lawn inflatables, bouncy houses, and party balloons are ubiquitous at holidays and celebrations. Water wings, inflatable inner tubes, and rafts conjure thrilling vacation memories. The awe-inspiring hot air balloon challenges our feet-on-the-ground perspective, allowing us to levitate and explore the land from above like a bird. Amalia Gal dona Broche, "Glorieta," 2023. Courtesy of the artist and Patricia Sweetow Gallery.

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting The Threads We Follow, a group exhibition of fiber-based works by leading global artists, on view in the Center's Main Gallery, through Mar. 10, 2024. Over several centuries, artists and craftspeople have used fiber to challenge identity-based oppression throughout various global cultures. Many of these artists specifically contemplate the historic devaluation of textiles based upon their association with domestic labor and craft making, where women and communities of color have long interpreted social politics. The Threads We Follow acknowledges the foundations of fiber arts rooted in explicit gender and cultural expression while demonstrating contemporary understandings of the malleability of identity. The artists throughout this show experiment with structure and form to translate their experiences to materials like thread, fabric, and even hair, creating nontraditional designs including busts, sculptures, and suspended pieces. Ultimately, each of these artists emphasizes the exploratory nature of fiber arts that has continuously allowed space for community-focused experimentation and reflection. For further information call 336/725-1904 or visit (www.secca.org).

Work by Kathleen Thum

Appalachian State University in Boone, NC, is presenting Considering Carbon: Kathleen Thum, on view in Gallery A and Petti/Peiser Galleries of the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, through May 4, 2024. Artist's statement from Kathleen Thum: "The exhibition, Considering Carbon, consists of a series of drawings and cut-paper wall installations which explore the theme of fossil fuels, specifically oil and coal. In the exhibition, I use different visual and conceptual approaches to examine the physical, material qualities of coal and oil, as I aim to heighten an awareness of our disconnection and dependence on fossil fuels. Oil and coal are an integral part of our contemporary existence, yet remain mysterious, unknown substances, contained and controlled by the industry." "Large-scale wall installation artworks in the exhibition consider the infrastructure of the pipeline system through a visual language of abstraction to communicate the vastness of the petroleum infrastructure. In these large cut-paper pieces, I evoke the visceral, sensory quality of the petroleum landscape by using scale, texture, surface, color and the non-traditional presentation of drawings to engage the body of the viewer." For further information call the Center at 828/262-3017 or visit (www.turchincenter.org).

Works by Roxanne Lasky

Sea Islands Center Gallery, 1106 Carteret Street, Beaufort. Jan. 19 - Mar. 10 - "Stitching Ghosts," featuring a contemporary textile work by Roxanne Lasky. The exhibit features the nature-inspired stitched maps of Roxanne Lasky. As a resident of the Low Country for nine years, she uses the spirit of this historical land to develop narrative pieces that honor materials and place. Her extended time spent in South Africa also informs her work. Roxanne gathers and repurposes her materials to carry forward the history of humble objects imbued with the energy of prior incarnations. Ongoing - Since 2012, the Sea Islands Center Gallery has hosted visiting artists and group exhibitions from South Carolina, Georgia, and Arkansas. The gallery also features USCB students' work from juried exhibitions and the art department's senior capstone project. The mission of the gallery is to promote the academic and creative programming goals of the Department of Visual Art & Design and to serve as a catalyst of creative inquiry and exploration within the Beaufort community. Masks and social distancing required. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 8am-5pm & Fri., 8am-2:30pm. Contact: 843/521-3147 or at (<https://www.artgallery.uscb.edu/about>).

Bluffton

Work by Missy Gentile

Society of Bluffton Artists Gallery/Learning Center, 6 & 8 Church Street, corner of Calhoun and Church Street, Bluffton. Jan. 2 - 28 - "Action Painting," features works by Missy Gentile. A reception will be held on Jan. 11, from 5-7pm. Gentile typically begins her abstract painting classes with a quote from the artist Helen Frankenthaler: "One of the first rules is no rules." She will apply this same philosophy with her upcoming featured artist exhibit in January at The Society of Bluffton Artists gallery in Old Town Bluffton. "Action Painting" will feature several pieces of her abstract works that convey strong emotional or expressive content, breaking away from traditional processes. Gentile draws inspiration from her life experiences and her core values of service and human connection. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by over 100 area artists, with all work moderately priced. Changing shows every six weeks. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 11:30am-3pm. Contact: 843/757-6586 or at (sobagallery.com).

Charleston

Avery Research Center for African History and Culture, at the College of Charleston, 125 Bull St., Charleston. Ongoing - Exhibits on view include: "Since 1920: Zeta Phi Beta Centennial". The Gamma Zeta chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority Incorporated presents a centennial exhibit filled with the rich history of the sorority in print and paraphernalia. Visitors can see in-depth the programming, philanthropy and reach of Zeta Phi Beta during their 100 years. "The Water Keeps Rising" Hip-hop artist and activist Benny Starr has created an interactive exhibit based on data from the Avery's State of Racial Disparities Report in Charleston County. This exhibit will create an immersive experience for visitors. In the areas of civic engagement, racial disparities, the environment and performance art/music, this exhibit will aim to connect the dots from historical data and archival information up to the present conditions of the Lowcountry. "Resilient". Local artist Chris "Kolpeace" Johnson will highlight the power of being resilient with this work that recognizes African Americans who have shown strength through adversity including the late local activist Muhiyidin D'baha and Cyntoia Brown, who faced life in prison after being convicted of homicide as a juvenile. These pieces are tributes to memorialize the impactful strength of an unsung hero in the community, engaging the soul and spirit. "The African Origins of Mathematics". Charleston resident and artist Robert "King David" Ross highlights the direct impact Africa has had on modern mathematics in this exhibit. Showcasing the first math instrument, the Ishango bone, the exhibit allows visitors to see the influence Africa has had on every aspect of life. Admission: Free. City Gallery at Joseph P. Riley, Jr. Waterfront Park, 34 Prioleau Street, Charleston. Through Feb. 11 - "Sleeping with the Ancestors: How I Followed the Footprints of Slavery," uses recent photography by a collection of South Carolina photographers to highlight the work of the Joe McGill and the Slave Dwelling Project, a local non-profit that works to preserve extant slave dwellings throughout the country. "Sleeping with the Ancestors" uses more than 40 photographs by a collection of SC photographers to highlight the work of the Slave Dwelling Project. The Slave Dwelling Project, founded in 2010 by Joe McGill, focuses attention on the lives of the enslaved through the examination of the buildings where they lived. Through Feb. 11 - "Payne-ful Business, Charleston's Journey to Truth," pairs reproductions of historic advertisements with paintings of the enslaved by artist John W. Jones. Jones' legacy preservationist and acclaimed artist, has created a powerful series of paintings of the enslaved in the antebellum period. Drawing on the historical research of Margaret Seidler, fourth great-granddaughter of domestic slave trading auctioneer William Payne, Jones references the descriptive text gleaned from newspaper advertisements as he respectfully brings to life the people who were vital to the success of this community and beyond. For this exhibition, Jones has created over 40 paintings; each is accompanied by the textual images of the supporting newspaper advertisement, including its archival provenance. Hours: Wed.-Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 843/958-6484 or (www.charleston-sc.gov/citygallery).

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Gallery 2 & 3, Through Mar. 10 - "A Queer Kinship: The Art of Aubrey Beardsley and Edward Ned I.R. Jennings". The exhibition will expand upon the lasting influence of "aesthetic fever" and the British Aestheticism Movement on the Charleston Renaissance. Focusing on the work of Charleston Renaissance artist Edward Ned I.R. Jennings, this exhibition will examine the stylistic affinity of his work to British Aesthete and famed illustrator, Aubrey Beardsley. "A Queer Kinship" will open new doors for exploring the LGBTQ influences on the Charleston Renaissance and one of its most original artists. Galleries 1, 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse. The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kaufmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Galleries 8 & 9, Through Jan. 14 - "The Bitter Years: Dorothea Lange and Walker Evans Photographs from the Martin Z. Margulies Collection". Originating as a tribute to the 1962 Bitter Years photography exhibition curated by the illustrious Edward Steichen for the Museum of Modern Art, New York, the current exhibition organized by the Margulies Collection, features photographs by renowned American photographers Dorothea Lange, Walker Evans, Marion Post Wolcott, Jack Delano, and others who launched their careers as documentarians of the Great Depression. Working for the Farm Security Administration, a branch of Roosevelt's New Deal program, these photographers were hired to capture the social landscape of the country, highlighting the challenges facing Americans between 1935 and 1944. As one photographer articulated, "the idea is to show New York to Texans and Texas to New Yorkers." The Martin Z. Margulies Photography Collection includes over 100 vintage photographs from the Farm Security Administration, sixty-five were selected for this exhibition, which also features a series of Polaroids produced by Walker Evans in 1973 and '74 returning to themes found in the earlier works. Jan. 26 - Apr. 28 - "Rory McEwen: A New Perspective on Nature". Presenting the vibrant and varied career of the renowned Scottish artist, Rory McEwen (1932 - 1982), this exhibition reveals McEwen's lifelong enquiry into light and color through his remarkable paintings of plants. Bringing a modern sensibility to botanical art, McEwen developed a distinctive style, painting on vellum and using large empty backgrounds on which his plant portraits seem to float. Without shadows and executed in exact, minutely accurate detail, he recorded the imperfect and the unique, as well as the flawless. McEwen's work, shown in this exhibition alongside the works of master botanical artists from the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries, "has had a lasting impact on the botanical art world, where he is recognized as one of the standard-bearers of today's renaissance in botanical painting." Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Engleheart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked here, or who have created objects that reflect the complex story of the region. The works are grouped to reflect several themes including the southern landscape, the human figure, abstraction, and the legacy of slavery in America. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

International African American Museum, 14 Wharfside Street, Charleston. Through Jan. 15 - "Creative Gathering: A Space for Gathering, Fellowship, and Reflection Creative Gathering," is an exhibition curated from the permanent collection of the International African American Museum. It draws cultural and thematic parallels from throughout the diaspora, while it invites visitors to rest and reflect on their museum experience. Creative Gathering is an airy, open space designed to facilitate museum programming and public events. Jan. 31 - Apr. 28 - "Feeling the Future: Ming Smith," explores artist Ming Smith's unparalleled and under-recognized career from the early 1970s through the present. As Smith's first solo exhibition at a major institution, it encompasses a multitude of artistic expressions to represent her vibrant and multi-layered practice, which is grounded in portraiture, as it amplifies the heartbeat of Black life in the United States. Drawn from the full complexity of Smith's oeuvre, "Feeling the Future" places works from the artist's five decades of creation in conversation with one another, while it embraces the cultural movements she witnessed and participated in. Exploring themes such as Afrofuturism, Black cultural expression, representation and social examination, the exhibit offers a guided tour into unperceived moments of life as captured by one of the most profoundly gifted artists of her generation. Ongoing - The IAAM, which sits at the site of Gadsden's Wharf - one of the nation's most prolific former slave trading ports - includes nine core exhibition galleries and a special exhibition gallery, as well as a "floating" gallery that weaves contemporary art throughout the museum. The museum will open with more than 700 artifacts dating from 17th century to contemporary objects, alongside 1000 image and media collection pieces - all of which help connect the African American journey to its roots and connections to African and African Diaspora communities and cultures. The museum also houses the Center for Family History, a world-class genealogy and ancestry resource center, which began hosting genealogy classes and workshops in 2020. Admission: Yes. In an effort to increase access and decrease obstacles to participating in arts and cultural experiences, International African American Museum (IAAM) has joined Bank of America as a new partner in the bank's Museums on Us program, which offers free general admission on the first full weekend of each month to Bank of America, Merrill and Bank of America Private Bank credit and debit cardholders, at some of the nation's greatest museums and cultural attractions, which now includes IAAM. Hours: Tue.-Sun., 10am-5pm (last entry at 4pm). Contact: 843/872-5352 or at (iaamuseum.org).

The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Textile Gallery, Through Jan. 7 - "America's First Museum - 250 Years of Collecting, Preserving, and Educating: Part 2". Commemorating two and a half centuries since its founding and spanning nearly 4.6 billion years of history, we are pleased to present America's First Museum: 250 Years of Collecting, Preserving, and Educating. This year-long exhibit will feature a wide array of objects that tell the story of this impressive institution and its remarkable collections. Part one will highlight objects from ancient Rome, a Chief's helmet from the Sandwich Islands acquired in 1798, Colonial dress, and Japanese Samurai armor. Opening mid-year, part two will showcase a church pew made by enslaved hands measuring 20 feet in length, centuries old Archaic carved bone pins, a skull from the largest known flying bird and a couture Fortuny gown. Historic Textiles Gallery, Jan. 20 - Sept. 15 - "The Art of Abstraction: Modernism in Quilting". Quilting has always been a means of creative expression, uniting color and pattern to form an object of purpose. Just as paint on canvas functions, the fabric pieces often work as artistic parameters, testing the visual acuity and imagination of the individual. We are pleased to announce a collaborative exhibition with the Gibbes Museum of Art in which abstract artwork will be displayed alongside the Museum's quilts to showcase the artistic beauty of both mediums. Lowcountry Image Gallery, Ongoing - "A Historical Timeline of America's First Museum: 1773 - 2023". This timeline highlights the rich history of The Charleston Museum from its beginning to the present. Selected events from the past 250 years are showcased using iconic photographs from the Museum's Archives. The forebear of The Charleston Museum was founded on January 12, 1773, by members of the Charleston Library Society, when South Carolina was still a British colony. Although the form and substance of the institution has changed over two and a half centuries, its general purpose at the time of its creation - to educate - is still central to its mission today. Throughout its history, the Museum has experienced wars, natural disasters, and most recently a worldwide pandemic, yet it has continued to thrive. Today, The Charleston Museum houses more than 2.4 million objects, and each year over 100,000 people, from around the world and from all walks of life, come here to learn. We invite you to enjoy this timeline highlighting selected events from the Museum's rich past, from its beginning to the present, with iconic images from the Museum's Archives. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charleston-museum.org).

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Through June 30 - "Sergio Hudson: Focused on the Fit". This exhibition showcases the remarkable moments of a designer who fell in love with fashion at 5 years old while living in Ridgeway, South Carolina, and has become one of the biggest names in the industry. Sergio Hudson's high-profile clients include Beyoncé, Michelle Obama, Serena Williams, Rihanna, Kamala Harris, Kendall Jenner, Issa Rae, Rachel Brosnahan, and Keke Palmer, a close friend whom he has called a muse. Hudson's philosophy is that fashion should be for everyone and include everyone. He designs to empower the wearer and often includes a nod to the '90s of his youth. See eight signature garments from key moments in his revolutionary career alongside more than 20 sketches and drawings exploring his career from the early days winning Bravo's Styled to Rock in 2013 up through the present day. Through Jan. 21 - "Lee Alexander McQueen & Ann Ray: Rendez-Vous". "Rendez-Vous" offers a rare glimpse into the life and mind of one of the most renowned contemporary fashion designers of our era, Alexander McQueen. Providing unique insight into the creative process of this influential and complex figure, this exhibition features key garments from McQueen's most celebrated fashion collections along with photographer Ann Ray's intimate portraits and behind-the-scenes photographs of McQueen's runway shows, taken over the course of their 13-year friendship. The exhibition includes 50 garments designed by McQueen and over 60 photographs taken by Ray, the only photographer permitted to document the behind-the-scenes culture of his runway shows and atelier. Organized and produced by Barrett Barrera Projects. Hudson will be at the CMA on Nov. 18 for a special opening day program. Through Jan. 1, 2025 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuseum.org).

SC State Museum, 301 Gervais St., Columbia. Ongoing - "The 521 All-Stars: A Championship Story of Baseball and Community." Featuring 40 photographs exploring the story of a Black baseball team from Rembert, SC, and their fans. Based on the 1998 book by Frye Gaillard with photographs by Byron Baldwin, the exhibition highlights the story of the 521 All-Stars team of Rembert, SC, a Black baseball team with roots going back to the 1920s. Named for Hwy 521, which runs past their baseball field, the 521 All-Stars play for the love of the game and the pride and solidarity it brings. Featuring more than 40 framed black and white photographs taken during the team's 1996-1997 season, 521 All-Stars depicts baseball in its purest form: scrap metal bases, rotten wood bleachers, teams made up of brothers, fathers, sons and, most importantly, fellowship within the community. Ongoing - The South Carolina State Museum, the state's largest and most comprehensive museum, is located along the banks of the beautiful Congaree River in downtown Columbia, South Carolina. Florence

View of Joseph Kameen exhibition

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Ongoing - "Kindred Spirit: The Personal Worlds of William H. Johnson". William H. Johnson (1901 - 1970) was a man between worlds: raised in the rural South, but educated in New York; black, but his unknown father was white; American-born, but lived much of his adult life in Europe. This diverse heritage gave Johnson a unique perspective and insight, but at times it was also a difficult shadow which followed him as he traveled the world in search of his true artistic voice. Eventually, after many years away from his hometown of Florence, SC, Johnson returned to the United States. Although living in New York, his art began to focus almost entirely on the lives and experiences of African Americans in the rural South. "My travels taught me that an artist must live and paint in his own environment... This development shall continue for the rest of my life, and it is the painting of my people," said Johnson in 1941. Special Exhibit Gallery, Through Jan. 28 - "Openings: Joseph Kameen". In his recent paintings, South Carolina artist Joseph Kameen investigates how the search for meaning in everyday moments becomes distorted as internal thoughts are projected onto inanimate surroundings, blurring the line between reality and memory. With their strong compositions, intense interplay of colors, and theatrical effects of light and shadow, the paintings' characters, objects, and events take on a dream-like presence that is both familiar and elusive, suggesting meanings that remain slightly out of reach. His images occupy a space somewhere between the observed and the observer, achieving a subtle symbolic ambiguity and leaving room for multiple interpretations. Kameen's work has been exhibited in New York, London, and Berlin. He received his MFA in painting from Indiana University following a BFA in painting and sculpture from Boston University. He is currently Assistant Professor of Art at the University of South Carolina Aiken. Educational Gallery, Ongoing - "Hutty: The Art of Observation". Community Gallery, Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. Work by Colleen Critcher

Hyman Fine Arts Center, Francis Marion University, Florence. Adele Kassab Art Gallery, Jan. 16 - Feb. 22 - "Colleen Critcher: Consolation Prize". What is a drawing? For some it is the final step, the end goal. In my personal creative pursuits it is the preliminary step - the first in a series of steps towards physically manifesting a creative idea when it reveals itself. When a drawing is merely part of the artist's process, it is often stowed away out of sight and rarely meets a visitor. While sorting through studio inventory, I recently discovered that sometimes a stack of drawings is all I have left of a series once the paintings have gone out into the world. They are a lovely consolation prize of sorts. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-5pm. Contact: Jessica Willis, Gallery Curator, at 843/661-1539 or at (<https://www.fmarion.edu/finearts/artgalleryseriescurrent/>).

Steven F. Gately Gallery, Francis Marion University, 142 North Dargan Street, Florence. Jan. 16 - Mar. 7 - "Calvert and LaValla Want More Exhibition," featuring works by Myles Calvert and Tamara LaValla. Impulsive acquisitions, giving and receiving, a sense of what is deserved, owed, and only right. "Want / More" elevates surfaces into seductive invitations and mysterious points of inquiry. Through repetitive investigations of motives and materials, objects are offered up to be scrutinized, quantified, and assigned value. Myles Calvert and Tamara LaValla, both previously shown as solo artists, have collaborated for "Want / More" in order to contrast their own ideals when creating works. Connecting everything with a single, vibrant hue, Calvert and LaValla create a visual awareness and objectivity. Hours: Tue.-Wed., noon-6pm; Thur.-Fri., 10am-6pm & 2nd and 4th Sat., 10am-3pm. Contact: 843/661-4637, 843/661-4638 or at (<https://www.fmarion.edu/universityplace/>).

Downtown Greenville - "First Fridays," featuring a gallery crawl presented on the first Fri, of the month from 6-9pm. Visit galleries throughout the downtown area. For info: (www.fristfridaysonline.com).

Greenville Center for Creative Arts, 25 Draper Street, Greenville. Main Gallery, Through Jan. 24 - "Pent Up Pink," featuring works by Fleming Markel. GCCA's Main Gallery exhibition "Pent Up Pink" is generously supported by media sponsor TOWN. Markel's sculptures question and defy consumerism, along with the methods and myths it perpetuates about womanhood and femininity. The exhibition consists of 12 life-sized, freestanding sculptures made from everyday feminine materials arranged in a maze-like exhibition space. The layout of the exhibition creates alcoves, enabling individual observation and interaction with each sculpture. GCCA will host a Walk & Talk tour with exhibiting artist Fleming Markel from the current Main Gallery exhibition, "Pent Up Pink" on Jan. 9, from 6-7 pm. Markel will take visitors on an autobiographical journey of her experiences and viewpoints that led to the creation of her feminist-inspired sculptures. Admission is free and no registration is required. Community Gallery, Jan. 5 - Feb. 21 - "28 Awards from the Greenville Tech Visual Arts Annual Student Exhibit". A reception will be held on Jan. 5, from 6-9pm. Greenville Technical College's 28 Awards from their juried 2023 competition, Visual Arts Annual Student Exhibition (VAASE) will be on view in the Community Gallery. These award-winning art students represent the best of the best from Greenville Tech's Department of Visual Arts (DVA). 50 Visual Arts students entered 135 works into the competition. The works at GCCA are the award winners from VAASE's exhibition and artworks were juried by Freda Sue. 28 Awards showcases DVA's varied curriculum: design & digital imagery, drawing, graphic design, painting, photography, printmaking, sculpture, and web design. Loft Gallery, Jan. 5 - 31 - "Humor Me," featuring works by Hans-Peter Bolz. In our Studio Artist's Loft Gallery for the month of January, Hans-Peter Bolz's exhibition, 'Humor Me,' unveils a collection of 36"x36" canvases that playfully capture the essence of his artistic practice. He showcases an eclectic array of subjects ranging from his various studio encounters or his unique takes on reproductions of famous artworks. Hans-Peter weaves humor, joy, and his admiration for the world into his artwork. The Shop at GCCA - In celebration of our eighth anniversary, Greenville Center for Creative Arts is thrilled to announce the opening of our official gift shop! As another opportunity for GCCA to support local artists, visitors can shop for consigned artworks from Greenville-based artists including prints, small originals, jewelry, pottery, and more! The Shop at GCCA will also have novelty merchandise for sale so you can show your love for Greenville arts everywhere you go! Ongoing - Home to 16 studio artists. Hours: Wed.-Fri., 1-5pm. Andrew Wyeth (1917-2009) "Last Light", 1988, watercolor on paper, ©Andrew Wyeth / Artists Rights Society (ARS), New York

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Ongoing - "Jasper Johns Prints: Juggling Fragments," includes more than 30 works by this American master. Ongoing - "From Cassatt to O'Keeffe," which highlights selections from the museum's permanent collection of American Impressionism. Featuring work by Mary Cassatt, Frank Duveneck, Gari Melchers, and Kate Freeman Clark, this exhibition invites viewers to consider the ideas and techniques that opened the door to modern visual expression as seen in works by William H. Johnson, Patrick Henry Bruce, and Georgia O'Keeffe. Ongoing - "Collection Highlights: African-American Art," features 17 works by as many artists. At the forefront of the exhibition is a realistic sculpture by John Wilson, whose monumental bronze head of Martin Luther King, Jr. captures the dignity and strength of the civil rights leader. Post-World War II non-objective painting is reflected in works by Beauford Delaney, Hale Woodruff, and Frank Wimberley. A lighter, but no less powerful, touch is embodied in a brilliant Color Field painting by Thomas Sills. The exhibition also includes evocative examples by Romare Bearden, Frederick Brown, Jacob Lawrence, Betye Saar, Merton Simpson, and Bob Thompson. Ongoing - "Andrew Wyeth: Running with the Land". This stunning retrospective showcases 59 works on paper, capturing Wyeth's preference for painting intimate subjects that were tied to the homes established by his father in both Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, and Cushing, Maine. Wyeth drew inspiration from the distinctive characteristics and denizens of these locations, revealing universal traits in his depictions of landscapes, objects, and people. Ongoing - "All in the Family (Connections)," which assembles work by three generations of Wyeths--the first family of American painting--taking advantage of several rarely exhibited loans from a private collection and complementing the exhibition "Andrew Wyeth: Running with the Land". Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.gcm.org).

Thompson Gallery, Thomas Anderson Roe Art Building, Furman University, Greenville. Jan. 5 - 26 - "Lisa Turner: 'Bodily Impressions'". The exhibit features several series of print-based works by Lisa Turner of Bellingham, Washington. The show addresses concerns related to the social and environmental implications of consumer culture. Turner's work combines language, medical sciences and history to make humorous and pointed statements about the interconnectedness of our bodies with the consumer goods that come to comprise us. Hours: M-F, 9am-5pm. Contact: 864/294-2282 or e-mail to (thurmanart@furman.edu).

Work by Taylor Loftin

Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville, Hampton Station Bay 6, Unit 601, Hampton Station, 1320 Hampton Avenue Extension, Greenville. Jan. 5 - Feb. 17 - "salt lick in the windowsill," featuring Claire Whitehurst and Taylor Loftin. A reception will be held on Feb. 2, from 6-9pm. Tiger Strikes Asteroid Greenville (TSA GVL) artist collective is excited to present new works by Claire Whitehurst and Taylor Loftin in our next exhibition, salt lick in the windowsill. Composed of recent small paintings and ceramic works, the show explores an interplay of colors, imagery, and forms deeply rooted in the shared Southern experiences of the artists. Raised in Mississippi, the artists weave a collective narrative that serves as a meditation: a contemplative exploration of the transient beauty and underlying tension inherent in Southern environments. Nature infests, abundantly growing over and hiding the underlying structures of the landscape, similar to the artists' upbringing navigating social realities. Seeking transcendence, the exhibition presents the South through an otherworldly lens: imposing and beautiful. Hours: Fri., 4-8pm; Sat., noon-6pm or by appt. Contact: e-mail to (greenville@tigerstrikesasteroid.com).

Visual Arts Institute, on the Greer Campus of Greenville Technical College about 4 miles north of Greer on Highway 290, Locust Hill Road, Taylors. Benson Campus Galleries, Jan. 8 - Feb. 6 - "Existing Now," is a mantra for our now. Our world, our country, our local institutions, even our families are embroiled in a frightening flux and in conflict. "Existing Now" offers a respite, a respite of images. These images remind us to find joy and peace in making connections to nature, in performing meditative tasks, and in exploring our humanity. Marty Epp-Carter, printmaker, and Elaine Quave, ceramicist, use different languages, but they speak as a chorus. Their meticulous craft, their nature-based pallet and imagery, their exploration of connections result in visual poetry. They explain "In this continuous moment of now, we hold our memories of the past, and our hopes and fears for the future." Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-7pm & Fri., 9am-2pm. Contact: Laraine

Lancaster

USC Lancaster Native American Studies Center, 119 South Main Street, Lancaster. Five Points Gallery, Through Aug. 5 - "More than a Game: Indigenous Sports and Athleticism." This exhibit is on display in conjunction with the 18th Annual Native American Studies Week, "Indigenous Athletes and Athleticism: Vital Contributions to a National Passion." The athletics-focused exhibit highlights information about Indigenous athletes- some with Carolina connections, such as Buck George, who played football for the Clemson Tigers and the team now known as the Washington Commanders- and their contributions to the Olympics and competitive sports such as basketball, hockey, football, wrestling, track and field, and more. "This exhibit takes a look at a subject we've never covered before," said Center Special Projects Coordinator Elisabeth Avelar. North Gallery, Through Feb. 15 - "Backyard Vines: Artwork by Nancy Basket". "The Traditional Artwork of Nancy Basket" was open for a handful of weeks at the Center before the facility's temporary closure in March 2020 due to COVID-19. Some of the artwork featured in the original exhibit will return, such as the 8-foot sculptures of the "Uktena" (featuring motion-sensor eyes) and "Thunderbird," along with new pieces, like oversized kudzu chandeliers. Also included in the exhibit are thumb-sized miniatures, pine needle baskets, woven baskets, manikin floor lamps, and more. In addition to working with pine needles and kudzu, Basket has woven with corn husks, rye straw, horsehair, wisteria, grapevines, and cat tails. Red Rose Gallery, Through Mar. 31 - "Exploring the Diversity of American Religious Life through Sound". Choirs singing. Monks chanting. The reading of religious texts. These are religious sounds. But so too are the creaking of church pews and the clanking of pots during the preparation of a communal meal. "Sounds of Religion" is a Smithsonian poster exhibition that explores how rituals and gatherings of religious communities create a complex soundtrack of religions in America that teaches how people behave, how they're different, and how they're alike. "Sounds of Religion" is organized by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service in cooperation with the American Religious Sounds Project of The Ohio State University and Michigan State University and made possible through the generous support of The Henry Luce Foundation. Through the 12 posters, the exhibition examines what religious sound is, how it can define a community, and where it can be found - from houses of worship and the home to public spaces and in acts of protest. The exhibit also looks at how the sound of religion can be affected by events like COVID-19. Duke Energy Gallery, Through Aug. 5 - "Native American Archaeology in the Wateree Valley". Artwork and artifacts tell the story of Indigenous mounds in the Wateree Valley region. D. Lindsay Pettus Gallery, Ongoing - "The Story of Catawba Pottery". This National Endowment for the Arts funded exhibit traces the art, culture and history of Catawba pottery, the oldest Native American pottery tradition in the United States. Back Gallery, Semi-permanent Exhibit - "This is Us: Native American Studies". This exhibit celebrates the history and 10th Anniversary of USCL's Native American Studies, including artifacts and artwork from Collections, and a history of the building our Native American Studies Center calls home. Ongoing - The Center is 15,000 square foot facility in historic downtown Lancaster. Guests will have the opportunity to tour the NAS Center's gallery spaces, archives, classrooms, and archaeology, language, and audio-visual labs. Home to the world's largest collection of Catawba Indian pottery, the NAS Center will offer exhibits of regional Native American Art, classes and programs focused on Native American history, culture, archaeology, folklore, and language. Park Circle Gallery, formerly the Olde Village Community Building, 4820 Jenkins Avenue, in the bustling Park Circle neighborhood of North Charleston. Jan. 3 - 27 - "Cold Feet," featuring paintings by Jeremy Croft. A reception will be held on Jan. 5, from 5-7pm. Local artist Jeremy Croft presents a collection of oil and acrylic paintings that address how we deal with our internal nature in the external, exploring the degree to which we can ingratiate our impulses and instincts with a shared world. Jan. 3 - 27 - "Just for Today," features sculptures by James Johnson. A free reception hosted by the artists will be held at the gallery on Friday, January 5, from 5:00-7:00pm. Mount Pleasant-based artist James Johnson presents a series of 3-D printed sculptures that focus on the concept of mindful awareness diluting selfishness; juxtaposing the ordinary with the unexpected. Ongoing - In addition to the monthly exhibitions, the "gift shop" at the North Charleston City Gallery, which features a variety of items by local artists, will also be moved to PCG. Cultural Arts will also continue to host art workshops and recurring meetings for art groups and guilds in the space once gatherings are safe to resume. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Fri., 10am-6pm & Sat., noon-4pm. The gallery will be closed on June 10 & 11. Contact: 843/740-5854, or at (https://www.northcharleston.org/residents/arts-and-culture/).

Orangeburg

Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in thousands of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Hours: call ahead for hours. Contact: call 803-531-1662 or at (www.cecilwilliams.com).

Rock Hill

Work by Hans Petersen

Center for the Arts, 121 East Main St., Rock Hill. Dalton Gallery, Jan. 12 - Feb. 10 - "A Decade's Odyssey," featuring works by Hans Petersen. Hans Petersen is an international artist. Danish born, he was educated at the Royal Danish Academy of Art in Copenhagen. Though Hans' initial studies were in architecture, his love of abstract expressionism intensified with inspiration from the CoBRA movement, especially Danish artist Asgar Jorn. To this day his work draws on this movement's basic principles of complete freedom of color and form that inject energy and excitement into his work. Hans began his professional life as a graphic designer, moving to New York City in 1976 to become a principal and creative director for a successful design firm. He relocated to Charlotte, NC in 1991, where his innovative graphic design style distinguished the world-renowned International Home Furnishing Center's promotional material for over 15 years. Perimeter Gallery, Jan. 12 - Feb. 1 - "I Saw You In My Dreams," featuring works by Emily Shelton. ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Rock Hill White Street Gallery, 130 West White Street, Rock Hill. On Permanent Display, until the material on which they are printed begins to deteriorate - "ALLEYS AS GALLERY'S". The Arts Council of York County implemented the Alleys as Galleries program with an exhibition in Cotton Alley on East Main St. in Rock Hill in 2018. This new project serves as the second Alleys as Galleries installation. Alleys as Galleries transforms York County, South Carolina's well-traveled alleys into art galleries that feature works by local and regional artists. Works by six York County high school students, Bruna Coelho, Luc Mercado, Paige Evans, Heather Lenti, Ashley Walsh, and Hunter Sigmond, were selected for a public art installation on the fence between Dust OFF Brewing Company and the Lowenstein Building along the Williams & Fudge fence line that faces White Street. Spartanburg

Throughout downtown Spartanburg, 3rd Thursday, from 5-8pm - "Spartanburg Art-Walk," a free self-guided tour through participating galleries across Spartanburg's Cultural District. Contact: visit (www.chapmanculturalcenter.org).

Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is that crosswalks are incredibly easy to overlook, they are rarely visually appealing, and they can even be quite dangerous. In an effort to remedy these issues, Chapman Cultural Center, the City of Spartanburg, and the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce came together to organize the Creative Crosswalk Project. For more info visit (<https://www.chapmanculturalcenter.org/pages/blog/detail/article/c0/a1555/>).

Work by Jackie Spohnholtz

Artists Collective I Spartanburg, 578 West Main St., Spartanburg. Galleries II and III, Jan. 9 - Feb. 3 - "Altered States," features works by 10 ACS members including: Dan Hazard, participating artists include Ken Bolton, Pat Cato, Judith Kolva, B. Collins, Monica Raquel, Petra Romero, Jackie Spohnholtz, Cassandra Stephens-Johnson and Skye Winter. An artists' talk is planned for Jan. 18, until 8pm at ACS as part of ArtWalk Spartanburg. The artists' works range from pottery to acrylic and oil painting, to photography and mosaics. "How is it that different people can have so many different takes on this world we share? By plunging into the depths of our experiences, we reveal ourselves and our unique visions of the place we all call home," says participating oil painting artist Dan Hazard, who is organizing the exhibit. "Visitors can expect to see beautiful paintings, and the textile art of mosaics and ceramics that represent how each of us sees the world around us. Solomon Gallery, Jan. 2 - Mar. 2 - "Chips Off the Old Block: A Retrospective of Roscoe Conn's Art". A reception will be held on Jan. 18, until 8pm, and an artist's talk is set for Feb. 15, both as part of ArtWalk Spartanburg. Upstate collage artist and teacher Roscoe Conn describes his artwork and art career as "chunks" of himself that do not fall far from his personality and approach to life. He will share himself and his collage and mixed media art in his solo exhibition. Conn says his "vision and spirit are evident in the collection's style, content and form. Ranging from meditations on politics and identity to landscapes of my environment, the exhibit showcases a consistent appreciation and appraisal of the things in life we often take for granted." Ongoing - The Collective features a twenty thousand square foot facility offering affordable studio space, retail space, three galleries, a full ceramics studio, printery, and works by 50 local artists. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm; with extended hours on the 3rd Thur. of each month until 9pm for Spartanburg's Art Walk. Contact: 864/804-6501 or at (artistscollectivespartanburg.org).

Beer and wine are available for those 21+. Ongoing - Works by Carl Tait and Harold Krisel are on display. Tait was a successful painter, textile designer, and interior designer. His ties to the Spartanburg community originate from his longtime employment at Milliken and Company. Tait was born in Old Town, Maine in 1917 and graduated from the New Hampshire Institute of Arts and Science. In the late 1940s, he moved to New York City where he designed an exclusive line of ladies' handkerchiefs for the department store B. Altman, now considered vintage, collectible items. He also became associated with the American Artist Group designing Christmas cards, an occupation which he kept up throughout the majority of his artistic career. Krisel was a distinguished artist, architect, and teacher as well as a loving father and husband. Though Krisel may not be a household name among Spartanburg residents, he has made a significant artistic contribution to the Spartanburg community. Born in Brooklyn, NY in 1920, Krisel's interest in art and design started at a young age. He attended the American Artist School in New York city as a teenager where he met renowned modern artists, including Piet Mondrian, who greatly influenced his abstract style. After studying architecture at the New Bauhaus in Chicago from 1946-1949, he received his graduate degree from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1952. The following year, he began working for architectural firm Skidmore, Owings and Merrill when Roger Milliken hired them to design Milliken's new research facility in Spartanburg. Upon realizing Krisel was also a sculptor, Milliken hired him to design the spray fountain outside of the facility which functions as a recycler of air conditioning water. He then went on to design the Trident Fountain located outside of the Papadopoulos building on Wofford College's campus. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-7pm & Sat, 9am-3pm. geoning artistic talent. Through Feb. 5 - "Beyond the Lens: Photorealist Perspectives on Looking, Seeing, and Painting". Throughout the history of painting from the mid-19th century forward, artists have used an endless variety of approaches to record their world. "Beyond the Lens: Photorealist Perspectives on Looking, Seeing, and Painting" continues this thread, offering an opportunity to explore a singular and still forceful aspect of American art. Photorealism shares many of the approaches of historical and modernist realism, with a twist. The use of the camera as a basic tool for organizing visual information in advance of painterly expression is now quite common, but Photorealists embraced the camera as the focal point in their creative process. "Beyond the Lens" presents key works from the collection of Louis K. and Susan Pear Meisel, bringing together paintings and works on paper dating from the 1970s to the present to focus on this profoundly influential art movement. The exhibition includes work by highly acclaimed formative artists of the movement such as Charles Bell, Robert Bechtle, Tom Blackwell, Richard Estes, Audrey Flack, and Ralph Goings as well as paintings by the successive generations of Photorealist artists Anthony Brunelli, Davis Cone, Bertrand Meniel, Rod Penner, and Raphaella Spence. Judith S. Moore Gallery, Through Apr. 15 - "Western North Carolina Glass," selections from the collection. Western North Carolina is important in the history of American glass art. Several artists of the Studio Glass Movement came to the region, including its founder Harvey K. Littleton. Begun in 1962 in Wisconsin, it was a student of Littleton's that first came to the area in 1965 and set up a glass studio at the Penland School of Craft in Penland, North Carolina. By 1967, Mark Peiser was the first glass artist resident at the school and taught many notable artists, like Jak Brewer in 1968 and Richard Ritter who came to study in 1971. By 1977, Littleton retired from teaching and moved to nearby Spruce Pine, North Carolina and set up a glass studio at his home. Since that time, glass artists like Ken Carder, Rick and Valerie Beck, Shane Fero, and Yaffa Sikorsky and Jeff Todd—to name only a few—have flocked to the area to reside, collaborate, and teach, making it a significant place for experimentation and education in glass. The next generation of artists like Hayden Wilson and Alex Bernstein continue to create here. Through Apr. 29 - "American Art in the Atomic Age: 1940–1960," which explores the groundbreaking contributions of artists who worked at the experimental printmaking studio Atelier 17 in the wake of World War II. Co-curated by Marilyn Laufer and Tom Butler, American Art in the Atomic Age which draws from the holdings of Dolan/Maxwell, the Asheville Art Museum Collection, and private collections. "We are delighted to partner with the Asheville Art Museum to present an exhibition that highlights the brilliance of the Atelier 17 studio and artists during the Atomic Age," says Ron Rumford, Director of Dolan/Maxwell. "Though challenged by the times, Atelier 17 preserved and pioneered a legacy in printmaking that still inspires." Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. Andy Oates, Vera Williams, ca. 1950. Collection of BMCMA+AC.

Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center, 120 College Street, Asheville. Through Jan. 6 - "Weaving at Black Mountain College: Anni Albers, Trude Guermonprez, and Their Students," is the first exhibition devoted to textile practices at Black Mountain College (BMC). Celebrating 90 years since the college's founding, the exhibition reveals how weaving was a more significant part of the College's legendary art and design curriculum than previously assumed. The weaving program was started in 1934 by Anni Albers and lasted until Black Mountain College closed in 1956. Despite Albers's elevated reputation, the persistent treatment of textile practices as women's work or handicraft has often led to the discipline being ignored or underrepresented in previous scholarship and exhibitions about the College; this exhibition brings that work into the spotlight at last. Jan. 26 - May 11 - "Vera B. Williams / STORIES Eight Decades of Politics and Picture Making". Vera B. Williams attended BMC from 1945-1950 when she became one of the few to formally graduate. She was a student of Josef Albers and had sculptor Richard Lippold as her outside examiner prior to graduation. She married architect Paul Williams at the college and, with him, co-founded the artists' co-op community called The Land in Stony Point, New York. Williams was an award-winning author and illustrator of children's books that often centered on diverse, working-class families, perhaps informed by her own childhood growing up during the Depression as the daughter of immigrants from Eastern Europe. Ongoing - An exhibition space dedicated to exploring the history and legacy of the world's most acclaimed experimental educational community, Black Mountain College. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-4pm or by appt. Contact: 828/350-8484 or at (www.blackmountaincollege.org).

Work by Janice MacDonald

Southern Highland Craft Guild at the Folk Art Center, Blue Ridge Parkway Milepost 382, Asheville. Main Gallery, Through Jan. 17 - "Embellishments". This exhibition features the work of fifty-one Guild members showcasing embellished work in a variety of craft media. The exhibition curator, Nikki Josheff, chooses a theme and title for each member show that opens at the Folk Art Center. "I thought Embellishments would be a fun theme for our members to explore. Member exhibition theme's are always open to interpretation by the maker. It adds another layer of fun to the theme. Our members hit this one out of the ballpark! This is one of my favorite exhibitions!" Josheff states. Permanent Collection Gallery, Ongoing - "Craft Traditions: The Southern Highland Craft Guild Collection". The Guild's Permanent Collection is comprised of approximately 2400 craft objects and dates from the late 19th century to present. Beginning with a donation from Frances Goodrich in 1931, the Permanent Collection serves the Guild's mission of craft conservation and education. This new installation will feature over 200 works that highlight our holdings in traditional art: woodcarving, pottery, dolls, basketry, weavings and furniture. The subject of this ongoing exhibition is craft history – that of the Southern Highland Craft Guild and the Studio Craft Movement. Wells Fargo of Asheville has donated Hardy Davidson's Carvings to the SHCG's Permanent Collection. Hailing from Swannanoa, NC, woodcarver Hardy Davidson became a Guild Member in 1944 and was awarded Life membership in 1973. Focus Gallery, Through Feb. 28 - "Creating Textures". Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Mayer Gallery, Through May 4 - "Revelation: Michael O'Neill". "Revelation" supports the mission of the Turchin Center to showcase creative responses to local, regional, and global climate change. All of O'Neill's ethereal landscapes were made in the South. The land bears the ongoing scarification of a deeply troubled history at the same time the photographs reveal the beauty of what yet may be lost if we do not find a more equitable way to care for the lands of which we are the current stewards. Hodges Gallery, Jan. 16 - June 1 - "Trophic Cascade: April Flanders". The web of life under the surface of aquatic ecosystems is exceedingly complex and devastatingly beautiful. impacts and huge changes wreak havoc. Remove a key predator, and prey takes over; add another predator, and the first one declines. With the rise of globalization, human mediated transfer mechanisms give rise to invasive species, overwhelming the delicate balance of aquatic ecosystems. These unintended ecological interventions cause Trophic Cascades, revealing nature's fragility. Invasion biology in marine environments is especially fraught. The eradication or management of invasive species on land, while economically and environmentally challenging, is possible. The successful management of these species underwater is nearly impossible. This exhibition addresses the causes and impacts of marine bio-invasaders on a global scale, conferring visibility to species normally unseen. Gallery A and Petti/Peiser Galleries, Through May 4 - "Considering Carbon: Kathleen Thum". The exhibition, Considering Carbon, consists of a series of drawings and cut-paper wall installations which explore the theme of fossil fuels, specifically oil and coal. In the exhibition, I use different visual and conceptual approaches to examine the physical, material qualities of coal and oil, as I aim to heighten an awareness of our disconnection and dependence on fossil fuels. Oil and coal are an integral part of our contemporary existence, yet remain mysterious, unknown substances, contained and controlled by the industry," says Thum. "Large-scale wall installation artworks in the exhibition consider the infrastructure of the pipeline system through a visual language of abstraction to communicate the vastness of the petroleum infrastructure. In these large cut-paper pieces, I evoke the visceral, sensory quality of the petroleum landscape by using scale, texture, surface, color and the non-traditional presentation of drawings to engage the body of the viewer," adds Thum. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-6pm; Fri., noon-8pm; & Sat., 10am-6pm. Contact: 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Ackland Art Museum, UNC - Chapel Hill, Columbia & Franklin Streets, Chapel Hill. Through Jan. 21 - "The Outwin: American Portraiture Today". Launched in 2006 to support the next wave of contemporary portraiture in the United States, the National Portrait Gallery's celebrated Outwin Boochever Portrait Competition is a major survey of the best of American portraiture. Held every three years, and now in its sixth edition, "The Outwin: American Portraiture Today" presents forty-two works - selected from over 2,700 entries - foregrounding the vibrancy and relevance of portraiture now. In addition to paintings, photographs, drawings, and sculptures, The Outwin includes video, performance art, and textiles, highlighting the seemingly limitless possibilities of contemporary portraiture. Through Feb. 18 - "Focus on the Peck Collection: Jo-Hannes Stradanus and The Hunt". Though Netherlandish artist Jan van der Straet, better known as Johannes Stradanus, spent the majority of his career in Italy, a high percentage of his artistic output was made for print publishers in the northern European city of Antwerp. In addition to making designs for religious, historical, and allegorical scenes, Stradanus also made images of the hunt. With his long-time collaborator, the prolific print publisher Philips Galle (Dutch, 1537-1612), Stradanus created a series of 104 compositions illustrating the various hunting methods of specific animals, which were then published as engravings. This "Focus on the Peck Collection" installation presents one drawing of a fox hunt from the Peck Collection and two engravings of boar hunts after Stradanus's designs. The drawing, though not preparatory for the accompanying engravings, demonstrates how the artist's distinctive and highly descriptive compositions were translated by northern European engravers into extremely successful prints for the market. Through July 21 - "Pantheress," by Georgie Nakima. "Pantheress" is a site-specific installation by Charlotte, NC-based artist Georgie Nakima. Her vibrant and multi-layered painting highlights the complexities of the Black American experience and the indomitable resilience of the Diaspora. Featuring spray paint on cut wood with custom-printed wallpaper, the central focus of this work challenges the conventions of classical portraiture by leaning into the world of the abstract motifs and visual aphorisms that surround her subject. The title of the piece, Pantheress, is a tribute to the instrumental work of the women of the Black Panther movement. The work, featuring timeless geometric and natural forms, can be seen as both a product of this past and a harbinger for a hopeful future. Permanent Collection Galleries, Through Dec. 31, 2025 - At any one time, there are about 250 works of art from the Ackland's distinguished permanent collection on view. The displays cover many eras and cultures, including most of the Museum's collection areas: the Ancient Mediterranean, Africa, Asia, the Americas, and Europe. Occasional galleries present small selections of prints, drawings, photographs, and other light-sensitive works. You can search our online collection database and filter by works on view. Try saving your own collection of objects using the new "favorites" function! Museum Store Gallery (Franklin and Columbia Street), Store hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5:30pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Charlotte Area

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Third Fourth Floor Gallery, Through Jan. 21 - "Teresa Hubbard / Alexander Birchler: Flora." Teresa Hubbard / Alexander Birchler: Flora features the Swiss American duo's multimedia project based on their discoveries about the previously unknown American artist Flora Mayo. Hubbard / Birchler have been working collaboratively since 1990, employing video, sound, photography, and other mediums to explore connections between history, memory, social relationships, and narratives both factual and imagined. Flora and the accompanying work "Bust" (both 2017) spotlight the life of Flora Mayo, who in the 1920s studied alongside Swiss sculptor Alberto Giacometti at the Académie de la Grande Chaumière in Paris, and with whom she had a romantic relationship. Fourth Floor Gallery, Through Jan. 21 - "Giacometti and the Artists of the Grande Chaumière." Assembled from the Bechtler Museum's permanent collection, this installation is conceived as a pendant to the exhibition Teresa Hubbard / Alexander Birchler: Flora, and will feature work by an international array of artists who studied or taught at the Académie de la Grande Chaumière in Paris during the early 20th century. The famed art school was a gathering place for many avant-garde artists—including Alberto Giacometti and Flora Mayo—who sought to break away from academic conventions and experiment with new forms of expression. This focused exhibition invites viewers to explore a diverse range of work by artists associated with the Grande Chaumière, conveying the influences, dialogues, and creative exchange that took place between them. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Cato Campus, Cato III, 8120 Grier Road, Charlotte. Jan. 1 - May 7 - "Archival Photos Reimagined," featuring works by Central Piedmont Students and Staff. In a joint effort between the Central Piedmont Archives and Art Galleries, students and staff came together to recreate photographs from the Central Piedmont Archives. Using the photographs as inspiration, each participant artistically reimagined a selected photograph using any media of their choice. The Gorelick Galleries will exhibit this collection of works on Cato, Levine and Central Campuses as part of a traveling exhibition series. With an emphasis on College history and student engagement the exhibition celebrates the some of the best moments in the College's history and in turn shines the spotlight back on students. May 13- July 26 - "Fragments," featuring works by Tina Alberni. Alberni derives this series of work from impact of climate change and the harm created by aspects of technological development and progress. With a deep belief that all living things possess and intrinsic value and not simply human beings, Alberni challenges the viewer to consider topics such as how natural disasters, war and social disparity contribute to the endangerment and physical displacement of all living things. Alberni uses her new exhibition 'Fragments' to illustrate the narrative of fragmented lives and irreversible damage both visually and physically. In contrast to the hopeless narrative of destruction, Alberni seeks to use her artwork to create a positive, hopeful spirit for the future. Alberni assembles objects and layers in her work in a brightly colored, harmonious fashion, which invites the viewer in for a deeper contemplation of each composition. Alberni's work will be on display at Central Piedmont for 2024 and will be part of the Gorelick Gallery's traveling artwork series. Aug. 5 - Dec. 31 - "Intangible Words," featuring works by Marge Loudon Moody. Moody is a Professor Emerita of Winthrop University in Rock Hill, SC where she taught for over 30 years. Widely exhibited both nationally and internationally Moody's work exists in private and public collections worldwide. "Intangible Words" broadly investigates environments inspired by Moody's travels and imaginations. Through the use of bright colors, abstract forms and continuous reworking of the composition, Moody creates the "essential" feeling of certain environments. Non-representational imagery utilizes the "essential" nature in order to illuminate the unseen or intangible spirit of the subject. "Subject matter may serve as metaphor for intangible ideas. The work examines boundaries, addresses the fragility of existence, of presence, of absence, and of memory," says Moody. Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Harper Campus, Harper IV, 315 W. Hebron St., Charlotte. Through Dec. 31 - "A Journey Through Life", featuring works by Jodi Lynn McNeely. This series has been several years in the making. As you inspect each piece of work, look for the 'path'. It represents our journey. We all are on our own journey, have our own story. As I talk to folks about their stories, I'm amazed at how similar our experiences can be. Our life events, whether the same or different can cultivate preparedness in each of us in much the same way. Note that each individual person carved into my works of art is either touching the path or connected to someone who is. If they are extremely close, they share a hand or foot. Staying connected to someone is critical in this thing called life. As I travel through life, I am constantly reminded at how important being connected is. This is especially relevant during the rough times. Establishing strong relationships for me has been an essential part of my journey. I often carve the likeness of folks I know or have met on my journey into my work. Do you see yourself? I am constantly reminded of how important the people around me are. My life has been full of heart break, pure joy and everything in between. Sound familiar? I am determined to learn from the heart break, remember the pure joy and live everything in between to the fullest. Work by Sheridan Hathaway

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Harris Campus, Harris II, 3210 CPCC Harris Campus Drive, Charlotte. Jan. 8 - Dec. 31 - "A Celebration of Art," featuring works by: Mario Loprete, Sheridan Hathaway and Andres Palacios. The Bill and Patty Gorelick Galleries will open a new exhibition at Harris Conference Center featuring the best of the College's permanent art collection alongside featured artists Mario Loprete, Sheridan Hathaway and Andres Palacios. Works from the College's collection exhibit a variety of works from former Central Piedmont students with a special highlight on Loprete, a mixed media artist, and ceramic artists Hathaway and Palacios. "A Celebration of Art" is certain to deliver a diverse selection of 2D and 3D artwork for the 2024 year. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservations help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Contact: 704/330-6869 or e-mail to (foundation@cpcc.edu) to schedule an appointment. For directions to Central Piedmont's campuses, visit (cpcc.edu/locations).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Levine Campus, Levine II, 2800 Campus Ridge Road, Matthews. Jan. 1 - May - "Intangible Words," featuring works by Marge Loudon Moody. Moody is a Professor Emerita of Winthrop University in Rock Hill, SC where she taught for over 30 years. Widely exhibited both nationally and internationally Moody's work exists in private and public collections worldwide. "Intangible Words" broadly investigates environments inspired by Moody's travels and imaginations. Through the use of bright colors, abstract forms and continuous reworking of the composition, Moody creates the "essential" feeling of certain environments. Non-representational imagery utilizes the "essential" nature in order to illuminate the unseen or intangible spirit of the subject. "Subject matter may serve as metaphor for intangible ideas. The work examines boundaries, addresses the fragility of existence, of presence, of absence, and of memory," says Moody. Moody will also serve as this year's Juror for Central Piedmont's "2024 Annual Juried Student Art Show". May 13 - July 26 - "Archival Photos Reimagined," featuring works by Central Piedmont Students and Staff. In a joint effort between the Central Piedmont Archives and Art Galleries, students and staff came together to recreate photographs from the Central Piedmont Archives. Using the photographs as inspiration, each participant artistically reimagined a selected photograph using any media of their choice. The Gorelick Galleries will exhibit this collection of works on Cato, Levine and Central Campuses as part of a traveling exhibition series. With an emphasis on College history and student engagement the exhibition celebrates the some of the best moments in the College's history and in turn shines the spotlight back on students. Aug. 5 - Dec. 31 - "Fragments," featuring works by Tina Alberni. Alberni derives this series of work from impact of climate change and the harm created by aspects of technological development and progress. With a deep belief that all living things possess and intrinsic value and not simply human beings, Alberni challenges the viewer to consider topics such as how natural disasters, war and social disparity contribute to the endangerment and physical displacement of all living things. Alberni uses her new exhibition 'Fragments' to illustrate the narrative of fragmented lives and irreversible damage both visually and physically. In contrast to the hopeless narrative of destruction, Alberni seeks to use her artwork to create a positive, hopeful spirit for the future. Alberni assembles objects and layers in her work in a brightly colored, harmonious fashion, which invites the viewer in for a deeper contemplation of each composition. Alberni's work will be on display at Central Piedmont for 2024 and will be part of the Gorelick Gallery's traveling artwork series. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservations help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Contact: 704/330-6869 or e-mail to (foundation@cpcc.edu) to schedule an appointment. For directions to Central Piedmont's campuses, visit (cpcc.edu/locations).

Kennedi Carter, "Ridin Sucka Free I," 2019, Courtesy of the artist and ROSE GALLERY, Santa Monica, California

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Jan. 15 - "my Presence is Present: interpretations of afrosurrealism from the American South," is an exhibition that navigates through surreal African-American experiences as told by 20 emerging and established contemporary artists in and around the Carolinas. Each participating artist purposefully creates work in response to our inherent memories and identities of growing up and living in the American South. "As curator of this exhibition, I asked local Charlotte artist DaRemen J. about the state of his current video works. His response, 'everything right now is about me being Black and just existing.' A rather surreal perspective when you think about it in a present-day context. Are we simply existing or continuing to create new spaces where we can still exist? If so, what do those brave new worlds look like and at what point do they become surreal, leading us on a journey to new visual interpretations of how we live and view our Black lives?" Through Jan. 15 - "Kennedi Carter: Sight Unseen". Born and raised in Durham, NC, Kennedi Carter has garnered international acclaim through her portraits of "overlooked beauties of the Black experience: skin, texture, trauma, peace, love and community." Defined as "without inspection or appraisal," Carter's work exemplifies the phrase "sight unseen." Her images approach and depict moments without judgement or preconceived notions of what constitutes memorable or worthy. The exhibition draws on Carter's ability to capture the "unseen" — moments often overlooked or invisible to society. Featuring a number of new works, the exhibition demonstrates the breadth of Carter's vision and provides a glimpse into the personal worlds she photographs. Through May 12 - "Post-Traumatism : In Search of Freedom". In this exhibition, eight large-scale abstract paintings take center stage, adorned with visceral and emotive gestures that lay bare the raw intensity of trauma and triumph. Alston's brushstrokes dance between chaos and order, unveiling the inner conflict between pain and the unyielding desire for freedom. These canvases become the battleground where the artist wrestles with concepts of trauma, seeking to transmute them into powerful symbols of resilience and hope. "Post-Traumatism: In Search of Freedom" seeks to illuminate the profound interconnectedness of human existence and the universality of our struggle for emancipation. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Thur. - Sat., noon-6pm & Sun., noon-6pm. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Lake Norman Art League Gallery, 442 S. Main St., located across the street from Wooden Stone, next to Masterworks; enter at the rear of the building, and turn right into the lobby, Davidson. Ongoing - Featuring works by Lake Norman Art League members. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-7pm. Contact: 704/620-4450 or at (www.LKNart.org).

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa), 1429 Bryant Street, in the heart of the revitalized FreeMoreWest neighborhood, Charlotte. Ongoing - LaCa Projects is a platform dedicated to the presentation, development, and promotion of Latin American art and culture within the United States. The gallery encourages cross-cultural dialogue by representing a small group of influential and thought-provoking contemporary, emerging and mid-career artists, as well as exhibiting a broader range of work by established and Master Latin American artists. The gallery, which has expertise in a number of different art media with a significant focus on paintings, will also be part of a larger planned expansion that includes open artist studios and a dining concept. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 1-5pm or by appt. Contact: Neely Verano at (neely@lacaprojects.com) or call 704/609-8487.

Work by Doris Kapner

McCull Center for Art + Innovation, 721 North Tryon Street, Charlotte. Through Jan. 21 - "A GRIMM TALE," featuring works by Doris Kapner. Follow Doris Kapner as she summons the original stories of brothers Jacob and Wilhelm Grimm through her singular ceramics and prints. A Grimm Tale forms a visual account of "The Twelve Brothers," "Little Red Riding Hood," "The Frog King," "Cinderella," "Snow White," "Hansel and Gretel," "The Juniper Tree," and "Rapunzel." The cornerstone of modern-day fairytales will be made visual through ceramics, prints, and a three-dimensional vanitas still-life to delight and beguile the senses. As the daughter of German immigrants Kapner works from what is familiar and what is culturally significant to her. The stories of the Grimm brothers are important, as each recalls memories of her childhood. Hours: Call about visiting. Contact: 704/332-5535 or at (www.mccollcenter.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Through Jan. 21 - "Walter Scott Lenox & American Belleek". Featuring 80 works from the Mint's permanent collection, as well as other notable public and private collections, this exhibition focuses solely on the earliest decades of American Belleek production and the role Walter Scott Lenox played in its development as an art form. Curated by Brian Gallagher, the Mint's senior curator of decorative arts, The Mint Museum is the exhibition's only venue. In 1857, McBirney and Company in the village of Belleek in County Fermanagh, Northern Ireland, began producing a new type of porcelain renowned for its light, delicately thin, ivory-colored body. Named for the town in which it was created, Belleek porcelain quickly became prized among discerning customers in the British Isles. As its popularity then spread across the Atlantic, several American ceramic manufactories in Trenton, New Jersey, sought to make their own version of Belleek. In 1882, Ott and Brewer became the first to succeed. Ongoing - "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". From crocks, jars, and jugs to pitchers, candleholders, and vases, "turning pots" is one of the oldest and richest craft traditions in North Carolina. For more than 200 years, members of the Cole family have been potting in central North Carolina — Randolph, Moore, Lee, and Montgomery counties. Six generations of Coles, and no fewer than 18 individuals, are represented in The Mint Museum's permanent collection. More than 60 highlights of their wares are included in the installation "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". One reason for its long-term success is that making pottery has so often been a family tradition in the state. Fathers taught the art of forming, glazing, and firing clay objects to their sons, and in later generations also to daughters, who in turn taught their children, and so on through the decades. These family dynasties not only helped to keep the potting craft alive, but ensured continuity in techniques and craftsmanship, as well as introduced artistic innovations in succeeding generations. "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters" presents a visual history of "turned pots" and the family that helped turn North Carolina into one of America's centers for handmade, traditional pottery. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their wares to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Kehinde Wiley x MTV VMAs Moon Person

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Feb. 18 - "Beyond the Red Carpet". An immersive installation spotlighting the artistic and artisanal aspects of more than 150 luxury awards created by Society Awards. As the exclusive creator of some of the most celebrated awards, including the American Music Award, Golden Globe, and Juno, Society Awards presents this unprecedented exhibition that offers a glimpse of some of the most renowned and widely televised awards in history. See the meticulous designs of more than 150 custom-sculptured awards - many of which are recognized as cultural symbols and pop art icons. Through Feb. 25 - "The Art of Seating: 200 Years of American Design". The exhibition, drawn from the rich holdings of the Thomas H. and Diane DeMell Jacobsen Ph.D. Foundation provides a rare opportunity to survey the history of American craftsmanship and ingenuity, seen through the lens of seating furniture. Featuring many of the most iconic designs and designers from the past two centuries, "The Art of Seating" encourages visitors to reconsider objects that are ubiquitous and often overlooked part of our everyday lives, seeing chairs as not just functional objects, but as works of art in their own right. At the same time, the objects in the exhibition also have stories to tell about the history of our country, ranging from the contributions of immigrants to changing tastes in style and aesthetics to new innovations in technology and materials. More than forty examples of seating furniture from the Thomas H. and Diane DeMell Jacobsen Ph.D. Foundation are included in the exhibition and offer a stylistic journey from the early 1800s to the twenty-first century. Through Mar. 3 - "Ajané K. Williams: Sublimations of Spacetime". Ajané K. Williams' art is out of this world. Her artist's statement reveals that she "came to Planet Earth ... to show humanity how to find their higher self and travel to the edge of infinity using the power of our own consciousness." Naturally curious, Williams immerses herself in the unfamiliar. The self-described "space and time traveler" is a DJ (DJ Nebula), video artist, and Afrofuturist painter. She sees Afrofuturism as "a cultural aesthetic that combines African American culture with futuristic, innovative ideas." She finds working in the genre therapeutic and her work is garnering national attention. It was part of the "Black Creativity Juried Art Exhibition" at the Chicago Science and Industry Museum. Through May 5 - "Craft Across Continents | Contemporary Japanese and Western Objects: The Lassiter/Ferraro Collection". The exhibition features more than 50 objects from the private collection of Lorne Lassiter and Gary Ferraro. Lassiter and Ferraro say they collect for the fun of it - visiting artists' studios, art fairs, galleries and museums here and abroad - but they are serious-minded collectors with a deep knowledge of contemporary craft. The exhibition will be presented in a domestic-like setting to underscore the theme of enjoying life through living with art. The exhibition will include glass, ceramics, bamboo, and textile contemporary objects by artists from around the globe, including masterworks of glass sculpture from the Czech Republic, a seminal installation by Danish maker

Tobias Möhl, and a mobile by Polish-trained artist Anna Skibska, and spectacular large glazed ceramic vessel by British maker Gareth Mason. Twenty-first century Japanese bamboo works by leading practitioners and innovative wood-fired ceramics also are highlights of the collection. Craft + Design Galleries, Ongoing - "Craft in the Laboratory: The Science of Making Things," is the first installation in the Southeast to explore how craft artists and designers use science and math concepts when creating works of art. Presented by Müller Corporation, Craft in the Laboratory also celebrates a reinstallation of the Mint's Craft + Design Galleries—the first since 2010. Co-curated by the Mint's Senior Curator of Craft, Design, and Fashion Annie Carlano and Assistant Curator for Craft, Design, and Fashion Rebecca Elliot, "Craft in the Laboratory" includes 100 works from the Mint's collection that are made from precious metals, wood, steel, polymers, and even agricultural waste, that emphasize the preciseness of science used to craft works of art. Made by nationally and internationally renowned artists, the objects are organized by material and subject throughout the galleries. Now - The Mint Museum's new four-story installation "Foragers" offers a transcendent experience while celebrating the tradition of women as makers and providers. Unlike anything ever seen at The Mint Museum before, Brooklyn-based artist Summer Wheat's "Foragers" is a monumental piece of public work of art spanning 96 windows, four stories, and 3,720 square feet at Mint Museum Uptown's Robert Haywood Morrison Atrium. The myriad of vibrant panels that give the illusion of stained glass and celebrates the tradition of women as makers and providers. "Foragers" is part of a larger exhibition "In Vivid Color," which brings together four innovative contemporary artists—Wheat, Gisela Colon, Spencer Finch, and Jennifer Steinkamp—who create works celebrating the power of color and its ability to permeate the space around us. Their work is juxtaposed with a selection of paintings and works on paper, drawn primarily from The Mint Museum's permanent collection, which showcase artists' more traditional exploration of color. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Now Fri. till 9pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Pauline Dove Art Gallery, Central Piedmont Community College, located inside the college's new Parr Center, Charlotte. Jan. 8 - Mar. 15 - "Land/mark," featuring works by Kenny Nguyen. Central Piedmont's Dove Gallery will host a new exhibition by esteemed Vietnamese artist, Kenny Nguyen. Born in Vietnam, and with a background in fashion design, Nguyen exhibits his work across the US and internationally. As a Vietnamese immigrant now living and working as an artist in the United States, much of Nguyen's work explores ideas related to cultural identity, displacement, reconciling with the past and the artistic fusion of Vietnamese and American cultures. Nguyen uses silk, in tribute to his Vietnamese culture, deconstructs it into strips, and then dips it in paint. Thousands of these strips creates sculptural works of art that Nguyen calls "deconstructed paintings." Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-4pm or by appt. The Museum of the Cherokee People, 589 Tsali Boulevard, Cherokee. Ongoing - Welcome to a sweeping history of the Cherokee Nation, engaging and oftentimes heart-rending, from ice age beginnings to present-day life and culture. In the brushstrokes of this fascinating heritage, you'll discover the warp and weft of treaties, the roots of a naturalistic language, artifacts of particular periods, great figures and heroes and entrancing stories of a civilization along with the Cherokee's distinctive values and ways of being in the world before and after "the Trail of Tears." The museum offers courses and workshops that combine scholarly content with voices of Cherokee people and experiences on the Qualla Boundary. A perfect place to begin exploration of Cherokee heritage and traditions is the Museum of the Cherokee Indian in Cherokee, North Carolina. Visitors are greeted at the entrance by a 20-foot hand-carved statue of Sequoyah, the inventor of the Cherokee alphabet. An interpretive site for the Trail of Tears National Historic Trail, this state-of-the-art facility traces the story of the Cherokee from the earliest inhabitants of the area 11,000 years ago to the present. An extensive exhibit of artifacts and photos is enhanced with computer-generated holograms and other imagery, sound, and special effects that leave a lasting and haunting impression on the visitor. The museum gift shop is rich in Cherokee tradition. Locally created baskets, pottery, wood carvings, decorated gourds and beadwork are among the art available for sale. Books on Cherokee history, culture, language, and genealogy line the shelves, along with audio CDs and tapes by local musicians and storytellers. Admission: Yes. Hours: Daily, 9am-5pm; closed New Years Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day. Contact: 828-497-3481 or at (<https://mci.org>).

The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Through Jan. 7 - "Lyle Ashton Harris: Our first and last love". Drawing together photographs and installations from both his celebrated and lesser-known series, "Lyle Ashton Harris: Our first and last love" charts new connections across the artistic practice of Lyle Ashton Harris (b. 1965, Bronx, NY). The exhibition explores Harris's critical examination of identity and self-portraiture while tracing central themes and formal approaches in his work of the last 35 years. The artist's recently-completed "Shadow Works" anchor the exhibition. In these meticulous constructions, photographic prints are set within geometric frames of stretched Ghanaian funerary textiles, along with shells, shards of pottery, and cuttings of the artist's own hair. Our first and last love follows the cues of the "Shadow Works" collaged and pictured elements - which include earlier artworks and reference materials, personal snapshots, and handwritten notes - to shed light on Harris's layered approach to his practice. Through Feb. 18 - "Love & Anarchy". On the surface, love and anarchy may seem like unrelated or even conflicting notions. Love is synonymous with care, compassion, and affection, while anarchy is generally accepted as an absence of authority, a state of disorder, or an ungovernable condition. These concepts, more than tangentially related, are often intertwined and even sometimes mutually dependent. Indeed, moments of disarray and frustration are intrinsic to love, while love sometimes emerges out of disorder and chaos. Drawn from the Nasher Museum's extensive historical and contemporary collections, "Love & Anarchy" demonstrates some of the ways in which these two concepts have inspired artists, visually and conceptually, over millennia. Love has been a subject in art for eternity. In antiquity, Aphrodite, goddess of beauty and love, and her offspring, Eros, repeatedly appeared in painting, sculpture, and pottery. From an ancient Greek depiction of the goddess to a 12th century sculpture of the Virgin enthroned to Marc Quinn's 21st century rendering of animal carcasses in Mother and Child, Aphrodite's image resonates across eons. Contemporary depictions of love reveal recognizable poses, gestures, or touch as in Zanele Muholi's photograph, "Katlego Mashiloane" and Nosipho Lavuta, "Ext. 2, Lakeside, Johannesburg". Ongoing - The Collection Galleries feature rotating installations of the Nasher Museum's extensive holdings of historical art. Eight galleries, as well as the entrance to Wilson Pavilion, are dedicated to the museum's strengths, which represent a brief history of human creativity from different times and parts of the world. Just beyond the entrance, visitors will find the Incubator, a flexible space for rotating student- and faculty-curated exhibitions. Visitors are invited to return again and again to The Collection Galleries, where Nasher curators continue to refresh the galleries with gems from the collection. The museum's contemporary collection is showcased through rotating exhibitions within a separate pavilion. Works from the contemporary collection create new conversations and connections among historical works in The Collection Galleries. A breakthrough work by New York artist Fred Wilson from 1990, Colonial Collection, anchors the Arts of Africa Gallery. A painting by Kehinde Wiley is on view in the European Art Gallery. Ongoing - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/684-5135 or at (www.nasher.duke.edu).

"Knots and Snakes" (1982) by Elizabeth Talford Scott was reframed by the Weatherspoon's preparators in 2023 to be included in the installation of Making Room: Familiar Art, New Stories. The exhibition highlights 43 works from the museum's collection and is on view through April 2024.

Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. 1st Floor: The Leah Louise B. Tannenbaum Gallery/Space for Engagement, Jan. 20 - May 24 - "Lalla Essaydi | Falk Visiting Artist". An Artist Talk, "Lalla Essaydi" will be offered on Apr. 4, from 4:30-5:30pm. Artist Lalla Essaydi grew up in Morocco, studied in France, raised her children in Saudi Arabia, and now lives in the United States. Her art draws upon these varied cultural contexts and personal experiences to address the complex realities of contemporary Arab female lives. Essaydi often returns to the domestic spaces of her Moroccan girlhood, looking back on them as an adult woman caught somewhere between past and present. She also explores art history, and especially the 19th-century European and

American painting tradition known as Orientalism, which produced fantasized images of Middle Eastern and North African locations and people. This exhibition features work from three of Essaydi's compelling photographic series in which she grapples with Orientalism and the ways it contributed to misconceptions about Arab women, as well as what it means today. 2nd Floor: The Bob & Lissa Shelley McDowell Gallery, Through Apr. 6 - "Art on Paper 2023: The 47th Exhibition". The Weatherspoon is pleased to announce the 47th presentation of "Art on Paper". A time-honored museum tradition, the exhibition features the work of artists who demonstrate the breadth of ways in which one can deploy the humble medium of paper to extraordinary ends. From layering colorful strips as one might on a piñata, to precisely cutting through an elongated page until its image appears as if made by lace, to densely coating giant sheets with shellac and walnut ink until they appear as weighty as stone, these artists harness the seemingly infinite ability of paper to take on myriad forms. Simultaneously, they use those forms to explore a rich array of topics—from the links and tensions between humans and the natural environment, to the beauty found in the often overlooked materials of our daily lives, to the complexity of heritage tracked across centuries of global migrations. 1st Floor: Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Gallery and Sculpture Courtyard, 2nd Floor: The Gregory D. Ivy Gallery, Weatherspoon Guild Gallery, and Gallery 6, Through Spring 2024 - "Making Room: Familiar Art, New Stories". How might the Weatherspoon better engage with museum participants to share fuller and more inclusive stories of American art? This question sparked an eighteen-month-long curatorial and programming project starting in January 2022. We've been listening to people as they share what matters to them in the museum, and we've created this installation of the museum's art collection based on what we learned. "Making Room: Familiar Art, New Stories" presents 43 artworks (see cover for a few selections) from the Weatherspoon's collection of more than 6,500. Each was chosen in response to what more than 4,000 community members told us they care about. These visitor responses—which ranged from poems to doodles to personal statements—were gathered in multiple ways. Within the Inquiry Hubs, for example, the visitor engagement team coordinated pop-up gallery performances and facilitated collection-based inquiry and play. Weather-spoon Atrium Mural, Ongoing - "Pause and Breathe, We Got This," a mural by Sheena Rose. A homecoming is in the works. The Weatherspoon is excited to announce its commission of a major new artwork by artist Sheena Rose, MFA '16. A multidisciplinary artist working in animation, drawing, painting, and performance, Rose's vibrant and energetic work is at once anchored in her Caribbean heritage and expansive in its explorations of culture and human experience. Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otterness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Wed. & Fri.-Sat., from 10am-5pm and Thur., 10am-8pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (<http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu/>).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Greensboro Creative Aging Network-NC (CAN-NC), 2400 Summit Ave., Greensboro. Ongoing - The mission of the Creative Aging Network-NC (CAN-NC) is to provide innovative arts programming and education to enhance the well-being and social connection among older adults throughout North Carolina. The CAN-NC campus, located just 3 miles from downtown Greensboro, NC, serves as a site for intergenerational and multicultural engagement, collaboration and education. Hours: call for regular hours. Contact: 336/303-9963 or at (<https://can-nc.org/events>).

Greenville

Throughout Greenville, Through Feb. 2024 - "DownEast Sculpture Exhibition," featuring the 17th annual exhibition. Featuring sculptures by Hanna Jurban, Jim Gallucci, Chris Plaisted, Joe Chirchirillo, Jonathan Bowling, Matt Amante, David Skora, Jeff Repko, Jodi Wyse, Peter Dellert, Mary Angers, Adam Walls, Kirk Seese, Jessica Bradsher, Christian Happell. This year's juror was D. Lance Vickery. Vickery was raised in Florida. Early, as an aspiring two-dimensional artist, deeply rooted in formalism, Lance attended Florida State University, where he met Charles Hook. Hook changed Lance's perception of art and sculpture. Hook held the position that all "Sculpture is real, all painting and photography, no matter how realistic is abstract. Two-dimensional work always requires the viewer to imagine the third dimension." Vickery is currently an Assistant Professor at the University of North Florida and President of the International Conference for Contemporary Cast Iron Art [ICCCIA]. Hours: 24/7. Contact: 252/551-6947 or at (www.emergegallery.com).

Emerge Gallery & Art Center, 404 S. Evans St., Greenville. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of media by students, faculty, alumni (East Carolina University) and local artists. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-9pm; Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 252/551-6947 or at (www.emergegallery.com).

Greenville Museum of Art, 802 South Evans Street, Greenville. West Wing & Commons Gallery, Through Feb. 24 - "Marauders," a three-person exhibition featuring original art by Antoine Williams, Donté K. Hayes, and Johannes Barfield. Through a range of media including ceramics, audio/visual installations, wheat paste murals, and collages, along with historical African artworks and artifacts from East Carolina University's Gray Gallery collection, Marauders explores themes of history, memory, ancestry, and futurism. Williams, Hayes, and Barfield's processes each involve deconstructing concepts and materials from personal and cultural archives as they construct narratives related to the African Diaspora. Creating new intertwined futures as they retrieve, conjure, and manifest the heirlooms they never received, their work combats deculturation and celebrates a new era of cultural reclamation. This exhibition is presented in conjunction with the East Carolina University School of Art and Design and College of Fine Arts and Communication. The Francis Speight and Sarah Blakeslee Gallery, Ongoing - Is dedicated to the work of these two artists. Speight was born in Bertie County, North Carolina, and moved back to Greenville to teach at East Carolina University after spending a majority of his career at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Blakeslee was born in Illinois and met Speight at the Academy as a student. The couple lived outside of Philadelphia until moving to Greenville in 1961. The Kenneth Noland Gallery, Ongoing - Celebrates the art and legacy of Black Mountain College, an innovative liberal arts college that operated between 1933 and 1957. Kenneth Noland, born in Asheville in 1924, attended Black Mountain College on the G. I. Bill from 1946 to 1948. He studied under Josef Albers and Ilya Bolotowsky, who introduced him to the work of artists interested in geometry and color. The Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation Gallery, Ongoing - Features rotating works purchased for the Museum by the foundation. Rachel Maxwell Moore was a leading civic figure and arts advocate in Greenville, and was central to the founding of the Museum's predecessor in 1939. She established the Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation in 1963, and before she passed away in 1964, bequeathed funds to the foundation for the sole purpose of purchasing works of art for the Museum's permanent collection. Ongoing - GMAA has a strong collection of North Carolina pottery, and especially from Jugtown Pottery in Seagrove, North Carolina. Jugtown Pottery was opened by Jacques and Juliana Busbee in 1921. They were influential at Jugtown and elsewhere in Seagrove by introducing local North Carolina potters to international ceramic styles and glazes. Much of our pottery collection was given to the Museum by Mrs. Lindsay Savage in 1948 and Dr. James H. Stewart in the 1980s. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10-4:30pm. Contact: 252/758-1946 or at (www.gmoa.org).

Highlands

The Bascom, a center for the visual arts, 323 Franklin Rd., covered bridge entrance at the end of Main Street, Highlands. Joel Gallery, Through Jan. 20 - "River Nest Project". This collaborative piece by LIVLAB artists, Morgan Kennedy and Kevin Kirkpatrick, weaves object making, water-way exploration, and sound, with romantic literary impressions of Western North Carolina. The project was inspired by a passage from the book Thirteen Moons by novelist Charles Frazier in which he describes a local mountain medicine, which is made from "River Nests." Bunzl Gallery, Through Jan. 6 - "Listening to the Land: Reimagining the Bartram Trail". Listening to the Land is a nine-month photography exploration of the Bartram Trail near Highlands, NC. Influenced by the legacy of William Bartram, photographers of all levels have been invited to enter an intimate world where the landscape is alive and waiting to be met, understood, and loved. Through workshops and online conversations, photographers have cultivated a faithful conversation with the land that explores the rich biodiversity of place while honoring each photographer's unique way of seeing and responding to the land. Education Gallery, Ongoing - The Bascom offers our students and instructors an opportunity to display their creative works from workshops and classes. The perspectives of these talented individuals reveal self-expression, cultural awareness and technical discipline. These ongoing displays expose the viewer to the analysis, invention, exploration and decision making processes used by students during the development of ideas into a work of art. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm. Contact: 828/526-4949 or at (www.thebascom.org).

High Point

The Art Gallery at Congdon Yards (formerly Theatre Art Galleries), 400 West English Road, Suite 151, High Point. Through Jan. 12 - "Stolen Stories," featuring works by Jean Cauthen. Cauthen grew up in Naples, Italy, New Orleans and the Carolinas. She completed her education with an MFA (Painting and Drawing) at James Madison University in Virginia. Her art career has led her to Moscow, Russia as a set designer and she regularly returns to Italy, France, and Ireland

(often leading painting workshops). She was awarded a residency at Chateaux Orquevaux in September 2019. When not working plein-air, she creates large-scale paintings in her studio, Dilworth Artisan Station in Charlotte, NC. Ongoing - The over 11,000-square-foot gallery includes a large exhibit space, three state-of-the-art classrooms, a hands-on children's area and a gift shop. Hands-on instruction in a wide variety of media will be offered including acrylic and oil painting, watercolor, collage, drawing, ceramics, glass fusion and light metal working classes. Mount Airy

Mount Airy Museum of Regional History, 301 North Main Street, Mount Airy. Ongoing - Ours is an all American story - typical of how communities grew up all across our great nation. While our story takes place in the back country of northwestern North Carolina at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains, it is likely to bear many similarities to the development of crossroads, towns, and cities throughout America. It had taken little more than 100 years for the corridors along the coastline of this still-new continent to overflow. As tensions grew and conflicts flared, the pioneer spirit set in. Families literally packed up everything they owned and headed into the unknown-searching for the "promised land." Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 336/786-4478 or at (northcarolinamuseum.org).

Work by Gary Nemcosky

New Bern

Bank of the Arts, Craven Arts Council, 317 Middle Street, New Bern. Main Gallery, Through Jan. 31, 2024 - "Joy in the Ordinary". This exhibition features work by several different local artists. During the holiday season, we often hear the words gratitude, joy, peace & light, yet we know that this time of year may not always be those things for all. "Joy in the Ordinary" seeks to remind ourselves and our community of the ways we experience glimmers of positivity and comfort every day of the year, not just during the holiday season. Multiple artists have submitted work in a variety of mediums, exploring finding joy in our daily lives. Director's Gallery, Through Jan. 31, 2024 - "Michael Rhinehardt". This exhibition features various work inspired by growing up and fatherhood. Rhinehardt is a lifelong resident of Carteret County. After graduating from East Carolina University with a BFA in Fine Arts, Rhinehardt returned to the Carteret County School system as an art teacher for the Down East area's three pre-kindergarten-8th grade schools. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact: 252/638-2577 or at (www.cravenarts.org).

Community Artists Gallery & Studios, Inc., 504 South Front Street, New Bern. Ongoing - We serve Craven, Pamlico, and Jones counties. Operated by member artists themselves on an exclusively volunteer basis, it's a great place to discover distinctive, affordable art for your home or office--or to find a truly unique gift. Visit our Gallery and Studios pages to see what's currently on exhibit--and on our easels! Community Artists Gallery & Studios supports working studio space for fifteen artists and exhibits nearly a dozen additional artists at any given time. Our members are engaged in creating jewelry, photography, weaving, found object art, sculpture, ceramics, digital art, watercolor, oil, baskets, stained glass, and acrylic paintings. Hours: Tue., Thur., Fri., & Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact: 252/571-8566 or visit (www.communityartistsgallery.org).

North Wilkesboro

Wilkes Art Gallery, 913 C. Street, North Wilkesboro. Main Gallery, Jan. 19 - Feb. 15 - "43rd Annual Blue Ridge Overview Photography Competition and Exhibition," juried by Benjamin Erlandson. A reception and awards ceremony will be held on Jan. 19, from 5:30-7:30pm. This year's juror will be Benjamin Erlandson. He combines natural light photography and timelapse to interpret natural and built landscapes across scales. By using various media modalities to explore the juxtaposition of space, time, and light from both internal and external perspectives of human (and non-human) relationships with water and watersheds, Erlandson can create the opportunity for awareness, understanding, and appreciation of the complexities of the world in which we live, starting with a sense of place. Ongoing - Founded in 1962 in the parlor of Annie Winkler's home, the Wilkes Art Gallery has experienced transformations over the years. The most dramatic of these was the 2004 move into the renovated 1925 North Wilkesboro Post Office building. WAG offers a variety of classes, workshops, meet-the-artists events and special outreach projects. WAG hosts exhibitions that offer community members a chance to show their work and admission is always free. Visit our online gift shop. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat., 10am-2pm. Contact: 336/667-2841 or at (www.wilkesartgallery.org).

Work by Sequoia Jacobs

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Through Apr. 6 - "9 | 9 Native South Art Show, Native Community Engaged Art - Culture - Identity - Heritage - Inspiration". The exhibition will include artworks by State and Federally recognized Indigenous Artists throughout the southeastern United States. Art placed in the show will be for sale by artists. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. We typically close for lunch from noon-1pm. Contact: call 910/521-6282 or e-mail to (nativemuseum@uncp.edu).

Work by "JP" Jermaine Powell

CAM Raleigh, 409 W. Martin Street, between Harrington and West streets, Raleigh. Main Gallery, Through Mar. 24 - "Neo-Psychedelia," featuring works by Jerstin Crosby, Chieko Murasugi, Zach Storm, Kathryn Desplanque, Tonya Solley Thornton, and Charlie Dupee. Jerstin Crosby currently makes paintings and objects assembled from layers of hand-cut and laser-cut segments, realized in saturated tones. He has used digital tools from early in his practice, starting with the emergence of programs like Microsoft Paint, which influenced his aesthetic in its colorful simplicity. Chieko Murasugi is an abstract artist who employs personal symbols, illusory forms, and irrational spaces to address questions about history, identity, and the notion of personal agency. Her current series, titled "In Loving Memory," is a tribute to her late mother, Yasue Murasugi, who died on May 31, 2022 at the age of 92. Zach Storm was born and raised in Los Angeles, CA. He received his BFA from the Corcoran College of Art+Design in Washington, DC, in 2005 and earned his Masters degree at the Maryland Institute College of Art in 2012. Coming from a family of west coast engineers and car enthusiasts, Storm's work is heavily influenced by surface detail, objects of desire and spatial illusion. Kathryn Desplanque's artwork builds universes on the edge of this one's expansion where the laws of nature are wobbly and unrecognizable. Drawing on Platonic forms, deep sea animals, fungi, and theoretical physics she imagines places that border on the inconceivable and unknowable, macroscopic or microscopic, the alien. Tonya Solley Thornton is a multidisciplinary artist fascinated by strange found objects and vintage craft materials. Her sculptures and collages, which typically feature plant-like forms with emotional resonance, grow intuitively from the colorful weird chaos that surrounds her in her studio. Charlie Dupee (they/he) is a black, white, queer, Maine-born, multi-disciplinary trash collector and visual artist. He works improvisationally with soft, goopy, sometimes lightly-used materials and occasionally in digital media. Their practice is slow, meditative, and consists largely of thinking about work—that will never be made—in an attempt to combat the trappings of hyperproductivity in american capitalism. CAM Emerging Artist Wall, Through Mar. 24 - "JP" Jermaine Powell. The goal of my artwork is to create balance between people. I travel the world and work with various communities to understand the history and the people in it. "JP" Jermaine Powell is a NC-based mixed-media designer, public artist, and locally known as a "luxury art specialist". Originally from Cleveland, OH, JP holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts from Pratt Institute, located in Brooklyn, NY. His paintings and public art projects explore the complexities of human relationships, diversity and community in regards to materialism, and consumerism. Front Window, Through Mar. 24 - "Brian Gonzales". Gonzales is an American artist born in Santa Monica, CA. He received his BFA from East Carolina University in Greenville, NC, and his MFA from the Herron School of Art and Design in Indianapolis, IN. In 2016 he moved to the United Arab Emirates where he spent 7 years teaching drawing and printmaking at the University of Sharjah, College of Fine Arts and Design. He has recently relocated to Durham, NC, where he is an assistant professor at NC Central University. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., 11am-6:30pm; Wed.-Fri., 11am-6:30pm; Sat. & Sun., noon-5pm; and 1st & 3rd Fri., open till 9pm. Contact: 919/513-0946 or at (<http://camraleigh.org/>).

Collective Arts Gallery & Ceramic Supply, 8801 Leadmine Road, Suite 103, Raleigh. Ongoing - Featuring works by local and nationally renowned artists on permanent exhibit. Hours: Tue.-Fri. 11am-7pm & Sat., 10am-6pm. Contact: 919/844-0765.

Diamante Arts & Cultural Center, 5104 Western Blvd., Suite B, Raleigh. Ongoing - The Diamante Arts & Cultural Center is a non-profit (501c3), a community grounded, arts and culture organization dedicated to the preservation, development, and promotion of the culture, heritage, and artistic expressions of the diverse Latino/Hispanic population in North Carolina. Diamante Arts and Cultural Center, the oldest Latino/Hispanic Arts and Culture organization in North Carolina, is celebrating 25 years of service. Through its programs and activities, it reaches more than 16,000 people per year. Recently, Diamante launched the Latino Artists Database, which collects information on Latino/x, and Hispanic artists in North Carolina. The information will be used to build and share opportunities for Latino artists throughout the state. Latino artists may add their information by visiting (bit.ly/Diamante-database). Hours: Tue.-Fri., 11am-5pm. Contact: 919/852-0075 or at (www.diamanteacc.org).

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Through Jan. 28 - "BLOW UP II: Inflatable Contemporary Art". The exhibit explores the medium of inflatable art with figurative, conceptual, and abstract imagery. These large-scale inflatable sculptures, conceived by nine artists and art collectives, connote fun and whimsy, are familiar yet strange, and challenge the definition of art. Here, in an unusual feat, artists use air as an active tool in their work to subvert our perspective and surprise us. Inflatables have a long history, dating as far back as the 18th century, and were initially perceived as innovative, if not magical, objects. Today, inflatables are often associated with happy memories. Lawn inflatables, bouncy houses, and party balloons are ubiquitous at holidays and celebrations. Water wings, inflatable inner tubes, and rafts conjure thrilling vacation memories. The awe-inspiring hot air balloon challenges our feet-on-the-ground perspective, allowing us to levitate and explore the land from above like a bird. The inflatable is also well-known for its effective marketing abilities. Who hasn't been drawn to the dancing street inflatable near the shopping center or the massive blimp with a scrolling electronic sign flying over a stadium? Plain and simple: humans are attracted to inflatables. However, what happens to our experience of large, art-filled objects – typically encountered outdoors – when we place them in an art gallery and play with their scale? The result is what you will find in "BLOW UP II", the second iteration of Bedford Gallery's traveling inflatable exhibition. This show's roster of artists includes: Nicole Banowitz, Sharon Engelstien, FriendsWithYou, Josh Harker, Susan Lee-Chun, Matt Ritchie, Lizbeth Rossof, Jen Stark, and Max Streicher—many of whom have never worked in the inflatable medium previously. Through Apr. 13 - "Leading by Design: Celebrating 75 Years of the College of Design". NC State's School (now College) of Design became a reality in September 1948, and rapidly gained a reputation as one of the top design schools in the nation. The most progressive school of architecture and allied arts in the South, it served as a hub of modernist creativity for the entire region and greatly influenced the landscape and architecture found throughout the Triangle Area today. "Leading by Design" celebrates the design school's legacy by showcasing artworks from the Gregg Museum's permanent collection created by professors and instructors associated with it in its formative years along with an audiovisual element that marks its ongoing impact in the 21st century. Ongoing - "Selections from the Collections". Image of a beige quilt with a skeleton riding a wolf holding an American flag. The quilt is made out of old t-shirts. Drawing from the Gregg Museum's collections of over 54,000 objects, Selections from the Collections displays a sampling of the many different kinds of pieces in its holdings. Though objects in the exhibition will rotate from time to time to facilitate their preservation and so that different artists and kinds of objects can be exhibited, the same general themes, materials, and variety of work will remain a part of this ongoing exhibition. For many years, Gregg audiences have been treated to wide ranging but relatively short-term exhibitions that explore topics or present artists' works for a matter of months, and then get changed out and replaced by entirely new shows. While this will continue, most visitors have departed without realizing that the Gregg staff also maintains vast collections used for teaching, research, supporting student projects, and, on occasion, as source material for the exhibitions in the public galleries. The semi-permanent Selections from the Collections exhibition in the historic Residence seeks to remedy that. This new rotating installation will ensure that there will always be fascinating things to see and share at the Gregg! Historic Residence, Ongoing - One of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm. The Gregg does ask that larger groups (15+) call ahead at (919) 515-3503, to avoid crowding in the galleries. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. East Building, Level B, Photography Gallery 2 (Allen G. Thomas Jr. Gallery), Through Jan. 28 - "The Surrealist Impulse". The early 20th-century movement surrealism was groundbreaking for its time. Developed in response to the travesty of World War I, the art and literary phenomenon invigorated artists and thinkers to explore dreams, the irrational and uncanny, and the poetic in their works. These principles reverberate in the 21st century, where surrealism remains a chief inspiration. In this exhibition artworks are brought together to illustrate a surrealist impulse that exists in contemporary art. Works like Carolyn Janssen's large-scale ~(G.O.E.D.)~ depict fantastical worlds that seem plucked from the chasms of the inner psyche. The black-and-white photographs of Kristina Rogers adopt techniques of cropping and layering to blur reality and subtly serve as societal critiques. From these specific qualities and others, the artworks on view exhibit surrealist tendencies and demonstrate how many contemporary artists revel - whether discreetly or not - in the movement's legacy. East Building, Level B, Photography Gallery 1 (Julian T. Baker Jr. Gallery), Through Jan. 28 - "Luis Rey Velasco". Luis Rey Velasco (b. 1969) creates evocative photographs that capture labor histories, cultural traditions, and everyday people. He came of age in the San Joaquin Valley, a region of California where the history of Latinx farm labor is intrinsic to its identity. Mexican migrant workers arrived in the 1940s due to a set of agreements between the United States and Mexico. The program ended in 1964, but immigration to the region continued. Immersed in this history, Velasco moved to North Carolina in 1999 to photograph children of migrant farm workers. Featured in this exhibition are a selection of photographs Velasco executed between 1998 and 2005, many portraying members of farm worker communities in California and North Carolina. These compelling images emphasize his longtime focus on communities, histories, and regions that are largely hidden yet integral to the American economy. Ongoing - "Break the Mold: New Takes on Traditional Art Making". The exhibit showcases contemporary artists who use traditional modes of art making and crafting to tackle timely subject matter. Innovative takes on embroidery, ceramics, quilting, furniture, interior design, and fashion accessories serve to explore diverse topics such as gender assumptions and inequalities, prison reform, racial justice, memory, and loss, as well as how objects transmit and transform social and cultural history. This show features 25 contemporary artists, including Sanford Biggers, Elizabeth Brim, Maria Britton, Julie Cockburn, Rodney McMillan, Rachel Meginnes, Katy Mixon, Gabriel de la Mora, Yasumasa Morimura, Thomas Schmidt, Shinique Smith, and Do Ho Suh, whose artworks are displayed alongside some of their historical predecessors. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection.

Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

displays thirty-seven unique lanterns in a variety of mediums, illuminating their Studio One gallery space. Artists represented hail from beyond Wilmington, including artists from Raleigh, Carboro, Asheville and as far way as Adrian, MI. Some of the lanterns hang, some rest on pedestals, while others invite viewers to walk around them on the floor. "Illumination 2023" includes lanterns made from many media- including handmade paper, metal, glass, reclaimed plastic, found objects, recycled cords. The themes they address range- including joy, resilience, shadows, humor, remembrance, nature. Through Jan. 14 - "Lugar de Encuentros/Place of Encounters," featuring works by Nico Amortegui, Cornelio Campos, Rodrigo Dorfman, Mario Marzan, Renzo Ortega, and Rosalia Torres-Weiner. "Lugar de Encuentros/Place of Encounters", is a new and important exhibition celebrating the work of six LatinX North Carolina based artists. North Carolina is home to a rich diversity of voices, and this is reflected in its community of Latin American artists. Work from "Place of Encounters / Lugar de Encuentros" often straddles two worlds, reflecting both birthplace and chosen home, exploring both tension and harmony in the relationship between the two. From film to installation art to paintings to photography, this exhibition delves into the variety of migrant experiences, offering a space for connection, a chance to encounter another's experience through art. The LatinX community in North Carolina has swelled from 1.2% in 1990 to 10.7% of the total population in 2020, reshaping the demography, economy, and culture of the state. Reflecting and celebrating community lies at the very heart of Cameron Art Museum's mission, making "Lugar de Encuentros/Place of Encounters" a necessary and important exhibition for Wilmington, the state, and the entire Nuevo South. Jan. 21 - Mar. 3 - "3 Artists: Work of Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin, and Karen Paden Crouch". A reception, film screening and panel discussion to benefit CAM's Educational Programming on Jan. 28, at 3pm. Tickets are $40 for CAM Member/$60 for Not-Yet Members and all proceeds benefit CAM's educational programming. These three short films, produced by Art in Bloom Gallery, directed by Christina Capra and edited by Jessie Robertson focus on three dynamic Wilmington artists: Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin and Karen Paden Crouch. Painter and collage maker Elizabeth Darrow's work is the subject of the film "Believing in the Process", ceramist and mixed media artist Gayle Tustin's work is the subject of the film "Seeking Freedom Through Art", and sculptor Karen Paden Crouch's work is the subject of In the "Land of Make Believe: An Artist's Journey". In conjunction with this event CAM highlights works of these artists in a temporary exhibition titled "Three Artists: Works of Elizabeth Darrow, Gayle Tustin, and Karen Paden Crouch". Through Mar. 31 - "Monument," a new exhibition featuring work by nationally and internationally renowned artists Sonya Clark, Willie Cole, Stephen Hayes, Juan Logan, Alison Saar, Augustus Saint-Gaudens, and Kara Walker. The exhibition, received funding from the National Endowment for the Arts. "Monument" takes inspiration from Boundless", the public sculpture on Cameron Art Museum's grounds by Stephen Hayes honoring the United States Colored Troops (USCT) and their fight for freedom. Through their work, artists Sonya Clark, Willie Cole, Stephen Hayes, Juan Logan, Alison Saar, Augustus Saint-Gaudens, Kara Walker, and others create a dialogue acknowledging, questioning, and confronting the idea of commemoration in the built environment in the United States. Exhibition includes loans from Nasher Museum of Art at Duke University, Saint-Gaudens National Historical Park and the collection of the Cameron Art Museum. Ongoing - Cameron Art Museum presents the only sculpture park in the country created to honor the United States Colored Troops and their fight for freedom. The opening of PNC USCT Park marks the one-year anniversary of the unveiling of Boundless, the public sculpture by artist Stephen Hayes that commemorates the United States Colored Troops and the Battle of Forks Road. This park creates a gathering space for the more than 60,000 visitors from across the country who come to CAM each year and the 8,000 school children who visit the museum on field trips. PNC USCT Park will become a community space for gathering, field trips, classes, workshops, storytelling, live music and USCT living history events for years to come, in which the sculpture Boundless will be the centerpiece. Pancoe Art Education Center, Exhibition Cases, Ongoing - View some of the Seagrove and contemporary pottery from the museum's permanent collection in the cases. John Singleton Copley, "Portrait of Mrs. Daniel Rogers (Elizabeth Gorham Rogers)", 1762, Wake Forest University, Hanes Collection, Gift of Philip and Charlotte Hanes - Reynolda House Museum

Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. Northwest Bedroom Gallery, Through Oct. 27 - "Good Impressions: Portraits Across Three Centuries from Reynolda and Wake Forest". Portraits are often taken at face value—as accurate representations of a person's appearance, sometimes removed by decades or centuries. But portraits are often the products of delicate negotiations between artist and subject. Sometimes they flatter, exaggerating the sitter's beauty or rich attire. Sometimes they capture the subject engaged in his or her occupation, whether pausing during study or painting in his or her studio. Sometimes they celebrate an auspicious occasion, such as a recent engagement or the imminent birth of a child. This exhibition features three centuries of portraits of men and women, Black and White, solitary and companionate, classic and modern. "Good Impressions" was mounted to mark the recent conservation treatment of John Singleton Copley's 1762 Portrait of "Mrs. Daniel Rogers"

(Elizabeth Gorham Rogers) in the collection of Wake Forest University, and Reynolda House's recent acquisition of Kwame Brathwaite's 1973 photograph "Changing Times". Master Bedroom Gallery, Through Dec. 31, 2024 - "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda". "Into a daybreak that's wondrously clear / I rise." Maya Angelou's poem "Still I Rise," published in 1978, was an assertion of dignity and resilience in the face of oppression. In the 1980s, Angelou used Reynolda as her stage, sharing words of humanity, survival, and triumph. But before her, numerous Black lives impacted and intersected with the story of Reynolda. "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda" examines the lives of the Black women and men who helped shape Reynolda as it evolved from a Jim Crow era working estate into a museum for American art. Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9:30am-4:30pm & Sun., 1:30-4:30pm. Contact: 336/725-5325 or at (<https://reynolda.org/>).

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art, 750 Marguerite Drive, Winston-Salem. Main Gallery, Through Mar. 10 - "The Threads We Follow," a group exhibition of fiber-based works by leading global artists. Over several centuries, artists and craftspeople have used fiber to challenge identity-based oppression throughout various global cultures. Many of these artists specifically contemplate the historic devaluation of textiles based upon their association with domestic labor and craft making, where women and communities of color have long interpreted social politics. "The Threads We Follow" includes works by: Aliyah Bonnette, Amalia Galdona Broche, Ambrose Rhapsody Murray, April Bey, Basil Kincaid, Cynthia Alberto, Ebony G. Patterson, John Paul Morabito, Lakea Shepard, Lien Truong, and Pia Camil. Ongoing - Founded in 1956, the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art offers a front-row seat to the art of our time.

Through visual art exhibitions, education, music, film, dance and theater, SECCA starts conversations that engage diverse communities and perspectives. NC Commercial Galleries

Virtual Exhibits

Artsville Collective in the Asheville, NC, area proudly presents the Virtual Gallery of Artists (VGA) program, an initiative designed to help elevate the careers of local artists. VGA offers artists a unique opportunity to gain global exposure, valuable marketing skills, and an array of promotional resources. The VGA program invites individual artists to apply for three months of marketing exposure through print, digital, and podcast platforms. Artsville provides guidance on building relationships with the press and art buyers, empowering artists by coming alongside them and forming connections. Notably, Artsville does not take any commissions on art sales, ensuring artists keep their full earnings. For further information about Artsville programs and opportunities, contact Meredith McBride by e-mail at (mccoy.louisemcb@gmail.com), call 828/216-8050 or visit (<https://www.artsvilleusa.com/>).

Work by Eric Knoche

Blue Spiral 1, 38 Biltmore Ave., Asheville. Main Level Gallery, Jan. 5 - Feb. 21 - "Lay It On: Impasto, Stacking, + Layering," featuring works by: Austin Ballard, Lainard Bush, Charles Ladson, Brian Rego, Jon Rollins, Heidi Tarver, Gregor Turk, and Katie Walker. The artists in "Lay it On" enhance their chosen mediums to construct intricately layered surfaces; canvases are enriched with countless coats of paint, bowls are stacked with bicycle innertubes, clay vases are embellished with intricate pattern overlays. Through these works, the artists showcase the diverse ways in which paint, fiber, collage, and clay can be generously applied or altered. Lowel Level Gallery, Jan. 5 - Feb. 21 - "Color Stories," features works by: Jean Gumper, Chris Liberti, Connie Lippert, Ed Nash, Michael Pones, and Hayden Wilson. "Color Stories" explores how color is used as a driving force of design and concept in art. Artists in this exhibition use color in different ways; some assimilate it to create a moody atmosphere; some use it to distinguish objects; some create pattern and design; some use it to express emotion and emphasize a narrative. Small Format Gallery, Jan. 5 - Feb. 21 - "Eric Knoche: Circles." In Eric Knoche's solo exhibition, he uniquely shapes clay through diverse hand-building techniques. Eschewing sketches or maquettes, he collaborates with the clay, guiding each form intuitively. The wood-fired surfaces, imbued with patina, emerge from a dynamic interplay of results from materials-used, kiln placement, and firing technique; echoing influences of ancient architecture and the earth itself. Showcase Gallery, Jan. 5 - Feb. 21 - "Charles Goolsby, Frank Hursh, Zack Noble". Black Mountain College painter Frank Hursh, sculptor Zack Noble, and painter Charles Goolsby unite in an exhibition that explores the emotive interplay between line and shape. Noble forges steel into stoic designs, while Hursh and Goolsby use concentrated gestural strokes and monumental shapes to formulate their paintings. Displayed together, their works harmoniously capture both intimate and colossal configurations. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by regional, national and international artists. Hours: Sun.-Tue., 11am-5pm & Wed.-Sat., 11am-6pm. Contact: 828/251-0202 or at (www.bluespiral1.com).

Work by Judi Moore

Sunset River Gallery, 10283 Beach Drive SW, Calabash. Jan. 6 - Feb. 3 - "Selfie". A reception will be held on Jan. 6, from 2-4pm. According to gallery director Samantha Spalti, Sunset River Gallery announces its first show of 2024, Selfie, a juried group show featuring a range of art works inspired by the concept of "selfie." Spalti said, "We thought it would be fun and interesting to explore the psychology of selfies, so we've invited regional artists to open up and show us their true selves – at a given moment. "I think a selfie is 'in the moment,' a representation of where the artist is at that moment rather than a formal portrait. I'm finding that people are taking the idea of 'selfie' in different directions, and I love that!" The show features 25+ works in a range of media including photography, mixed media, acrylic, and more. Spalti adds, "Some are straight forward, and others are more contemplative. Ongoing - Sunset River Gallery is a gallery where art lovers and investors at almost every level can find extraordinary art. The gallery serves the regional community in the Carolinas by representing exceptional local artists and also carries original work by internationally renowned artists. Its location in Calabash, North Carolina gives the gallery an advantage over many in major metropolitan areas. The large 10,000 square foot gallery offers the very low overhead of a gallery-owned facility in a cost-efficient location. Online reach has made this possible. It allows Sunset River to provide excellent works from the 20th Century Modern and Contemporary categories at better pricing than high-overhead galleries. New owner Larry Johnson from Bethesda, MD, has bought and sold art through major and middle-market auctions around the world for two decades. He has been an amateur painter and sculptor for years, achieving a minor in fine art from Purdue University. The gallery has added a new 20th Century Art installation, featuring rare and valuable fine and modern art, primarily impressionist and abstract. FrameCenter hours are Wed. - Fri., noon- 5pm and by appt. Call Lou Aliotta directly at 910/368-7351. Gallery Hours: Mon.-Sat., 11am-5pm. Contact: 910/575-5999 or at (sunsetrivergallery.com).

Work by John Beerman

Craven Allen Gallery, 1106 1/2 Broad St., Durham. Through Jan. 6 - "John Beerman: Seen and Unseen/Paintings of North Carolina and Normandy". In "Seen and Unseen," renowned painter John Beerman brings together new work created both at home here in North Carolina, and abroad in Normandy, France. "To see freshly, to discover something luminous below the surface of the commonplace is my challenge," says John Beerman. "By laying down paint on canvas, I try to represent a moment in time with its subtle order and its specific nuances of color and light." Perfect lighting conditions can be fleeting, so Beerman will often revisit a location for days in a row at an appointed time to create small plein air studies. These studies are then taken back to his studio, where he spends months translating them into large-scale paintings. Experimentation and discovery are at the core of Beerman's artistic practice. Ongoing - Featuring local artists in various mediums. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-6pm & Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact: 919/286-4837 or at (www.cravenallengallery.com).

Burk Uzzle Studio, 106 Douglas Street E, Wilson. Ongoing - Burk Uzzle's career, like his pictures, is a nuanced composition blending American culture, individual psyches of particular places and people, and an atypical way of seeing ourselves, our values, and our community. Always respectful yet locating the poignant or quirky, the history of his narrative belongs to all of us. Initially grounded in documentary photography when he was the youngest photographer hired by "LIFE magazine" at age 23, his work grew into a combination of split-second impressions reflecting the human condition during his tenure as a member of the prestigious international Magnum cooperative founded by one of his mentors Henri Cartier-Bresson. His archive spans almost six decades. His current work rests deep in photographic appreciation of the quiet, strong, and eloquent beauty he discovers in America's small towns and its people. It is along small back roads, limned with feelings and a surety of surprise for the heart wide open, that continue to support his understanding of how America keeps its personality out on a limb. Uzzle's current bodies of work (some of which are African-American) are artful and constructed reflections of his subjects. His hope is for a graphic presentation of something universal within the particular, and all the better when involving a gentle chuckle and knowing smile. He is represented by SOCO Gallery in Charlotte, NC and Tracy Morgan Gallery in Asheville, NC. Hours: by appt. Contact: 252/363-1812 or e-mail to (burk@burkuzzle.com).
