Charleston Artist Guild Features Works by Dorothy Allston Rogers

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present Anchored in Charleston, featuring works by Dorothy Allston Rogers, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Sept. 1 - 30, 2015. A reception will be held on Sept. 4, from 5-8pm.

Rogers' artwork carries a sense of peace, calm and reflection that flows from a heart rooted in the Holy City and steeped in salt-water and pluff mud. Her paintings capture the love and inspiration she feels for her ancestral home, Charleston, SC.

Rogers' interest in art began at an early age where she earned many awards during her scholastic career. Her art training began at the College of Charleston, with a focus on drawing, as well as oil painting. She completed her college studies with a degree in Studio Art from the University of South Carolina, and was granted a year-long university internship as an apprentice in a successful art studio. This experience revealed the importance of using high-grade materials and museum-quality preservation methods to insure the artwork will last for generations. Through her 40 years of being in the art world, Rogers has participated in many art workshops as a student, as well as an instructor in numerous drawing, acrylic, and watercolor classes.

Rogers is a sixth-generation Charleston native, growing up the youngest of 10 children in a farming family on property overlooking the Intra-Coastal Waterway just south of Charleston. Her formative years were in an environment of farming, crabbing, fishing, clam digging, gathering oysters, casting for shrimp, and generally being outside. Rogers still enjoys these activities, and frequently sets up her easel alongside her fishing rod. She states, "I hope that my art blesses the viewer with fond memories of soaking in the lowcountry lifestyle."

Rogers and husband, Jerry, have been married for 34 years, and have three children. The artist's work can be seen on Yorges Island at Capt. Jimmy Bell's Restaurant, on Edisto at With These Hands Gallery and also at the Charleston Artist Guild Gallery on E. Bay Street in historic downtown Charleston.
