Raleigh

Artspace, 201 E. Davie Street, Moore Square Art District, behind City Market, Raleigh. Gallery One, Through Jan. 17 - "Fine Contemporary Craft of the Southeast". A reception will be held on Dec. 5, from 6-10pm. Twenty-six artists and craftspeople from Virginia to Arkansas will be featured in the biennial exhibition juried by Stefanie Gerber Darr, Gallery Manager of Arrowmont School of the Arts in Tennessee. Darr selected with an eye for both tradition and boundariespushing, and noted that theme became how function became the directive to push artists toward inventiveness. Gallery Two, Through Jan. 31 - "Threads of War," guest curated by Betsy Greer. Greer is a writer, a researcher, and a maker. She earned her MA in Sociology from Goldsmiths College in London in 2004. She is the author of "Knitting for Good!" and most recently. "Craftivism: The Art of Craft and Activism". The exhibition will feature art by four international artist activists/activist groups, including Roberta Bacic (Chile), Hanne Bang (Denmark), Chalina de la Esperanza (Peru), and The Combat Paper Project (San Francisco, CA). The groups all work with stitching and fibers to create art with the goal to change the world by advocating peace. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm. Contact: 919/821-2787 or at (www.artspacenc.org).

Work by John Menapace

Historic Chancellor's Residence, NCSU, 1903 Hillsborough Street, the future site of the Gregg Museum, Raleigh. Through Feb. 6 - "SMOKES AND MIRRORS: Reflections of the Self in Photographs by John Menapace," guest-curated by Belén Morata and Sammy Kirby. Menapace has been called "the father of fine art photography in North Carolina," and his entire life's work (nearly 30,000 negatives and 6,500 prints) has been gifted to the university. In 1955, 28-year-old John Menapace decided to quit his job at Oxford University Press and head off to Mexico on a motorcycle. He bought a second-hand camera to record the trip. Somehow the plan fell through, but the camera opened up a whole new way of seeing. By the time he moved to Durham, NC, the following year to work for Duke University Press, his camera had become an almost constant companion, second only to the cigarettes he famously chain-smoked. Hours: by appt. Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244.

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Through Jan. 4 - "Small Treasures," the first major exhibition to focus on small-scale paintings from the Dutch and Flemish Golden Age. Works by Rembrandt, Vermeer, and other Old Masters invite audiences to look closely at vivid details and incredible technique exhibited in tiny paintings. The exhibit includes more than 60 small paintings by many of the greatest masters from the Dutch and Flemish Golden Age. These small-scale works -- most of which are less than 10 in. tall and wide—were an important part of many artists' practices but have historically been overlooked by scholars and museum exhibitions. The NCMA will give them overdue attention and its accompanying catalogue, which will be the first publication to exclusively explore these small-scale works and will include full-size reproductions of each of the paintings in the exhibition. East Building, Level A, Photography Galleries, Through Mar. 22 - "Private Eye: Allen G. Thomas Jr. Photography Collection". The exhibit features a selection of contemporary photographs from a promised gift to the Museum by Allen G. Thomas Jr. in honor of Dr. Lawrence Wheeler's 20th anniversary as director of the NCMA. Ranging in date from 1993 to 2011, the photographs in the exhibition are by Jeff Bark, Matthew Baum, Jordi Bernadó, Jesse Burke, Anthony Goicolea, Bill Jacobson, Chris Jordan, Sze Tsung Leong, Chris McCaw, Ryan McGinley, Zwelethu Mthethwa, Robert and Shana ParkeHarrison, Jack Pierson, Kerry Skarbakka, Alec Soth, and Shen Wei. The works on view cover a range of photographic techniques and processes, from "straight" photography to highly manipulated, staged, and constructed images. Including expressive portraits, otherworldly landscapes, and abstractions of the natural world, these photographs provide both an introduction to the diversity of contemporary photography and the very personal and passionate point of view of one singular collector. East Building, Level B, Jan. 9 - Apr. 12 - "Jason Mitcham Video Installations". "These animations began from a need to incorporate time into a painting involving a specific site," artist Jason Mitcham has stated. By altering his paintings mark by mark, Mitcham is able to add both a sensation of time and the fluidity of movement to an otherwise static art form. Each brushstroke-adding up to hundreds or thousands for each video he creates—is meant to "bridge the one before it and the one that will follow it," he says. "More than likely it will be overlaid later on, by other marks needed to tell another part of the story." Hence his paintings are in a constant state of flux throughout their animated life—a strange yet freeing sensation for both artist and viewer, as their notions of what a painting can be are ultimately challenged. "The painting must be allowed to destroy itself in order to become itself," Mitcham says. North Carolina Gallery, Through Mar. 8 - "Line, Touch, Trace". Organized by Greenhill in Greensboro, NC, the exhibition highlights hand-drawn works by 13 North Carolina artists who use graphite, ballpoint ben, conte crayon, ink, or cnarcoai to explore drawing in its relationship to thought processes. Line may be used to precisely render contours or as calligraphy on the drawing's surface; touch builds tonal values or erases edges; and traced marks may suggest elements of an imagined topography. The artists use line, touch, and trace in works that communicate mental states, project invented worlds, or portray moments of contemplation. The range of approaches presented attests to the effervescence of drawing and its contribution to contemporary art. West Building, Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass
