Cary Arts Center, 101 Dry Avenue, Cary. Cary Arts Center Gallery, Through Apr. 22 - "Catching Ourselves: Megan Bostic, Dawn Surratt, and Heather Lewis". As the result of a profound loss, grief is a natural, inescapable part of living. For these artists, grief has become an integral part of their lives, and in the way they create art. Their grief has also served as a catalyst: catalyst to make connections as part of the healing process, catalyst to create pieces that engage the public with uncomfortable topics and catalyst to give voice and visualization to their experiences. Catching Ourselves will explore how grief changes over time and how grief changes us over time. Cary Arts Center Principal's Hall, Through Apr. 22 - "Seeing While Being Seen: Dancers in Action by Steve Clarke". Since becoming involved with photography in 1995, Steve Clarke has worked with dancers in action, practitioners of yoga, and other performers. His approach is interactive rather than documentary: his images involve collaboration and improvisation with the subject rather than documentation of previously-composed action. Clarke is particularly interested in exploration and discovery on the subject's part, stimulated by the presence of the camera and the feedback and perspective that it provides. Clarke's book of dance photographs, Seeing While Being Seen, was published in 2004 by the National Dance Association. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-10pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-11pm. While powerful conventional thinking in the 18th-century France assigned women to limited and secondary roles based on the presumed dictates of biology, some voices began arguing that women were the potential equal of men in intelligence, creativity, responsibility, and power. This exhibition shows for the first time how artists in the Enlightenment explored all sides of the debate surrounding "the woman question." Through Aug. 31 - "Step Right Up," an outdoor installation by sculptor Patrick Dougherty. The Ackland Art Museum at The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has commissioned its first major site-specific, outdoor art installation in nearly 20 years: a "stickwork" sculpture by Chapel Hill-based artist Patrick Dougherty entitled "Step Right Up". It is on view 24/7 in front of the Ackland Art Museum. The Collection Galleries, Through May 18 - "The Collection Galleries". In the Spring 2018 noted Los Angeles based artist Toni Scott will bring her creative talents to the Stone

Center through a special installation project in the Robert and Sallie Brown Gallery and Museum. The installation project continues a line of inquiry and creativity Scott has pursued in successful shows in China and the Middle East where she intertwined histories of African American, Native American and Europeans in her own ancestry. The Brown Gallery welcomes her new exhibition entitled "Aswarm With the Spirits of All Ages Here: Inconceivable Spaces of Slavery and Freedom". The title is adapted from a passage of UNC at Chapel Hill professor Bland Simpson's memoir "The Great Dismal, a Carolinian's Swamp Memoir," about the Great Dismal Swamp, long understood to be a place of refuge for enslaved persons. In it Simpson notes the presence of spirits in a place long thought to be inhabitable: "This vast wild region is a place well fit for a grand gathering of ghosts, a place simultaneously aswarm with the spirits of all ages here, of fin, feather, and manflesh; nor am I exempt." Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Second Floor Gallery, Through July 8 - "ALFRED MANESSIER," an exhibition of paintings and prints by an artist who sought to create contemplative images where the natural and spiritual realms would converge, offering spaces for both respite and resistance. In addition to landscape-inspired paintings, the show includes Manessier's illustrations for St. John of the Cross' "Spiritual Canticles", Eugène Guillevic's "Cymbalum", and the elephantine portfolio "Presentation of the Beauce at Notre-Dame of Chartres". Born in 1911, Manessier moved to Paris in 1929 to study architecture at the École des Beaux Arts. He spent much of his time copying the Louvre's Rembrandts and Tintoretts and finally made a decisive switch to painting in 1938. Initially he followed the Cubists, constructing latticed compositions that incorporated the ordered structure of architecture. His style changed, however, as Europe inched closer to war. Manessier chose religious subjects because they seemed as elusive and vast as the natural world. Towards the end of his life, he reflected on his 40 years of painting spiritual themes, saying they "were at my fingertips and at the same time, infinite." Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Dr. Whitfield-Locke and her husband, Dr. Carnell Locke, are avid art collectors and are also committed supporters of artists and African-American art institutions. The exhibition highlights selected works from their extensive collection which were either created by female artists or feature women as the subject. Like their larger collection, this exhibition represents a comprehensive history of art-making in general, and African-American art, specifically. Sculpture, sketches, oils, acrylics, paintings and collages fill the gallery. Masterpieces by pioneering women including Betye Saar, Camille Billops, Samella Lewis, Elizabeth Catlett, Emma Amos, Lois Mailou Jones, Faith Ringgold, and Augusta Savage headline the exhibition. The Lockes have also gathered work by E. J. Montgomery, Howardena Pindell, and Jacob Lawrence's wife, Gwendolyn Knight. Works by multi-media artists such as Robin Holder, Clarissa Sligh, Margo Humphrey and Alison Saar also appear in the gallery. Through July 29 - "A Creative Journey: The Collection of Judy and Patrick Diamond," curated by Dr. Michael D. Harris. The collection began during a year-long residence in East Africa when the couple were fresh out of graduate school and has continued throughout their life together. Their metaphorical journey reflects the geographic journey of their lives from Boston, where they met, to stops in Tanzania, Williamstown, Massachusetts, Chicago, Charlotte and Atlanta. Featured artists include: Benny Andrews (1930 - 2006); Radcliffe Bailey (b. 1968); Romare Bearden (1911 - 1988); Tarleton Blackwell (b. 1956); Margaret T. Burroughs (1917 - 2010); Sam Gilliam (b. 1933); Richard Hunt (b. 1935); Jacob Lawrence (1917 - 2002); Hughie Lee-Smith (1915 - 1999); Juan Logan (b. 1946); Jeanne Moutoussamy-Ashe (b. 1951); Ben Parrish; Cedric Smith (b. 1970); Henry O. He has had articles on contemporary African art and African-American art published in a number of books and journals. Through July 29 - "Lillian Blades: Mirrors of Life." Picture frames, buttons, flowers, wood blocks, mirrors and other objects – random to some, but symbolic to Lillian Blades – represent both the artist's past and present. Far from chaotic, viewing her work yields an unexpected calm and sense of wonder. These images, like most of her mixed-media collages, incorporate an array of patterns using found objects that seem to float on planes of bright and dark colors with each object holding a special meaning to the artist – picture frames are about capturing memories; buttons symbolize the loss of her mother - a seamstress - and the desire to remain connected; flowers represent her grandmother and her aunt who were both florists. In addition, these objects are also subjective – leaving room for interpretation and self-reflection by the viewer. Lillian Blades was born in Nassau, Bahamas in 1973 and currently resides in Atlanta, GA. She completed a BFA in Painting at the Savannah College of Art
