North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, Feature Mint Museum's NC Pottery Collection

The North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, is presenting the exhibit, Collecting North Carolina Pottery for 75 Years, featuring pots from the Mint Museum's Permanent Collection and local collectors, on view through Jan. 28, 2012, in conjunction with an exhibit of the same name on view at the Mint Museum Randolph in Charlotte, NC, on view through Jan. 5, 2013.

The North Carolina Pottery Center celebrates the 75th Anniversary of the Mint Museum as an art institution with the special exhibition, Collecting North Carolina Pottery for 75 Years. In this exhibition, the Mint acknowledges the vital role of collectors, past and present, in making its North Carolina pottery collection one of the largest and most important in the country. The exhibition includes both ceramics from the museum's permanent collection and exceptional loans from local collectors. The objects were carefully selected to represent all the major pottery centers of the state - The Piedmont, Catawba Valley and the mountains are represented, as are most of the state's family dynasties of potters, such as the Coles, the Cravens, the Owens and the Reinhardtts.

More than 75 examples by some of the great potters of the past, including Burlon Craig and Oscar Bachelder, will be on view, as will be wares by some of the most exciting ceramic artists working in North Carolina today.

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be Dec. 24th for the January 2012 issue and Jan. 24 for the February 2012 issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month. But don't wait for the last minute - send your info now.

And where do you send that info?

E-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com) or mail to:
Carolina Arts, P.O. Drawer 427, Bonneau, SC 29431

Sometimes you need to invite people to come and participate in your art. Seeing leads to buying, buying leads to exhibitions, exhibitions demand the creative process to continue. Start your cycle with our next issue.
