The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Dec. 1 - Apr. 2, 2017 - "Snow Days in Charleston: The Great Blizzard of 1899," an exhibit curated by Archivist and Collections Manager, Jennifer McCormick. The photographs in this new exhibit will feature images from the "Great Blizzard of 1899." For two weeks in February, a massive snow storm swept across the United States. Also referred to as the "Great Arctic Outbreak of 1899," this storm of snow and ice brought bone-chilling cold from the Arctic that lasted from Feb. 6 - 14, 1899. Through Jan. 31, 2017 - "Black and White: Plantation Scenes of South Carolina," an exhibit curated by Archivist and Collections Manager, Jennifer McCormick. South Carolina's Lowcountry plantations, producing both rice and Sea Island cotton, were once a major source of revenue for the region's wealthy elite. The use of enslaved labor to grow and harvest these crops created a unique existence between slave and owner that required a close but vastly different lifestyle. This exhibit will feature images of plantation houses and slave cabins along with the fields and rivers that once intertwined the lives of black and white inhabitants. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charlestonmuseum.org).

Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts. College of Charleston School of the Arts.161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through Dec. 10 - "Peter Eudenbach: This is Not an Object". This exhibition features work by Virginia-based conceptual artist Peter Eudenbach, who creates objects investigating "the relationship between function and absurdity." Using sculpture, installation, and video, Eudenbach explores the history of art and science while toying with our expectations of the commonplace. He often creates multiples and edition pieces and as Eudenbach states, "The ideas normally emerge from a search for poetry among serendipitous juxtapositions." Through Dec. 10 - "Sara Angelucci: Aviary". Angelucci's practice is based in photography, video and audio, exploring vernacular photographs and films, and analyzing the original context in which images are made. Drawing attention to conventions of image making, her work foregrounds the

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Lipscomb Family Galleries, Through Mar. 12, 2017 - "Making Maps: The Art of James Williams". Through a series of works drawing upon the ancient tradition of cartography, Williams acts as a traveler, using paint, ink, tape, graphite, and paper-weaving techniques to explore various spaces through maps of dense, lavered color. This is the third and final iteration of Spoken, an exhibition series which highlights the unique perspectives and powerful voices of African-American artists, many of whom are represented in the museum's collection. One Gallery, Through Dec. 4 - "Toulouse-Lautrec Works on Paper Featuring the Robbie Barnett and Kathy Olson Collection." This exhibition offers an intimate glimpse into the artistic spirit of the great 19th-century artist Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec. Born an aristocrat, Toulouse-Lautrec created art that was inseparable from his rakish lifestyle. His career lasted just over a decade and coincided with two major developments in late 19th-century Paris: the birth of modern printmaking and the explosion of nightlife culture. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's
